Voter Turnout Brisk, Polls Open Till 9 P.M.

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Brisk voter turnout and brisk fall weather marked Election Day, 1967.

The day is not yet over as voters will have until 9 p. m. to register their preference on a number of hotly contested issues.

Locally, the mayoralty race in the City of Kingston goes down to the wire after a highly vocal campaign. C. John Bechtold, Republican-Liberal candidate, seeks to unseat incumbent Raymond W. Garrahan who carries Democrat-Conservative banner.

County contests are marked by the new county legislator system replacing the board of supervisors. Early this morning snags were reported in three districts of the town of Rosendale when voters tried to split their party choice and discovered the machines were not programmed for over-voting. Custodians were busy rectifying this adjustment in Districts 1, 2 and 3.

Other minor machine difficulties were reported throughout the county causing some delays in voting.

Early bird voters turned out in goodly numbers in the city and most of the towns. Reports ranged from good to very heavy. District 8, at the Chambers School, Town of Ulster, recorded 140 voters in the first few hours after the polls opened at 6 a. m.

In Ulster's District 5, some 150 voters had trekked to the polls by 10:30 a. m. Possible voters registered number 495.

Perhaps the heavy early vote was spurred by weather predictions of overcast skies and possible snow flurries across the state. Snow-hampered Buffalo reports "light" voting.

State issues figure largely in the "off-year" election with the controversial proposed constitution leading the list.

The state charter has received the blessing of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Constitutional Convention President Anthony J. Travia. Incorporating repeal of the so-called Blaine Amendment, the constitution has been under fire from a number of sources.

Pollsters predict the constitution will be rejected but see passage of Governor Rockefeller's request for a record-breaking $2.5 billion bond issue for transportation. Highway construction, and public transportation agencies stand to benefit from the project.

The two amendments up for voted approval are expected to pass also.

Amendment No. 1 would authorize the Legislature to increase state guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 to $200 million.

Amendment No. 2 would permit the state to build and operate a ski center with up to 30 miles of trails in the Blue Ridge Range of the Adirondack Forest Preserve in Essex County.

The second amendment has stirred the "forever wild" proponents to contention that the state must protect the forest preserve and not compete with private enterprise in the ski business. The economy of the northeast New York State is cited as a reason for completing the ski complex which would include existing schuss centers at Gore and Whiteface Mountains.

By 9 p. m., it will all be over but the shouting.

Koreans Hit Enemy, Kill 113

Battle Signals New Red Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported today in South Vietnam's jungled central highlands and along the coastal lowlands. It could signal the start of new dry season offensives by the Communists in the two areas.

Troops of South Korea's White Horse Division reported killing 113 North Vietnamese in fighting Monday and today near the division base headquarters in the lowlands 205 miles northeast of Saigon. Korean casualties were reported light.

In a series of sharp clashes in the central highlands 300 miles north of Saigon, 20 American paratroopers and 18 North Vietnamese troops were killed. The units of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade also reported 27 men wounded.

As the ground fighting picked up, U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers took advantage of a break in the northeast monsoons Monday and flew through heavy Communist defenses to give North Vietnam's heartland its heaviest pounding in a week.

The American raiders attacked the sprawling Gia Thung military storage area three miles northeast of the center of Hanoi for the first time in the war, shot down two MIG-17s during a strike on the Kep airfield 38 miles northeast of the capital, and attacked a vehicle repair plant nine miles north of Hanoi and the Hanoi transformer station for the first time since last May.

Although Hanoi claimed five U.S. planes were shot down, the U.S. Command reported only one loss, an F105 Thunderchief it said was brought down by ground fire northwest of Hanoi. The pilot was listed as missing in action. It was the 727th American combat plane officially reported lost over the North.

Out of Hiding

In the coastal lowlands, a Korean spokesman said, an estimated 300 North Vietnamese army regulars moved out of a hideout in the Ho Neo mountains and had been threatening Korean units for the last two weeks.

The spokesman said Korean forces pursued the Communists and caught up with them near two villages only about two miles from the Koreans' base area.

Fighting which broke out continued until about noon today, the spokesman said.

In the central highlands, entrenched North Vietnamese regulars opened up Monday afternoon with heavy small arms and automatic fire on units of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade searching an area hit by B-52 bombers last Saturday.

Aided by ground reinforcements, artillery and 67 strikes by Air Force fighter-bombers, the paratroopers assaulted the fortified Communist positions. U.S. Headquarters said the reinforcements broke through the Communists' flank and overran the position, but the main force apparently had already pulled back.

Intelligence officers are predicting more bloody combat for central Vietnam now that the monsoon rains are moving north. The forecast is based on reports of major North Vietnamese infiltration of the central jungles during the first six months of the year.

Headquarters elements of five have been identified in the 2nd Corps Military area, in central Vietnam. American intelligence sources said a new North Vietnamese division, the 10th, is known to be along the Cambodian-Laotian border but so far has been avoiding heavy contact with U.S. troops.

In another attack Monday night, Communist mortars lobbed 20 60mm mortar rounds into the positions of a U.S. infantry battalion operating near the bloodied district headquarters of Loc Ninh, 72 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border. U.S. headquarters said 18 Americans were wounded.

Moscow Flexes Its Muscles To Wind Up Bolshevik Fete

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union climaxed its celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today with its semiannual parade of military might through Red Square. But Western military experts spotted only four new weapons—all missiles—in the hour-long parade.

The Western experts said the new weapons included one huge intercontinental rocket at the end of the review before Lenin's tomb, one intermediate or medium-range missile, one ground-to-ground tactical missile and one navy missile.

Soviet commentators used the word "new" only once, saying a three-stage intercontinental rocket was powered by a "new, highly efficient type of propellant." But no details were given.

One intercontinental rocket displayed could be "used for orbital purposes," Moscow Television said, but such a rocket with claimed orbital capacity had been displayed in the May Day parade in 1965. The assertion was made then, and repeated today, that such rockets cannot be shot down.

The official accounts threw no light on whether the Soviet Union is testing an orbital bomb system, as U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Friday it is. During the two and a half years since the unveiling of the orbital rocket, there has been no mention here of its being tried out in any way.

Official accounts of the parade today repeated the boast that the mammoth Soviet rockets—the biggest is about 115 feet long—"can deliver nuclear warheads of tremendous power." It was also claimed that "no other army in the world has such warheads."

Moscow Television's commentator called attention to "an unusual special warhead" on one rocket which he said could destroy a large group of enemy planes in the air at a great distance from the Soviet Union.

Big Wheel Visits Ulster Cafeteria

With one wheel missing from the trailer attached to a tractor he was driving south on the State Thruway early today, a New Jersey truck driver continued on until a second wheel dropped off the axle near the Ulster Hot Shoppe Restaurant at Ruby.

State Trooper J. F. Ryan of the Thruway detail was notified of the mishap and the damage that resulted inside the cafeteria.

Stanley Worth of Arlington Avenue, N. J., told Ryan he was driving the tractor owned by the Highland Trucking Lines, Inc., of Kearny, which was hauling a trailer owned by the Lansdale Transportation Co., of Fairfax, Va., south on the super highway shortly before 4 a. m. today.

Worth was unaware that a wheel had snapped off the trailer this side of Albany, and he apparently didn't notice anything unusual with the operation or movement of the vehicle.

The parade was preceded by the usual address from the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Andrei A. Grechko. As usual he attacked the United States for its part in the Vietnam war, but in general his tone was milder than usual. He also made one accusation of aggression against Israel, but said nothing about Communist China.

He rebuked the United States in his 10-minute speech for "insolent meddling" in the affairs of other countries and declared: "The imperialists of the U.S.A. and their allies are widening the piratical war in Vietnam." He said the war is causing "deep alarm."

Greetings from President Johnson were published in Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, as part of a two-page spread of messages from Communist and non-Communist leaders.

Johnson's note said: "In the name of the people of the United States of America, I am sending heartfelt greetings and best wishes to the people of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, for their national holiday which this year marks the 50th anniversary of the creation of the Soviet government."

"I hope that the good will of the peoples of both countries will find its expression in joint efforts toward a firm and lasting peace in the whole world."

Soviet and foreign Communist leaders on Lenin's tomb wore hats and coats but did not have to bundle up since the temperature on the crisp, clear day was in the 40s.

Grechko warned the Soviet people to "increase their vigilance, to be always ready to defend the Socialist fatherland."

The Soviet army and navy, he said, are ready "at any minute" to defend the gains of the Bolshevik Revolution. He said the anti-Communist forces of the world have nothing but "hatred and rage" for the successes of the Soviet state.

Probe Nears End, Bar Group Hit

Congressman Resnick Cooks Up a Potpourri

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick yesterday hinted that an end of his investigation of the American Farm Bureau Federation might be forthcoming and he charged that the Ulster County Bar Association "refuses to set up a Legal Aid Society."

"I've just about exhausted what I can do," said Resnick Monday, referring to his one-man investigation on the American Farm Bureau Federation, "but the Internal Revenue Service now has several teams working on the matter and they've informed me that they have enough to continue the investigation."

The congressman also said that the Securities and Exchange Commission was investigating the giant Farm organization which Resnick claims is a group of private business firms and interlocking insurance companies organized for the purpose of escaping high taxes and, at the same time, bilking the American farmer.

During the same interview in the congressman's Kingston office, The Freeman was told that the "Ulster County Bar Association refuses to set up a legal aid society."

The Ellenville Democrat declared that legal rates are "so high" that "the poor and the lower middle income person is not able to get the aid and advice that he needs."

Resnick pointed out that Orange and Albany Counties had such agencies and that "even Schoharie, the smallest and poorest (of the five counties that make up the 28th Congressional District) have set up a legal aid service under the Office of Economic Opportunity."

LBJ and the Polls

Congressman Resnick felt that "I don't think his (President Lyndon B. Johnson) position is as bad as the polls have it."

Citing previous public opinion polls, Resnick said "if the polls had been right Harry Truman would never have been elected president," and he went on to say that when Eric Lindbloom, the Independent Peace candidate for Congress in 1966, took the nomination to oppose Resnick's stand on the Vietnam War "the opinion was that a great hue and cry would be created on the President's handling of the war and I would be ousted from office."

Resnick observed that Lindbloom only got "2,200 votes which was less than the Conservative candidate."

"When I spoke at the Greene County Democratic (function) I mentioned President Johnson's name and it was cheered to the rafters."

"The same thing happened in Schoharie (County)," the congressman stated.

Resnick believed that "a small, noisy minority" was against the President's policies in Southeast Asia.

The congressman went on to speak about the problem of public welfare and he said, "we should get welfare off the back of the small businessman and the small homeowner."

He claimed that he favored a "graduated property tax."

Resnick said that "a man using his building for commercial purposes" should be charged a different tax rate than the "fellow who is paying on the home he is living in."

The county's top Democrat claimed that a man who "owns a $12,000 bungalow is paying the same tax rate that IBM pays" on its buildings.

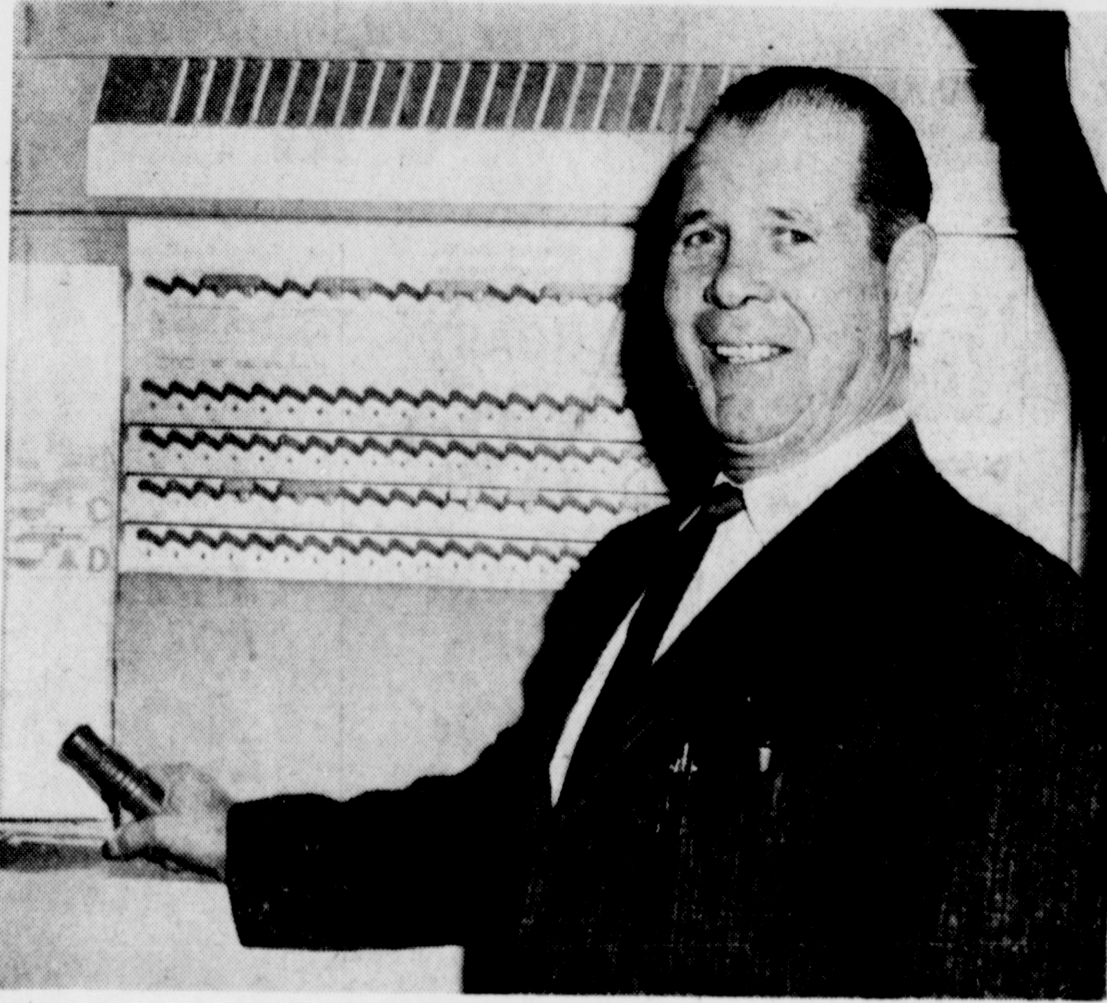

Resnick said that he was going to go to Ohio on the 20th of November on another phase of his Farm Bureau investigation, and he added that he "picked up close to 50 newspaper editorials" commending him on his investigation, including "the St. Louis Post, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the Providence Journal."

The congressman said that he "had exhausted" what he could do because he had no power to subpoena top members of the bureau.

Red Hook Car Firm Destroyed by Fire

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Firemen from three northern Dutchess districts Monday night, battled flames that destroyed the Boyce Chevrolet, Inc., on South Broadway, Red Hook, causing a loss estimated between $85,000 and $90,000.

Saugerties Fire

Saugerties fire units were called out before noon yesterday to quell fire in a room on the third floor of a building at 172 Partion Street.

Red Hook Fire Chief Thomas Moore said the fire started in the rear area of the Quonset type building south of the village shortly after 8 p. m. He said within 10 minutes the work shop was completely involved in flames.

Aid was summoned from Rhinebeck and Tivoli and 125 volunteer firefighters joined in fighting the flames that spread rapidly through the paint shop, the show rooms and offices.

Nine Cars Destroyed

Early reports indicated that 20 cars were involved in the fire, but later Chief Moore said it was learned that nine automobiles, some of them new and on display, were lost in the blaze.

The chief said the 6-bay work shop, a storage area upstairs in the building, the show room and paint shop were a total loss. He estimated the damage between $85,000 and $90,000 although unofficial estimates were higher.

The establishment is owned by John Boyce. The origin of the blaze was not determined. Red Hook firemen were sent back to the building after fire rekindled and the fire units were back in service about 4 a. m.

Started in Mattress

Saugerties firemen in command of Chief Homer Van Voorhis quelled a fire in a third floor apartment at 172 Partion Street yesterday. Officials said the fire apparently started in a mattress in a room occupied by two youths, whose names were not available.

Considerable smoke and water damage was reported in other rooms and damage resulted in the first floor store occupied by Charles S. LoBianco & Sons, Inc., painting and decorating contractors.

The United States began circulating its plan after the big powers had held weekend (Con. on Page 10, Col. 3)

Big Wheel Visits Ulster Cafeteria

With one wheel missing from the trailer attached to a tractor he was driving south on the State Thruway early today, a New Jersey truck driver continued on until a second wheel dropped off the axle near the Ulster Hot Shoppe Restaurant at Ruby.

State Trooper J. F. Ryan of the Thruway detail was notified of the mishap and the damage that resulted inside the cafeteria.

Stanley Worth of Arlington Avenue, N. J., told Ryan he was driving the tractor owned by the Highland Trucking Lines, Inc., of Kearny, which was hauling a trailer owned by the Lansdale Transportation Co., of Fairfax, Va., south on the super highway shortly before 4 a. m. today.

Worth was unaware that a wheel had snapped off the trailer this side of Albany, and he apparently didn't notice anything unusual with the operation or movement of the vehicle.

As he approached the Hot Shoppe Restaurant at Ruby, he turned into the driveway leading to the parking area.

Suddenly a wheel slipped off the axle and rolled through the parking lot, picking up speed as it headed toward the building. Trooper Ryan said the wheel bounced into the air as it hit the curbing and crashed through the plate glass window of the cafeteria.

According to the trooper, the wheel smashed against the ceiling inside the cafeteria, knocking out a section estimated by Ryan as about 20 square feet. The damage was heavy but no estimate of the cost to repair the ceiling was available.

Luckily, the trooper noted, the cafeteria was closed for business at the time, but in the other part of the Hot Shoppe there were some people who were startled by the crashing of glass and the ceiling.

Worth was cited by Ryan for operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

The parade was preceded by the usual address from the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Andrei A. Grechko. As usual he attacked the United States for its part in the Vietnam war, but in general his tone was milder than usual. He also made one accusation of aggression against Israel, but said nothing about Communist China.

Grechko warned the Soviet people to "increase their vigilance, to be always ready to defend the Socialist fatherland."

The Soviet army and navy, he said, are ready "at any minute" to defend the gains of the Bolshevik Revolution. He said the anti-Communist forces of the world have nothing but "hatred and rage" for the successes of the Soviet state.

He rebuked the United States in his 10-minute speech for "insolent meddling" in the affairs of other countries and declared: "The imperialists of the U.S.A. and their allies are widening the piratical war in Vietnam." He said the war is causing "deep alarm."

Greetings from President Johnson were published in Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, as part of a two-page spread of messages from Communist and non-Communist leaders.

Johnson's note said: "In the name of the people of the United States of America, I am sending heartfelt greetings and best wishes to the people of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, for their national holiday which this year marks the 50th anniversary of the creation of the Soviet government."

One intercontinental rocket displayed could be "used for orbital purposes," Moscow Television said, but such a rocket with claimed orbital capacity had been displayed in the May Day parade in 1965. The assertion was made then, and repeated today, that such rockets cannot be shot down.

Dear Customer:

Victory Markets Inc. are pleased to announce that on November 12 we are presenting, in the public interest, "Behind These Doors", created by Readers Digest Magazine, in color on four TV Stations.

WKTV - Utica - Ch. 2 6 - 6:30 P.M.
WNBF - Binghamton - Ch. 12 1 - 1:30 P.M.) Preceding
WHEN - Syracuse - Ch. 5 1 - 1:30 P.M.) NFL Game
WNYS - Syracuse - Ch. 9 5:30 - 6 P.M.

"Behind These Doors" documents an American miracle: the daily gathering and distributing of some seven hundred and eighty-four million pounds of food, for twenty-four hours of life in the United States.

The film traces the incredible chain that leads from grower and processor to the Supermarkets of America, a chain that leads into every part of the country, and employs one out of every four of us who work.

Victory Markets Inc. are proud to sponsor this program which we feel will create a better understanding of our company with the consumer.

We do have a series of these films available and offer them to civic groups, schools, men's and women's clubs.

Sincerely yours,

VICTORY MARKETS INC.

'Day, Month After' Pills Won't Get Papal Approval

ROME (AP) — A Jesuit member of Pope Paul's birth control commission said today the only contraceptive pills the Pope might approve are those which prevent conception.

Writing in the Jesuit periodical La Civiltà Cattolica, Father Giacomo Perico, an Italian theologian, said the "day after" and "month after" pills recently

Are reliable hands fitting your youngsters' shoes?

From toddlers to teens... a child's growing feet need the most exacting care in shoe fitting... and CHILD LIFE trained experts have about your youngsters' footwear needs.

YALLUM'S

developed have no chance of papal acceptance because they are intended to cause women to abort soon after conception.

The commission of experts on which Father Perico served studied the various arguments for and against the Roman Catholic Church's ban on mechanical and chemical contraceptives and submitted its recommendations to the Pope last year. The pontiff has given no indication when he will announce whether the ban will be modified.

The "day after" pill, developed by American scientists M. C. Chang and John McLean Morris is designed to prevent further development of a recently fertilized female egg, Father Perico wrote.

"Therefore we are dealing with a manifest will to abort and as such it is to be condemned morally," he continued. He said the intention was even clearer in the effect of the "month after" pill, developed by Dr. Niels Eimer-Jensen in Sweden. It kills the fertilized egg by depriving it of an essential hormone, progesterone, the article said.

Not Retiring

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Professional flagpole-sitter Richard "Dixie" Blaton has reached his 63th birthday but to avoid letting "the grass grow under my feet," does not plan to retire.

Blaton, a flagpole-sitter the last 40 years, said that when applying for Social Security, he asked for reduced benefits, making him eligible to keep on working.

He claims a world record of 123 days and nights perched atop a pole in Stockholm, Sweden in 1965.

Contempt Sentence Added To Term of LeRoi Jones

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—Negro playwright LeRoi Jones, found guilty here Monday on charges stemming from Newark's July riot, was to be transferred to Essex County Jail today to continue serving a 30-day sentence on contempt of court charges stemming from his trial.

Jones and two codefendants, Charles McCray, 33, and Barry Wynn, 23, were each convicted of illegal possession of weapons.

Arms Found

They were arrested on July 14, during the height of a racial disturbance, after their camper bus was stopped and searched by police. Two pistols and a box of ammunition were found inside the vehicle.

Jones was impassive as the verdict was read and the jurors were polled. The conviction carries a maximum sentence of three years imprisonment. Sentencing is set for Nov. 28.

Essex County Judge Leon Kapp then summarily sentenced Jones to an immediate term of 30 days in Essex County Jail for contempt of court. In the second day of the trial, Jones had referred to the proceedings as a "kangaroo court."

The 33-year-old bearded author began the sentence by spending the night in the Morris County Jail. Before and during the trial, he had been free on $25,000 bail. McCray is free on $10,000 and Wynn on $2,500, pending sentencing.

Will Appear

The defense said it would appeal the convictions and Jones' 30-day sentencing.

During the 10 days of testimony, the defense attempted to discredit the testimony of five police officers who were at the scene of the arrest by claiming that the defendants had been brutally beaten with nightsticks and guns. The defense

Injuries Fatal

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Injuries suffered Oct. 24 in a two-car collision at an intersection in suburban Irondequoit took the life of Mrs. Roy Keable, 64, of that community Monday night.

Mrs. Keable died in Rochester General Hospital. Her address was 378 Spencer Road.

also alleged that police planted the weapons in the vehicle. Jones had testified that two teeth were loosened when he was beaten, that money was stolen from him in jail and that medical treatment was tardy.

The policemen denied that the defendants were beaten. One officer implicated Jones with possessing one of the revolvers when he said a gun fell from Jones' clothing as he was pulled from the vehicle.

After arguments were heard by Assistant Essex County Prosecutor Andrew Zazzali Jr., Jr.

vin Booker, Jones' attorney, and Louis Saunders, defense for McCray and Wynn, Judge Kapp delivered a 45-minute charge to the jury.

Repeats Charges

Repeating that the charges were unlawful possession of two pistols, the judge told the panel "your consideration must be only that of the indictment." Alluding to defense allegations that police were out to get Jones and had planted the guns in the vehicle, Judge Kapp asked the jury, "Do you believe these five men in blue would agree together to commit such an unconscionable act?" He further asked the jury not to be confused by the "mass of trivia which unfortunately has crept into this trial."

Saunders took objection to the charge on the grounds that the judge had failed to tell the jury to consider all testimony. Booker moved for a mistrial, claiming that too much value had been given to the testimony of the police officers. He took exception to the entire argument as outlined by the court and said that, in his opinion, things had been left out of the charge.

The trial was moved to Morris County Court on a change of venue motion by the defense. The attorneys argued their clients would not receive a fair trial in Essex County because of excessive publicity about the case.

But footage taken at Sunday's return strike showed dispatches from Saigon, string after string of bombings. Lt. Col. William Decker, 45, of hitting the main runway. One huge crater resulted from a cluster of six bombs impacting in the center of the strip. Air Force officials said.

Pilots in the strike included James D. Murray Jr., 34, Bayonne, N.J.

Offers Praise For Releasing Driver in Crash

Members of the West Hurley Fire Company and West Hurley Rescue Squad as well as Rudolph G. Baumgarten, proprietor of Rudi's service station, together with other volunteer workers, were highly praised by Town of Hurley Supervisor Charles Relyea for their efforts Saturday in releasing the driver of a Hurley Sand and Gravel Company truck from his cab after the truck met with an accident.

Charles Wells, Stone Ridge, was pinned in the cab of the truck for over an hour after the truck had gone out of control. Supervisor Relyea said credit went to those who participated in the release of Wells. It was necessary to use a wrecker to open the doors of the truck and blow torches were used to release the injured man. The accident took place on Route 28 about a quarter mile north of Route 375.

Urban Violence

As Senator John McClellan of Arkansas opened a far-reaching investigation into chaos and anarchy in the United States, before his Permanent Investigations subcommittee, his staff charged "callous and deliberate disregard for law and order" had produced a long list of casualties that dramatized the probe.

The committee will try to determine whether the violence in more than 40 cities since 1965 was instigated with a calculated design by leftist agitators or militant civil rights activists, or were touched off thoughtlessly by lawless elements.

Staff investigators showed that 130 persons were killed, including 12 police officers, in major racial riots since 1965, that 2,424 persons were injured, 28,939 arrested and 5,434 convicted. Also, that there were 7,985 cases of arson, $210.6 million property damage and $504.2 million in other economic loss.

Great as this toll is, it is even more important to learn the causes of these uprisings and their future effect on the nation. For that, one of the most articulate students of the riots is Daniel P. Moynihan, former Assistant Secretary of Labor, now director of the Harvard-M.I.T. Center for Urban Studies. He believes that these outbreaks are a fundamental challenge to the foreign policy and social order of the United States and will not disappear by the end of the bombing, the end of the war or the defeat of President Johnson.

Of the Negro revolt, Moynihan said, "All the signs declare that the violence is not ended. Worse still, a new set of signs tells us something that is painful, even hateful, to hear: We must prepare for the onset of terrorism. Indeed, it may already have begun. How widespread and how successful remains to be seen, but the probability is so great that ignoring it would be an act of irresponsibility or of cowardice."

Senator McClellan has begun to show that he is well aware of this probability, and will not ignore it. Moynihan urges liberals, of whom he is one, to make an alliance with the progressive conservatives to deal with the extremes of right and left as the only way to save the nation from rebellion within. His plea for the "politics of stability" should be heeded.

Adjournment Casualties

The federal lawmakers have set a target date of November 20 for adjournment no matter what casualties President Johnson's legislative program may suffer. And the list of possible casualties is long and prestigious.

For instance, to come anywhere near hitting the target date, the Congressional leadership of both parties have agreed on a minimum of the bills that must be passed. They include a raise in Social Security benefits which may not equal the minimum the President had set, postal rate and federal pay increases and the smallest foreign aid bill ever.

Given a chance of passage, but still subject to further cuts, are the elementary and secondary education authorization bill of $3.5 billion, the model cities and the rent supplements if the leadership can agree on the amounts to which they will be reduced. About all that is expected would be token amounts to keep these ideas alive.

Unless both houses of Congress work overtime, there is little chance this session, for Administration high priority legislation such as the least controversial section of the 1967 civil rights package and authorization for antipoverty and highway beautification bills.

Major Administration legislation that is all but given up for this term, are the surtax, arms control, wiretapping curbs, the financing of political campaigns with tax money, campaign reforms, increasing East-West trade, anticrime proposals, scenic river plans and consumer protection proposals. Most or all may have to be carried over to take their chances in an election year.

The contrast with the 89th Congress is sharp. Then, Congress granted President Johnson just about everything he proposed. Then the 1966 election brought a large number of Republicans to the House, who regarded their election as a mandate to cut spending. The do-nothing first session of the 90th has been the result. It is what the electorate ordered.

Most blue chip firms held their own or even slipped down in profit-making in the third quarter, earnings reports show. If corporation profits are any barometer, the economy marked time the last quarter.

The Nobel Peace Prize has been withheld 18 times since the award was initiated in 1901. Usually it is withheld in times of war or serious international crises. It was not surprising that none was awarded this year, though 45 individuals were nominated, for the whole world is concerned, if not involved, in the war in Vietnam and the crises in the Middle East.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam wants so much to have a smooth administration, he appointed a protégé of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky to be Premier. The newly named Prime Minister is Nguyen Van Loc, 45, a lawyer, who was Ky's closest adviser when he acted as Premier.

David Lawrence Says People Dissatisfied With the Congress

WASHINGTON — The American people are plainly dissatisfied with the record of Congress — the apparent lack of responsibility by the Democratic party, which is in majority. It could happen that, in the election twelve months hence, the nation would re-elect President Johnson by a narrow margin but would give the Republican party a majority in both houses.

The voters are reluctant to repudiate a president in the midst of war, and perhaps even more so if there are additional troubles abroad. This kind of dilemma arose in 1956. President Eisenhower was re-elected by a larger margin than in 1952, and yet the Democrats retained control of both houses with a narrow majority such as they won in 1954—a recession year in business.

It is interesting to note extracts from some interviews obtained by "U. S. News & World Report" immediately after the November 1956 election. Senator Everett Dirksen, Republican leader of the Senate, said it was "logical" that the switching at the top of the ticket was brought about "in considerable measure by the peace-and-war issue." He was asked if the foreign crisis then going on in the Middle East, due to the Egyptian-Israeli confrontation over the Suez Canal, played a strong part in the election outcome. He replied:

"Oh, I think it finally became the most important element in the whole election."

Senator Wayne Morse, Democrat of Oregon, was asked how he kept his seat while the Democratic presidential nominee lost the State's Electoral vote. Mr. Morse answered as follows:

"I think it's a very simple thing. In the last two weeks of the campaign, the international crisis created a terrific psychological effect in this country on millions of Americans. 'People decided they shouldn't change the presidency in the midst of an international crisis. I think that's understandable. I think it was a mistake, but it is understandable.'"

Two years later—in the 1958 Congressional election—when domestic discontent due to the downturn in business influenced the voters, the Democrats not only gained control of both Houses but made the biggest gains in the House and Senate in ten years, despite the presence of a Republican in the White House.

Although the 1960 Presidential election was close, the Democrats continued to control the House and Senate, though the Republicans added 21 seats in the House and picked up one in the Senate. These Republican gains, however, were wiped out in November 1964, as the Democrats increased their majority in both the Senate and House to higher figures than they had enjoyed in nearly two decades. President Johnson was elected by a bigger electoral vote than Mr. Eisenhower achieved in either of his two victories.

The trend changed somewhat in the Congressional elections of 1966, when the Democrats lost 46 of their seats in the House, which deprived them of their two-thirds majority. In the Senate, they retained a majority of three votes less than a two-thirds majority. The Vietnam war had been going on at least two years before, with the number of American troops reaching 350,000 by election day 1966.

The big question now is whether the Democratic party, which is split on many issues—particularly on the Vietnam war problem—may cause the nation to vote in a Republican majority in Congress while showing its support for President Johnson in international policy.

Senator Dirksen, the Republican leader, and many of his colleagues have made statements recently in strong support of the President's policy in the Vietnam war, especially since the attacks on North Vietnam have been intensified.

To put it another way, President Johnson may squeak by in a close race. The chances are that, unless there is a decisive shift in Democratic tactics in Congress, a Republican majority may be elected next time to the Senate and House. This would be attributable to a nationwide feeling that the majority party in Congress today is largely responsible for the failure to deal effectively with the nation's acute problems on the domestic front.

Shipping Line Continues To Probe LBJ Telegram

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
American Export Isbrandt Lines is still investigating how a duplicated copy of a telegram to a White House official aboard the SS Independence on the Governors Conference cruise turned up in California Gov. Ronald Reagan's possession.

Under continuing suspension is the ship's chief radio officer, Charles Berger, who was beached when the vessel docked Oct. 24.

Neither the FCC nor the U.S. Coast Guard has begun inquiry, though both have jurisdiction over such matters. The law bars unauthorized disclosure of private radio communications, and violation carries a penalty of $10,000 fine, a year in prison, or both.

The ship's action, which followed a first-stage investigation by ship line officials while the governors' cruise was still in progress, indicates that the company does not buy the "happy accident" theory advanced by Reagan himself.

As a matter of fact, the theory does not fit with the performance of the governor's own aides.

Cryptic Comment
Communications Secretary Lyn Nofziger's first comment on the incident was a cryptic: "It (the White House message) went from me to him (Reagan) and back to me." At another point on the night of Oct. 18 he told reporters: "One minute it was not there, and the next it was."

If, as Reagan himself says, the White House message was accidentally wafted his way by a conference aide or one of the ship's crew, Nofziger's cryptic replies seem out of place.

Hitherto unwritten is an exchange which took place between a Reagan aide and another GOP governor's aide at the close of a morning Republican caucus that came on the heels of the governors' meeting wherein Reagan says he got his copy of the message.

Reagan discussed the telegram in the caucus. Others, including Gov. John Love of Colorado, urged him to make it public to help support GOP charges that President Johnson pulls strings with the governors on Vietnam.

A governor's aide approached a Reagan man to learn more. Replied the Reagan man: "I knew about it (the message) last night and went out to get it."

Shipboard chatter had it that Reagan aides, busy with messages affecting Oakland draft center demonstrations, enjoyed easy access to the radio room. One witness says he saw a Reagan man standing on the ship's flying bridge, an area barred to nonship personnel.

But American Export Vice President George Dunigan, who looked into the telegram episode on the return cruise from the Virgin Islands, insisted the radio room and its message file are inaccessible to outsiders except with the help of outside personnel.

Berger's suspension and the continuing inquiry reflect that preliminary judgment by ship line officials.

Puzzling Tale
Berger meanwhile publicly offers a puzzling tale.

He says he came on duty on the crucial day, Oct. 18, at 6 a. m. and found two long messages—one for Reagan and the White House one for Price Daniel, the President's liaison man—not in envelopes. He says he "concluded" they were originals but that there were no copies, as required for the radio room file. Rather than hand-type copies, he adds, he "took them down" to be duplicated "for delivery to Daniel and Reagan."

The ship has no duplicating machines, but six and seven decks below, two were aboard for use of press and conference people.

Berger says Reagan apparently got both duplicated copies, including Daniel's message, though he put them in separate envelopes.

Drew Pearson Says Soviet Semicentennial Sees Change From Police State

Auto Exhaust Lobbying

On October 25 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that the automobile lobby was using Rep. John Dingell of Detroit to weaken the air pollution bill in regard to California smog by proposing to require California to accept milder auto exhaust standards.

The column aroused considerable discussion in Congress and denials by Rep. Dingell.

On Nov. 2 Congress voted overwhelmingly against Dingell and the Detroit auto lobby in favor of giving California the right of tougher anti-smog measures.

WASHINGTON—When I first visited the Soviet Union in 1922, it was then a wobbly conglomeration of Russian regions held together by a handful of Bolshevik leaders whom the United States did its best to overthrow, first by sending troops under Woodrow Wilson to Murmansk in the Arctic and to Siberia; second, by boycotting the new regime under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

It was not until sixteen years after the Russian Revolution, whose 50th anniversary the world notes today, that the United States under Roosevelt recognized that the Soviet Union even existed.

I have been to the Soviet Union four times since my first trip to Siberia in 1922 and have seen it change from a police state where I was shadowed every minute and once arrested for taking pictures and in which the military commander I interviewed in Harbin, Gen. Teronim Uborievitch, was later shot by Stalin, to a nation now strong enough to permit criticism by its own citizens, promiscuous photography, fairly free foreign travel, and with an economic and military might which rivals the United States.

At one time during the Eisenhower Administration a delegation of American education experts reported that the Soviet public school system in many respects was ahead of ours.

This was an unpopular and unpalatable report to the American people because, through early years of propaganda and later years of suspicion encouraged by J. Edgar Hoover, we have been taught to believe that nothing about Russia was good and that the entire system was certain to collapse of its own weight.

Americans Still Suspicious

This suspicion was so deep that when I came back from a two-day talk with Khrushchev in 1961 to report that he was potentially a good friend of the United States, I was called a communist by some people, including one publisher of a California newspaper whom I collected an apology plus damages.

This suspicion has been nurtured so long and runs so deep that when I was in the Dakotas last month several people remarked suspiciously on the articles in the New York Times, Life and Look magazines summarizing Soviet achievements during fifty years. They thought the articles were Soviet propaganda.

It was this suspicion that nearly defeated the confirmation of the U. S.-Soviet Consular Treaty, even though it was the United States which asked Moscow for this pact in order to put a U. S. consulate in Leningrad, and even though the Russians actually were not enthusiastic about negotiating the treaty.

Finally, it is this suspicion that hampers the basic policy initiated by John F. Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev after the Cuban missile crisis, of better understanding between the world's two most powerful nations. It was their belief that if the only two nations with large nuclear stockpiles could work together, there would be no World War III.

President Johnson has continued and broadened this policy, and was hopeful of going to Moscow personally. He has negotiated a non-proliferation pact with Russia, a Moscow-New York air agreement, has worked on the preservation of fishing banks, has held friendly conferences with Foreign Minister Gromyko and Premier Kosygin, and persuaded the best man he could find, Llewellyn Thompson, to go back to Moscow as Ambassador.

Russian-American relations, however, have hit two serious snags. Each affects the other.

Snag No. 1 is the war in Vietnam, especially the bombing of North Vietnam. This bombing was started on Feb. 7, 1965, one day after Kosygin arrived in Hanoi to start conversations with the North Vietnamese toward peace. The peace talks had the props knocked out from under them. Naturally Kosygin, together with all of the Kremlin leaders, was sore. They have now vowed to continue sending supplies to North Vietnam as long as the war continues.

Snag No. 2 is the fact that the United States gives very few concessions to the pro-American clique in the Kremlin which it can use as proof of our friendship. As a result, the anti-Americans keep badgering the pro-Americans, pointing out that friendship cannot be a one-way street, that the Soviet Union can't make all the concessions.

This one-way street argument is not as true today as it was before. President Johnson has offered various olive branches to the Russians, such as jointly administered foreign aid to the underdeveloped countries, and an agreement not to build an anti-ballistic missile defense system.

However, Leonid Brezhnev, who is reported to head the anti-American clique (Kosygin leads the pro-American clique) can always point to the Vietnam war as a sign of American aggression. His arguments appear to win the day.

As the Soviet celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today, its weapons are probably stronger than ever before in history, its leaders worried, its policy suspicious, but it is my observation that the Russian people are ready to become the firm friends of the American people if we can clear away the problems of Southeast Asia.

The World Today

Bolsheviks Have Been In Power for 50 Years

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A month before the Russian revolution of 1917 Lenin, who had dreamed of just that, was thinking he might never see it happen in his lifetime.

This wasn't the only contradiction in what followed. Lenin's Bolsheviks were only a small minority, numbering perhaps 25,000, and with no plans for a takeover, at that time in March, 1917 when Czar Nicholas II was forced out and more moderate forces took over.

In the months that followed Lenin built up support, particularly among factory workers in Moscow and St. Petersburg, while the opposition remained split, disorganized, confused, and in some ways stupid.

The far better organized Bolsheviks, believing their chance was then or never, made their daring grab for power on Nov. 7, 1917, 50 years ago today. They have held that power since.

The direct causes of the upheaval were Russian disaster in World War I, a nightmare of economic hardship, and Western influence which for more than 50 years had been penetrating Russian thought with democratic ideas.

Love Homeland

At that time Russians simply loved their homeland

which had been harsh and brutal on all of them except the elite. Now they love it and are proud of it, with good reason in a limited sense.

Russia was about 100 years behind the West industrially in 1917; now it is second only to the United States. From a nation almost medieval in many ways in 1917 it has become one of the world's two super-powers.

From a nation whose czar was getting advice from a so-called mad monk, Rasputin, Russia has penetrated space. The reason for that is that the Soviet Union has striven for excellence in science and technology.

But at the same time they have tried to wipe out illiteracy and educate the masses. Living conditions don't compare with the West if only because the Soviets have concentrated on industry and neglected consumer goods.

Nevertheless, politically the Soviet Union belongs back in another age. It is, despite all the things that may be said in its favor, a political despotism. The people have no sense of democracy or self rule.

But, for that matter, throughout their history they never did. And under Stalin, who executed almost all his old Bolshevik contemporaries, the Soviet Union had one of the worst terror reigns in history.

By simply surviving it became a bulwark of world communism which grew elsewhere as the years passed. But while the Soviets preach Marxism they have never achieved communism.

Denounced by Chinese

While encouraging communism elsewhere and even imposing it — as they did in Eastern Europe — they are now denounced by the Red Chinese as the betrayers of communism and Marxism.

Sunday, two days before the revolution's anniversary, Red China's major newspapers called the Soviet leaders renegades. The Chinese claimed they, and not the Soviet Union, are now the focal point of communism.

Will the Soviet Union change and become a democratic society with no dictatorship? It will, if it follows the pattern of the great revolutions of modern times. Those revolutions have been moving from West to East. All of them were too rigid starting out — Cromwell's Puritan revolution in England in the middle of the 17th century, the French revolution in the 18th century when the Jacobins had their own reign of terror, Hitler's mad regime which followed the German revolution after World War I — all eventually were replaced by moderate, democratic societies.

Air Pollution Control Bill

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
Chicago Sun-Times Special

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—The Air Pollution Control Bill that is about to come staggering out of the Congressional maze is a mere smogdraped shadow of its former self.

Dirty, unhealthy air is one of those rare menaces that the most extreme conservative and the most fanciful liberal can denounce equally. It is, however, behind the committee doors of Congress where meaning is separated from good intentions; and where the economic interests operate most effectively.

When the House-Senate conference committee agrees on a compromise money figure, Congress will have passed its fourth air pollution measure since 1963 and its third in three years.

Last December, a national conference on air pollution held here recommended the imposition of national "emission standards"—that is, the amount of pollutants that could come out of any specific industrial smokestack anywhere in the country.

Without consulting the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in any detail, or calculating probable sentiment in Congress, the White House staff drew up its program. Accordingly, President Johnson sent a message to Capitol Hill the following month calling for national standards and regional multi-state air quality commissions with federal representation.

No opportunity was given Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine), a yeoman leader in the anti-pollution campaign, to prepare his colleagues.

Muskie finally had to agree that the time and technology were not yet right for uniform limitations on the pollutants that should be allowed to belch out of steel mills, power generating plants and other industrial sources.

Not only were the national standards stricken in the Senate, but the concept of regional enforcement was changed, and HEW was directed to "re-evaluate" its findings directed against sulphur oxide pollutants (released from coal) with the help of an advisory committee representing, among others, the coal industry.

In its final form, the bill would order the secretary of HEW to designate air quality control regions.

The states are given 15 months to prepare their rules and enforcement procedures, subject to review and approval by the HEW secretary. By that time there will undoubtedly be new air pollution conferences and new presidential proposals.

Many of HEW's pollution fighters are disappointed at the way the White House conducted the battle this year. "With more attention to advance details, they feel the case could have been presented more forcefully."

However, the experience serves to illustrate a Johnson technique that has occasionally shown up in other fields: get a bill with an impressive title through Congress, regardless of the substance, so that the president can point to his voluminous record of legislative achievement.

In the end, Congress was treated to a spectacle that it won't see often. The big auto corporations came to be protected by the federal government from the more stringent anti-smog controls invoked in California, where the governor is Ronald Reagan.

For some reason this seemed to amuse many people here, and the House took special delight in granting California's exemption from the national auto exhaust standards, provided theirs are tougher.

American Export Isbrandt-Lines is still investigating how a duplicated copy of a telegram to a White House official aboard the SS Independence on the Governors Conference cruise turned up in California Gov. Ronald Reagan's possession.

Under continuing suspension is the ship's chief radio officer, Charles Berger, who was beached when the vessel docked Oct. 24.

Neither the FCC nor the U.S. Coast Guard has begun inquiry, though both have jurisdiction over such matters. The law bars unauthorized disclosure of private radio communications, and violation carries a penalty of $10,000 fine, a year in prison, or both.

The ship's action, which followed a first stage investigation by ship line officials while the governors' cruise was still in progress, indicates that the company does not buy the "happy accident" theory advanced by Reagan himself.

As a matter of fact, the theory does not fit with the performance of the governor's own aides.

Cryptic Comment

Communications Secretary Lyn Nofziger's first comment on the incident was a cryptic: "It (the White House message) went from me to him (Reagan) and back to me." At another point on the night of Oct. 18 he told reporters: "One minute it was not there, and the next it was."

If, as Reagan himself says, the White House message was accidentally waived his way by a conference aide or one of the ship's crew, Nofziger's cryptic replies seem out of place.

Hitherto unwritten is an exchange which took place between a Reagan aide and another GOP governor's aide at the close of a morning Republican caucus that came on the heels of the governors' meeting wherein Reagan says he got his copy of the message.

Reagan discussed the telegram in the caucus. Others, including Gov. John Love of Colorado, urged him to make it public to help support GOP charges that President Johnson pulls strings with the governors on Vietnam.

A governor's aide approached a Reagan man to learn more. Replied the Reagan man: "I knew about it (the message) last night and went out to get it."

Shipboard chatter had it that Reagan aides, busy with messages affecting Oakland draft center demonstrations, enjoyed easy access to the radio room. One witness says he saw a Reagan man standing on the ship's flying bridge, an area barred to nonship personnel.

But American Export Vice President George Dunigan, who looked into the return cruise from the Virgin Islands, insisted the radio room and its message file are inaccessible to outsiders except with the help of outside personnel.

Berger's suspension and the continuing inquiry reflect that preliminary judgment by ship line officials.

Puzzling Tale

Berger meanwhile publicly offers a puzzling tale. He says he came on duty on the crucial day, Oct. 18, at 6 a. m. and found two long messages—one for Reagan and the White House one for Price Daniel, the President's liaison man—not in envelopes.

He says he "concluded" they were originals but that there were no copies, as required for the radio room file. Rather than hand-type copies, he adds, he "took them down" to be duplicated "for delivery to Daniel and Reagan."

The ship has no duplicating machines but, six and seven decks below, two were aboard for use of press and conference people.

Drew Pearson Says Soviet Semicentennial Sees Change From Police State

Auto Exhaust Lobbying

On October 25 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that the automobile lobby was using Rep. John Dingell of Detroit to weaken the air pollution bill in regard to California smog by proposing to require California to accept milder auto exhaust standards.

The column aroused considerable discussion in Congress and denials by Rep. Dingell.

On Nov. 2 Congress voted overwhelmingly against Dingell and the Detroit auto lobby in favor of giving California the right of tougher anti-smog measures.

WASHINGTON—When I first visited the Soviet Union in 1922, it was then a wobbly conglomerate of Russian regions held together by a handful of Bolshevik leaders whom the United States did its best to overthrow, first by sending troops under Woodrow Wilson to Murmansk in the Arctic and to Siberia; second, by boycotting the new regime under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

It was not until sixteen years after the Russian Revolution, whose 50th anniversary the world notes today, that the United States under Roosevelt recognized that the Soviet Union even existed.

I have been to the Soviet Union four times since my first trip to Siberia in 1922 and have seen it change from a police state where I was shadowed every minute and once arrested for taking pictures and in which the military commander I interviewed in Harbin, Gen. Teronim Uborievitch, was later shot by Stalin, to a nation now strong enough to permit criticism by its own citizens, promiscuous photography, fairly free foreign travel, and with an economic and military might which rivals the United States.

At one time during the Eisenhower Administration a delegation of American education experts reported that the Soviet public school system in many respects was ahead of ours.

This was an unpopular and unpalatable report to the American people because, through early years of propaganda and later years of suspicion encouraged by J. Edgar Hoover, we have been taught to believe that nothing about Russia was good and that the entire system was certain to collapse of its own weight.

Americans Still Suspicious

This suspicion has so deep that when I came back from a two-day talk with Khrushchev in 1961 to report that he was potentially a good friend of the United States, I was called a communist by some people, including one publisher of a California newspaper whom I collected an apology plus damages.

This suspicion has been nurtured so long and runs so deep that when I was in the Dakotas last month several people remarked suspiciously on the articles in the New York Times, Life and Look magazines summarizing Soviet achievements during fifty years. They thought the articles were Soviet propaganda.

It was this suspicion that nearly defeated the confirmation of the U. S.-Soviet Consular Treaty, even though it was the United States which asked Moscow for this pact in order to put a U. S. consulate in Leningrad, and even though the Russians actually were not enthusiastic about negotiating the treaty.

Finally, it is this suspicion that hampers the basic policy initiated by John F. Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev after the Cuban missile crisis, of better understanding between the world's two most powerful nations. It was their belief that if the only two nations with large nuclear stockpiles could work together, there would be no World War III.

President Johnson has continued and broadened this policy, and was hopeful of going to Moscow personally. He has negotiated a non-proliferation pact with Russia, a Moscow-New York air agreement, has worked on the preservation of fishing banks, has held friendly conferences with Foreign Minister Gromyko and Premier Kosygin, and persuaded the best man he could find, Llewellyn Thompson, to go back to Moscow as Ambassador.

Russian-American relations, however, have hit two serious snags. Each affects the other.

Snag No. 1 is the war in Vietnam, especially the bombing of North Vietnam. This bombing was started on Feb. 7, 1965, one day after Kosygin arrived in Hanoi to start conversations with the North Vietnamese toward peace. The peace talks had the props knocked out from under them. Naturally Kosygin, together with all of the Kremlin leaders, was sore. They have now vowed to continue sending supplies to North Vietnam as long as the war continues.

Snag No. 2 is the fact that the United States gives very few concessions to the pro-American clique in the Kremlin which it can use as proof of our friendship. As a result, the anti-Americans keep badgering the pro-Americans, pointing out that friendship cannot be a one-way street, that the Soviet Union can't make all the concessions.

This one-way street argument is not as true today as it was before. President Johnson has offered various olive branches to the Russians, such as jointly administered foreign aid to the underdeveloped countries, and an agreement not to build an anti-ballistic missile defense system.

However, Leonid Breshnev, who is reported to head the anti-American clique (Kosygin leads the pro-American clique) can always point to the Vietnam war as a sign of American aggression. His arguments appear to win the day.

As the Soviet celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution today, its weapons are probably stronger than ever before in history, its leaders worried, its policy suspicious, but it is my observation that the Russian people are ready to become the firm friends of the American people if we can clear away the problems of Southeast Asia.

The World Today

Bolsheviks Have Been In Power for 50 Years

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A month before the Russian revolution of 1917 Lenin, who had dreamed of just that, was thinking he might never see it happen in his lifetime.

This wasn't the only contradiction in what followed. Lenin's Bolsheviks were only a small minority, numbering perhaps 25,000 and with no plans for a takeover, at that time in March, 1917 when Czar Nicholas II was forced out and more moderate forces took over.

In the months that followed Lenin built up support, particularly among factory workers in Moscow and St. Petersburg, while the opposition remained split, disorganized, confused, and in some ways stupid.

The far better organized Bolsheviks, believing their chance was then or never, made their daring grab for power on Nov. 7, 1917, 50 years ago today. They have held that power since.

The direct causes of the upheaval were Russian disaster in World War I, a nightmare of economic hardship, and Western influence which for more than 50 years had been penetrating Russian thought with democratic ideas.

Love Homeland

which had been harsh and brutal on all of them except the elite. Now they love it and are proud of it, with good reason in a limited sense.

Russia was about 100 years behind the West industrially in 1917; now it is second only to the United States. From a nation almost medieval in many ways in 1917 it has become one of the world's two super-powers.

From a nation whose czar was getting advice from a so-called mad monk, Rasputin, Russia has penetrated space. The reason for that is that the Soviets have striven for excellence in science and technology.

But at the same time they have tried to wipe out illiteracy and educate the masses. Living conditions, don't compare with the West if only because the Soviets have concentrated on industry and neglected consumer goods.

Nevertheless, politically the Soviet Union belongs back in another age. It is, despite all the things that may be said in its favor, a political despotism. The people have no sense of democracy or self rule.

But, for that matter, throughout their history they never did. And under Stalin, who executed almost all his old Bolshevik contemporaries, the Soviet Union had one of the worst terror reigns in history.

Air Pollution Control Bill

By TOM LITTLEWOOD

Chicago Sun-Times Special

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—The Air Pollution Control Bill that is about to come staggering out of the Congressional maze is a mere smogged shadow of its former self.

Dirty, unhealthy air is one of those rare menaces that the most extreme conservative and the most fanciful liberal can denounce equally. It is, however, behind the committee doors of Congress where meaning is separated from good intentions, and where the economic interests operate most effectively.

When the House-Senate conference committee agrees on a compromise money figure, Congress will have passed its fourth air pollution measure since 1963 and its third in three years.

Last December, a national conference on air pollution held here recommended the imposition of national "emission standards"—that is, the amount of pollutants that could come out of any specific industrial smokestack anywhere in the country.

Without consulting the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in any detail, or calculating probable sentiment in Congress, the White House staff drew up its program. Accordingly, President Johnson sent a message to Capitol Hill the following month calling for national standards and regional multi-state air quality commissions with federal representation.

No opportunity was given Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine), a yaman leader in the anti-pollution campaign, to prepare his colleagues.

Muskie finally had to agree that the time and technology were not yet right for uniform limitations on the pollutants that should be allowed to belch out of steel mills, power generating plants and other industrial sources.

Not only were the national standards stricken in the Senate, but the concept of regional enforcement was changed, and HEW was directed to "re-evaluate" its findings directed against sulfur oxide pollutants (resulting from coal) with the help of an advisory committee representing a among others, the coal industry.

In its final form, the bill would order the secretary of HEW to designate air quality control regions.

The states are given 15 months to prepare their rules and enforcement procedures, subject to review and approval by the HEW secretary. By that time there will undoubtedly be new air pollution conferences and new presidential proposals.

Many of HEW's pollution fighters are disappointed at the way the White House conducted the battle this year. "With more attention to advance details, they feel the case could have been presented more forcefully."

However, the experience serves to illustrate a Johnson technique that has occasionally shown up in other fields: get a bill with an impressive title through Congress, regardless of the substance, so that the president can point to his voluminous record of legislative achievement.

In the end, Congress was treated to a spectacle that it won't see often. The big auto corporations came to Washington begging to be protected by the federal government from the more stringent anti-smog controls invoked in California, where the governor is Ronald Reagan.

For some reason this seemed to amuse many people here, and the House took special delight in granting California's exemption from the national auto exhaust standards, provided theirs are tougher.

Kiwanis Award Nov. 16

Barringer Cop of Year

Patrolman George P. Barringer Jr., of 166 Henry Street, has been selected as the Policeman of the Year, to be honored at a luncheon meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club on Thursday, November 16.

The announcement of the selection by a five-man committee of the Kingston Police Department was made today by Police Commissioner Henry P. Eighmey, a member of the committee which included Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, Deputy Chief Grover S. Hoffay, Patrolman James Scott, president of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association and Detective John Crispino.

In addition to being named Policeman of the Year, Barringer will receive the Gold Merit award from the department for his detection and apprehension of a known criminal who had broken into the Kingston Savings Bank on Wall Street last year.

Police Commissioner Eighmey said Barringer's name has been identified with several instances of exceptional police work during the past year, and described Ptl. Barringer as "one of our most capable patrolmen, always willing to do his best when called upon to do so."

Other departmental awards will include the Silver Merit Award to Patrolman Raymond Wells and Curtis Vandemark, and Detective Leonard Ellsworth; certificates to Patrolmen Thomas Coffey, Ira Hadel, Raymond Wells, Anthony Turck and Edwin Coughlin; 15-year service award to Det. John Crispino.

A Citizen's Citation was awarded to Gilbert Gray of the Doctor's Ambulance Service for his participation in the recovery of a car and youngster which had rolled off the dock into the Rondout Creek.

All off-duty members of the Kingston Police Department will be the guests in uniform of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the November 16 luncheon, with Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan scheduled to make the Policeman of the Year to Patrolman Barringer.

Received a note from Fred Balzer of 15 Odell Avenue, White Plains N. Y., who writes: "Thought you may be interested. This another example of what has happened to our mail service. See last letter on page eight of enclosed paper. I am not sure, but I think this may be the Mr. Simpson that was the

New York Central Freight Agent in Kingston during the thirties." He enclosed a little magazine called "Labor," dated Oct. 28, 1967. The item he refers to reads as follows: "Delay in the Mails — To the Editor — It appears to me that ever since the government began diverting the mails from the rails, the mail service has been getting slower and the cost has steadily increases. For example, a daily paper mailed to me from Kingston, N. Y., used to arrive the following afternoon when it went by rail. Now it usually comes on the afternoon of the third following day. I say mail should be kept on the rails for economy and better service. J. S. Simpson, Hampton, N. H." No doubt, some of the old timers remember Mr. Simpson.

I remember during the World's Fair of 1939-1940, when the West Shore Railroad in Kingston had round trip excursions on Sunday to New York City for $2. The trains were usually crowded as the people took advantage of this convenience, not only to visit the World's Fair but to go to New York City.

No doubt many of today's teenagers have never been on a train. When I used to take the train from Rhinecliff, it was always a thrill for me when the train arrived at the Grand Central Station in New York City.

Poughkeepsie Man Charged in Attack

A 27-year-old Poughkeepsie man was charged with attempted first degree rape in connection with this morning's incident. He was arraigned before Town Peace Justice George Pagones and the case was deferred until Thursday at 7 p. m.

Homer was committed to the county jail in lieu of $2,500 bail. According to Police Lieut. George Lochner, a truck driver, not identified notified Patrolman Edward Luty that he saw a man assaulting a young woman near the cemetery. Luty investigated and allegedly found the man identified later as Homer, attempting to choke and rape the girl in the ditch.

Luty collared Homer and took him to police headquarters for questioning. The felony charge was later lodged against the Poughkeepsie man.

The name of the victim of the attack was not revealed, but it was said she resides in Wappingers Falls. She told police she was walking along the South Road when a car pulled up and stopped. A man alighted from the vehicle, grabbed her and threw her in the ditch where the alleged crime was attempted.

Luty collared Homer and took him to police headquarters for questioning. The felony charge was later lodged against the Poughkeepsie man.

Parole Refused Three Held for Selling LSD

NEW YORK (AP) — Three which will permit the conviction East Village denizens imprisoned for peddling LSD from their records.

They were described as the first to receive prison terms from among 74 persons prosecuted for LSD peddling by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Two of the defendants, young men, complained they were positioned sexually in prison and threatened physically. The third, a teen-aged girl, also found imprisonment repugnant Oct. 20, and postmarked Oct. 24, and her mother vainly pleaded for her release.

Fresh-water Sharks

Sharks can be found in fresh water. A few species run up into fresh waters of tropical rivers and three or four species are regular inhabitants of fresh-water lakes in Central America and Thailand.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Wednesday

Tonight, snow flurries are forecast from the Northern New England states down the St. Lawrence Valley into the lower Lakes Region. Rain is expected for the Southern half of Texas and in the Pacific Northwest, while showers are slated for the Southern tip of Florida and the Northern Rockies. Clear to partly cloudy skies elsewhere. Colder weather is forecast from the Northeast into the Tennessee Valley and along the central Gulf coast. Milder readings will occur in portions of the Southern Plains and in the Northeast and the central Plateaus. Little temperature change can be expected for the rest of the nation. Minimum readings include: Atlanta 28; Boston 38; Chicago 27; Cleveland 23; Denver 35; Duluth 15; Ft. Worth 45; Jacksonville 48; Kansas City 32; Los Angeles 60; Miami 70; New York 37; San Francisco 52; Seattle 45; St. Louis 32 and Washington 28.

$500,000 Fire In Rochester Area Is Probed

HENRIETTA, N.Y. (AP) — Investigators sought the cause today of a fire that swept through a row of stores in this Rochester suburb, destroying three of the businesses and causing damage that could reach $500,000.

In addition, the fire led to the death of several hundred tropical fish and birds at a pet shop that was untouched by the flames. One fireman suffered a minor injury.

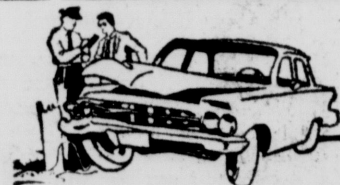

The businesses burned out were the Rochester Linoleum and Carpet Co., Schoenherr Supplies Inc., a swimming pool firm; and Reed's Wigwam, a shop selling women's wigs.

Operators of the nearby Tropical Garden Pet Shop moved numerous animals from the store as smoke filtered inside and electrical and water service was cut off. The creatures included dogs, cats, monkeys, rabbits, hamsters, snakes, turtles and a kangaroo.

The smoke and the shutting off of an electrical air pump in the aquarium caused the death of the birds and fish, a store spokesman said.

The damage estimate was made by officials of the burned-out businesses.

The stores are on Jefferson Road.

Parole Refused Three Held for Selling LSD

NEW YORK (AP) — Three young East Village denizens imprisoned for peddling LSD have lost little time in expressing remorse and asking for their freedom. But the sentencing judge refused to parole them.

Two of the defendants, young men, complained they were positioned sexually in prison and threatened physically. The third, a teen-aged girl, also found imprisonment repugnant and her mother vainly pleaded for her release.

Originally, all were sentenced to one year in prison and as most casual about their crime, holding it no more serious than "spitting on the sidewalk." The nature of the offense... constrains me to abide by the sentence as originally imposed," said Federal Judge Harold R. Tyler Jr. in a decision Monday.

The three whom Tyler imprisoned Oct. 19 are William Komasa, 19, formerly of Bronxville; Louis R. Gross, 20, formerly of Mount Vernon; and Laura Lauten, 19, redheaded one-time go-go dancer who came from Bedford Village.

The three, said to have left middle-class Westchester County homes for the hippie life of Manhattan's Lower East Side, received indeterminate prison sentences — anywhere from one day to four years, depending on behavior. They were sentenced under the Federal Youth Offender Act.

"I realize my case was a precedent and a stringent sentence was in order to deter others from committing the same offense," Komasa's letter read in part: "Sir, this morning Louis was told we should 'watch ourselves.' Since I was here I have been approached by homosexuals and threatened physically. My nerves are a wreck. 'This institution... seems to be one of corruption rather than correction and learning. I am no hardened criminal, and I want to have a future. I realize I was wrong in what I done.'"

$500,000 Fire In Rochester Area Is Probed

HENRIETTA, N.Y. (AP) —

Investigators sought the cause today of a fire that swept through a row of stores in this Rochester suburb, destroying three of the businesses and causing damage that could reach $500,000.

In addition, the fire led to the death of several hundred tropical fish and birds at a pet shop that was untouched by the flames. One fireman suffered a minor injury.

The businesses burned out were the Rochester Linoleum and Carpet Co., Schoenheit Supplies Inc., a swimming pool firm; and Reed's Wigwam, a shop selling women's wigs.

Operators of the nearby Tropical Garden Pet Shop moved numerous animals from the store as smoke filtered inside and electrical and water service was cut off. The creatures included dogs, cats, monkeys, rabbits, hamsters, snakes, turtles and a kangaroo.

The smoke and the shutting off of an electrical air pump in the aquarium caused the death of the birds and fish, a store spokesman said.

The damage estimate was made by officials of the burned-out businesses.

The stores are on Jefferson Road.

First Ombudsman

Nassau, Suffolk Races Hot

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters in Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island elect county executives today. The Nassau electorate will also decide whether they will have the nation's first ombudsman.

Three candidates are vying for the county executive post in Suffolk while a four-way contest is to be determined in Nassau. In each case the incumbent, a Democrat, seeks reelection.

Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson, 49, trying for a third three-year term in the $30,000-a-year post, has both Democratic and Liberal support.

He has campaigned on his record and on the new services offered by his administration. The primary theme of his Republican opponent, Sol Wachter, 37, has been a pledge to reduce the county tax rate 20 per cent next year.

Wachter, a lawyer from Kings Point, is supervisor of North Hempstead and has been active since early spring seeking public exposure.

The other two candidates are James F. Holwell, a high school teacher representing the United for Peace party, and A. Werner Pleus of the Conservative party.

Though the Conservative party has only 4,133 registered voters, some political observers feel Pleus may get 10 times that many votes and could determine the outcome of the race.

Similarly, the Conservative candidate, John J. Conroy, is

Vietnam War Issue Figures in Many Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two states choose governors and scores of cities elect mayors today, deciding some contests in which Vietnam, race and the church-state relationship are issues.

Negro candidates face white candidates in Gary, Ind., and Cleveland while Boston's mayor's race features a woman candidate best known for opposing busing of Negro students to white schools.

Gary's battle for mayor between Negro Democrat Richard B. Hatcher and white Republican Joseph Radigan was accompanied by racial tensions that focused national attention on the Indiana steel city.

Election-day court decisions were necessary to clear the way for the Gary election and for the use of National Guardsmen if necessary to insure peaceful balloting.

Vietnam referenda are on the ballot in San Francisco and Cambridge, Mass., while New York's vote on a $2.5 billion transportation bond issue and a proposed new state constitution that would repeal a ban on public aid to private and parochial schools.

Legislatures are being chosen in New Jersey, Virginia and Mississippi.

Gov. Roger D. Branigan of Indiana ordered National

Guardsmen to the Gary area and the state's Supreme Court later threw out Monday a lower court injunction that would have banned use of the troops to insure a peaceful election.

A three-judge federal panel concluded its consideration of election-rigging charges brought by Hatcher by ordering county officials to guarantee a fair election.

Hatcher and the Justice Department had filed separate suits charging the county's Democratic chairman conspired to remove Negroes from voting lists while adding ineligible whites.

Observers rated as a toss-up the race between Hatcher, a lawyer and city councilman, and businessman Radigan.

In Cleveland's race for mayor, Democrat Carl B. Stokes, Negro lawyer and state legislator, is slightly favored over Republican Seth Taft, member of the distinguished family that has produced a president and other notable political figures.

Boston's nonpartisan mayoral election also is tinged with the racial issue. Louise Day Hicks, who as a school committee member opposed busing of Negroes to white schools, opposed Kevin H. White, Massachusetts secretary of state. Mrs. Hicks sought to become the first woman mayor in the city's 337 years.

also felt by some to hold the key in the Suffolk contest with incumbent county executive H. Lee Dennison and Republican Gilbert C. Hanse, supervisor of Babylon.

Dennison, a Democrat, seeks reelection to a third four-year term and is running on his record. Hanse, 53, emphasizes "home rule" for the county's 10 towns.

The only countywide proposition in Suffolk will determine whether voters want the county to build a racetrack as a source of revenue.

Nassau voters will decide if they want a new county charter to replace the 1938 document. A key provision of the new charter is expansion of the six-member board to 18 members.

Under the Nassau ombudsman proposal, the county executive would appoint a public protector for a six-year term subject to confirmation by the Board of Supervisors.

The ombudsman would receive and investigate complaints from citizens about their government with the exception that complaints about the police department would go directly to the police commissioner.

Goldberg Rules Out Rumor on Bar Admission

NEW YORK (AP) — The office of Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. representative to the United Nations, denies there is political significance in his being admitted to the New York State bar.

His admission renewed speculation that Goldberg may be planning to make himself available for the Democratic nomination to oppose U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., next year.

"There is no political significance whatsoever," a spokesman said Monday. It was noted that the same courtesy of the bar was extended to Adlai Stevenson when he headed the U.S. delegation at the United Nations.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court confirmed that Goldberg, a former associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, was admitted to practice here last Tuesday on a waiver of the customary examination for an out-of-state lawyer.

Canal Pact Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A delay of a year or more is in prospect before legislative action is taken by Panama and the United States on treaties governing operation of the Panama Canal, owned by this country.

The two governments reached agreement in negotiations on the pact last June but elected officials in the two countries attacked the proposals.

The delay in taking up ratification of the treaties is likely because Panama is holding national elections May 12 and the new National Assembly won't meet until October 1968. The U.S. Senate isn't expected to consider the treaties until Panama approves them; thus, Senate action would not be likely until 1969.

Denied Entry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Soviets—a scientist and a political commentator—have been denied State Department permission to visit this country to make speeches in connection with the 50th anniversary of the Soviet Union.

Dr. Nikolai Blokhin, president of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Medical Sciences and head of the Institute of Soviet-American Relations, and Vikenty Matveyev of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, had been invited to address rallies in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco by a group called the "Ad Hoc Citizens' Committee for Cultural Exchange," headed by Howard L. Parsons of Bridgeport, Conn.

The State Department said the two would be welcome in their capacities as scientist and journalist.

20,000 on Standby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has authorized almost 20,000 additional standby troops for the National Guard and Army Reserves "for state missions."

An Army spokesman said this means primarily riot-control duties.

The spokesman said it hasn't been determined which states will receive the new Guard units. The additions in the Army Reserves will be absorbed in existing units, he said.

Wallace Wishes

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Gov. George Wallace's grandmother celebrated her 100th birthday and made a wish that she could live to see him president.

Mrs. Kate Frink Watson received a telephone call Monday from her grandson.

"I hope you live another 100 years," Wallace said. He said he would see you president.

Gov. Lurleen Wallace sent the tiny Mrs. Watson, who weighs just 68 pounds and is less than five feet tall, a telegram of congratulations on her birthday.

The telegram wished her "many more years of outstanding living."

She lives in Graysville with a daughter, Mrs. V.E. Thomas.

John Nance Garner, 98 Dies; Was Vice President 1932-40

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—John Nance Garner, former vice president of the United States, died in the bedroom of his home here today. He was 98.

"It was just old age," a companion said.

"Cactus Jack," Garner, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1940 when the two men split over the third-term issue, had been gradually failing for several hours, the companion, Don Large, 24, said.

No Last Words

"I was holding his hand when he went. He didn't have no last words. His eyes were open to the last—he wasn't sleeping," said Large.

With Large at the side of the hospital-type bed in Garner's bedroom at the last were a doctor, Garner's son Tully and a granddaughter.

Garner's last years were quiet ones, whiled away in the tending of his pecan trees and the feeding of his turkeys around his house.

His birthdays were annual highlights attracting the press and friends from distant points.

Last Nov. 22, on his 98th birthday, Cactus Jack told well-wishers: "When you're 98, you've got to be feeling either real good or real bad. I'm feeling real good. I've just got two years to go to make 100—it should be easy."

Large, a Uvalde man who said he has been Garner's salaried companion for four years, spoke in a halting, trembling voice of his employee's last hours.

Was Greatest

"Earlier in the morning, he'd told me he loved me. I guess those were his last words. I re-dedicated. He was the greatest. There'll never be another like him," said Large.

In the bedroom, beside Garner's bed, was a rollaway bed where Large often had spent the night.

Large said that although the doctor was at bedside, there had been no frantic last-minute efforts on Garner's behalf.

"He'd been taking his regular medicine, vitamins and things, just what you'd give anyone who's old," said Large.

Garner openly enjoyed, in his later years, the occasional visits by the public on such occasions as his birthdays.

"People come by here to see me," he once said. "They want to see what a former vice president looks like. They expect to see some big imposing man."

"And it's me. I'm just a little old Democrat."

Garner spent 46 years in public life: in the Texas Legislature, in Congress where he was speaker of the House, and when he was nominated to be Roosevelt's first vice president in 1932.

Officer Killed On Third Tour Of Viet Duty

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A young Naval officer serving his third tour of duty in Vietnam was killed last Friday when the bomber he was aboard crashed at sea shortly after takeoff from the aircraft carrier Constellation, his parents say.

Lt. J.g. Hans H. Granert, 25, was serving as a navigator-bombardier on the A3B Sky Warrior plane. Dr. and Mrs. J. Granert of suburban Brighton said Monday. Two other crewmen also perished.

Granert's body was not recovered.

Granert had completed more than 250 strike and support missions since 1965 and was decorated by the South Vietnamese government with its Air Gallantry Medal. He twice volunteered for additional duty in the war zone.

"He was full of idealism and thought it was the thing to do for his country, the father said.

The family moved to the Rochester area from Frankfurt, Germany in 1946. Granert entered the Navy in 1963 shortly after his graduation from the University of Notre Dame.

Besides his parents, Granert leaves a sister and three brothers. One, Peter, 26, is a Marine captain who recently returned to this country from Vietnam duty.

The parents' address is 77 Southern Pkwy.

Reagan Elephant Given to Zoo

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan knows what to do with a white elephant—give it to a zoo.

At least that's what the Republican governor and his wife have decided to do with the 15-month-old, 992-pound white elephant arriving for them in San Francisco by airliner Thursday.

The animal is a gift of Leka, son of the late exiled King Zog of Albania, who lives in Paris.

Reagan's assistant press secretary, Mrs. Nancy Reynolds, said Monday that Leka is a longtime admirer of the governor's and offered the elephant some time ago.

It will be given to Sacramento's Land Park Zoo.

Said Mrs. Reagan: "We have nicknamed it G.O.P. obviously for...the Grand Old Party."

Sherry Lynn McKnight

Sherry Lynn McKnight, four years old, of Route 4, Box 140, Saugerties, daughter of James and Barbara Doyle McKnight, died Saturday suddenly at her residence. She was born October 3, 1963 in Kingston. Surviving besides her parents are a maternal grandfather, Earl Doyle of Saugerties; a paternal grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Carney of Saugerties. Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. from Seamon Funeral Home Inc., John and Lafayette Streets, Saugerties, with George J. Sager of Kingston, Jehovah's Witnesses, Reader, officiating. Burial was in Mt. View Cemetery, Saugerties, where Mr. Sager conducted committal services.

Martin F. Urell

Sought High Post

Twice he sought the presidential nomination. The first time was in 1932 when he finally threw his support to Roosevelt. The latter was in 1940 when he unsuccessfully opposed the third-term of Roosevelt, whom he then was calling "Boss."

After swearing in his successor, Henry A. Wallace, Garner left Washington. He said he was through with politics.

Tully, Garner, 71, Garner's only child, who was in the modest white frame cottage at the moment of death, said "He had a wonderful life. This was the best way to go. No pain, no nothing."

"We are just sorry he didn't reach 100, we were all pulling for him. At first he talked about reaching 99 and then just last week he asked, 'And after I'm 99, how many more months will it be until I get to be 100?'"

France Cool to Plan NATO Seeks Unity

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Representatives of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization members gathered at NATO's new Brussels headquarters today to discuss closer nonmilitary cooperation, but France was expected to be cool toward more togetherness.

U.S. officials at the conference, led by Undersecretary of State Eugene V. Rostow, were expected to press the allies to keep NATO as tight as possible for a unified approach toward improving relations with the Soviet Union and Communist bloc countries. The United States would also like NATO members to mesh on disarmament, arms control and ways to achieve German reunification.

State Department sources in Washington said the U.S. delegates hope to persuade their allies to consult more closely on major international issues affecting the Atlantic Community. These sources complained that since the alliance was hammered together in 1949, NATO ambassadors have usually met to inform one another of decisions already reached by their governments.

Any such complaints expressed at the Brussels meeting undoubtedly will be met with raised eyebrows from the European members. They have long complained that the United States rarely consults them in advance on anything unless it wants something out of them.

No radical revision of NATO machinery is needed to bring about closer consultation, U.S. officials say.

U.S. officials do not expect another head on collision with the French during this meeting, even though President Charles de Gaulle's independence makes France cool toward the tightening up in NATO the United States now seeks.

Before the delegates was a report in four parts: (1) East-

West relations, (2) relations within the alliance, (3) general defense policy, and (4) relations with uncommitted countries.

Informed sources said it calls for a loose sort of consultation so that on some issues 14 of the 15 members can get together and France can abstain or take part as she wishes.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Enrollment at the 59 units of the State University has jumped by 16 per cent to a total of 138,330 full-time students.

NEW YORK (AP) — Reverence Copper & Brass Inc. has raised prices on fabricated-copper products used by manufacturers to produce a wide variety of consumer goods.

This is the second time in three weeks Reverence has boosted prices, reflecting increased costs triggered by the 17-week old strike in the domestic copper industry.

Reverence increased prices on a wide range of products by four cents a pound of copper content, to a base of 50 cents a pound of contained copper.

Reverence led other mills in a two-cent increase to 46 cents a pound in mid-October.

Some other competitors said they were studying the latest price boost.

GRAYSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Mrs. Kate Frink Watson of Graysville, who loves politics like her grandson, former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, is celebrating her 100th birthday today.

And as with all centenarians, there are interesting stories about her. A daughter, Mrs. V.E. Thomas, tells one.

Last year, when Wallace came to visit, his grandmother queried him about his presidential plans.

"He tried to sidetrack her," said Mrs. Thomas, who noted that Mrs. Watson once ordered the postman to stop delivering a magazine which had been uncomplimentary to Wallace.

"Mama advised him not to run," she said. "She told him he would get killed."

Veteran's Day, November 11th, has changed in meaning and symbol. Once known as Armistice Day in commemoration of cessation of World War I, the day is celebrated now to honor present and ex-service men. Ironically, perhaps this change is for the best, because the hopes that brought on Armistice Day in the beginning, have for the most part, been unfulfilled. We see clearly as our military men are stationed around the world trying to defend the unfulfilled hopes of Armistice Day.

First Ombudsman

Nassau, Suffolk Races Hot

NEW YORK (AP) — Voters in Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island elect county executives today. The Nassau electorate will also decide whether they will have the nation's first ombudsman.

Three candidates are vying for the county executive post in Suffolk while a four-way contest is to be determined in Nassau. In each case the incumbent, a Democrat, seeks reelection.

Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson, 49, trying for a third three-year term in the $30,000 a year post, has both Democratic and Liberal support.

He has campaigned on his record and on the new services offered by his administration. The primary theme of his Republican opponent, Sol Wachter, 37, has been a pledge to reduce the county tax rate 20 per cent next year.

Wachter, a lawyer from Kings Point, is supervisor of North Hempstead and has been active since early spring seeking public exposure.

The other two candidates are James F. Holwell, a high school teacher representing the United for Peace party, and A. Werner Pleus of the Conservative party.

Though the Conservative party has only 4,133 registered voters, some political observers feel Pleus may get 10 times that many votes and could determine the outcome of the race.

Similarly, the Conservative candidate, John J. Conroy, is also felt by some to hold the key in the Suffolk contest with incumbent county executive H. Lee Dennison and Republican Gilbert C. Hanse, supervisor of Babylon.

Dennison, a Democrat, seeks reelection to a third four-year term and is running on his record. Hanse, 53, emphasizes "home rule" for the county's 10 towns.

The only countywide proposition in Suffolk will determine whether voters want the county to build a racetrack as a source of revenue.

Nassau voters will decide if they want a new county charter to replace the 1938 document. A key provision of the new charter is expansion of the six-member board to 18 members.

Under the Nassau ombudsman proposal, the county executive would appoint a public protector for a six-year term subject to confirmation by the Board of Supervisors.

The ombudsman would receive and investigate complaints from citizens about their government with the exception that complaints about the police department would go directly to the police commissioner.

Goldberg Rules Out Rumor on Bar Admission

NEW YORK (AP) — The office of Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. representative to the United Nations, denies there is political significance in his being admitted to the New York State bar.

His admission renewed speculation that Goldberg may be planning to make himself available for the Democratic nomination to oppose U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., next year.

"There is no political significance whatsoever," a spokesman said Monday. It was noted that the same courtesy of the bar was extended to Adlai Stevenson when he headed the U.S. delegation at the United Nations.

Ike Would Enlist if U.S. Invaded

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — "Sir," piped the sixth grader at the Westtown School, "what did you do when you were president? Tell me about one day."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower regarded his questioner and then replied that a typical day was "sometimes filled with leaders and tons of Boy Scouts."

Another student Monday, during Eisenhower's visit to the Quaker school attended by his two granddaughters, asked how he felt about draft card burners.

"I was warned this was a Quaker school," he joked before an audience of about 400 pupils including his granddaughters, Mary Jean, 11, and Susan Elaine, 15. "I think both extremes are wrong."

"As for myself," he continued, "I can never advocate that we sit by supinely while someone takes over this country. At any age—77—if my country was being invaded, I'd enlist as a private."

Vietnam War Issue Figures in Many Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two states choose governors and scores of cities elect mayors today, deciding some contests in which Vietnam, race and the church-state relationship are issues.

Negro candidates face white candidates in Gary, Ind., and Cleveland while Boston's mayor's race features a woman candidate best known for opposing busing of Negro students to white schools.

Gary's battle for mayor between Negro Democrat Richard B. Hatcher and white Republican Joseph Radigan was accompanied by racial tensions that focused national attention on the Indiana steel city.

Election-eve court decisions were necessary to clear the way for the Gary election and for the use of National Guardsmen if necessary to insure peaceful balloting.

Vietnam referenda are on the ballot in San Francisco and Cambridge, Mass., while New Yorkers vote on a $2.5 billion transportation bond issue and a proposed new state constitution that would repeal a ban on public aid to private and parochial schools.

Legislatures are being chosen in New Jersey, Virginia and Mississippi.

Gov. Roger D. Branigan of Indiana ordered National

Guardsmen to the Gary area and the state's Supreme Court later threw out Monday a lower court injunction that would have banned use of the troops to insure a peaceful election.

A three-judge federal panel concluded its consideration of election-rigging charges brought by Hatcher by ordering county officials to guarantee a fair election.

Hatcher and the Justice Department had filed separate suits charging the county's Democratic chairman conspired to remove Negroes from voting lists while adding ineligible whites.

Observers rated as a toss-up the race between Hatcher, a lawyer and city councilman, and businessman Radigan.

In Cleveland's race for mayor, Democrat Carl B. Stokes, Negro lawyer and state legislator, is slightly favored over Republican Seth Taft, member of the distinguished family that has produced a president and other notable political figures.

Boston's nonpartisan mayoral election also is tinged with the racial issue. Louise Day Hicks, who as a school committee member opposed busing of Negroes to white schools, opposed Kevin H. White, Massachusetts secretary of state. Mrs. Hicks sought to become the first woman mayor in the city's 337 years.

In Philadelphia Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter is given a good chance to upset Democratic Mayor James H. Tate.

Republicans also are highly hopeful of taking the Kentucky governorship for the first time in 20 years. The GOP now has 25 of the 50 governorships and holds states with 295 electoral votes.

Only 270 are needed to win the presidency and a GOP victory in Kentucky would raise the party's figure to 26 states with 304 electoral votes.

The Republican candidate in Kentucky is Louie B. Nunn, a conservative lawyer from Glasgow in Southern Kentucky.

Henry Ward, former highway commissioner, is the Democratic nominee.

In Mississippi, veteran U.S. Rep. John Bell Williams, a Democrat and staunch segregationist, is expected to have no trouble rolling up a substantial margin over Republican Rubel Phillips in their race for governor.

From Phillips, Mississippians got a new sort of campaign argument—that the economic welfare of whites and Negroes is linked and one race cannot advance unless the other does too.

Phillips is a Jackson lawyer and one-time Democrat. Williams is a 20-year veteran in Congress.

Canal Pact Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A delay of a year or more is in prospect before legislative action is taken by Panama and the United States on treaties governing operation of the Panama Canal, owned by this country.

The two governments reached agreement in negotiations on the pact last June but elected officials in the two countries attacked the proposals.

The delay in taking up ratification of the treaties is likely because Panama is holding national elections May 12 and the new National Assembly won't meet until October 1968. The U.S. Senate isn't expected to consider the treaties until Panama approves them; thus, Senate action would not be likely until 1969.

Mrs. Annetta E. Wheeler

Funeral services for Mrs. Annetta E. Wheeler of Hurley, who died Friday night, were conducted Monday at 2 p. m. from the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs Street. The Rev. David C. Gaise, DD, pastor of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, officiated. Services were largely attended and many floral tributes were received. Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Gaise and the Rev. William R. Peckham called and offered prayers. Burial was in the Montrose Cemetery.

Ray Lounsbury

Funeral services for Ray Lounsbury of 166 O'Neill Street who died Thursday, were held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, on Monday, at 1 o'clock, with the Rev. George W. Berens, pastor of the East Berne Reformed Church, East Berne, officiating. During the repose in the funeral home, his many relatives and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Sunday evening, the Rev. James V. Keating called, and led those assembled in the recitation of the Holy Rosary. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Saccoman gave the final blessing. Bearers were Richard, John, Francis and William Whalen.

Wallace Wishes

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Gov. George Wallace's grandmother celebrated her 100th birthday and made a wish that she could live to see him president.

Mrs. Kate Frink Watson received a telephone call Monday from her grandson.

"I hope you live another 100 years," Wallace said. He said Mrs. Watson replied "I hope to live to see you president."

Gov. Lurleen Wallace sent the tiny Mrs. Watson, who weighs just 68 pounds and is less than five feet tall, a telegram of congratulations on her birthday.

The telegram wished her "many more years of outstanding living."

She lives in Graysville with a daughter, Mrs. V.E. Thomas.

Reagan Elephant Given to Zoo

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan knows what to do with a white elephant—give it to a zoo.

At least that's what the Republican governor and his wife have decided to do with the 15-month-old, 992-pound white elephant arriving for them in San Francisco by airliner Thursday.

The animal is a gift of Leka, son of the late elvish King Zog of Albania, who lives in Paris.

Reagan's assistant press secretary, Mrs. Nancy Reynolds, said Monday that Leka is a longtime admirer of the governor's and offered the elephant some time ago.

It will be given to Sacramento's Land Park Zoo.

John Nance Garner, 98 Dies; Was Vice President 1932-40

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—John Nance Garner, former vice president of the United States, died in the bedroom of his home here today. He was 98.

"It was just old age," a companion said.

"Cactus Jack," Garner, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's vice president from 1932 until 1940 when the two men split over the third-term issue, had been gradually failing for several hours, the companion, Don Large, 24, said.

No Last Words

"I was holding his hand when he went. He didn't have no last words. His eyes were open to the last—he wasn't sleeping," said Large.

With Large at the side of the hospital-type bed in Garner's bedroom at the last were a doctor, Garner's son Tully and a granddaughter.

Garner's last years were quiet ones, whiled away in the tending of his pecan trees and the feeding of his turkeys around his house.

His birthdays were annual highlights, attracting the press and friends from distant points.

Last Nov. 22, on his 98th birthday, Cactus Jack told well-wishers: "When you're 98, you've got to be feeling either real good or real bad. I'm feeling real good. I've just got two years to go to make 100—it should be easy."

Large, a Uvalde man who said he has been Garner's salaried companion for four years, spoke in a halting, trembling voice of his employer's last hours.

Was Greatest

"Earlier in the morning, he'd told me he loved me. I guess those were his last words. I reprocated. He was the greatest. There'll never be another like him," said Large.

Garner spent 46 years in public life: in the Texas Legislature, in Congress where he was speaker of the House, and when he was nominated to be Roosevelt's first vice president in 1932.

"People come by here to see me," he once said. "They want to see what a former vice president looks like. They expect to see some big imposing man."

Garner's first vice president in 1932.

Twice he sought the presidential nomination. The first time was in 1932 when he finally threw his support to Roosevelt. The latter was in 1940 when he unsuccessfully opposed the third-term bid of Roosevelt, whom he then was calling "Boss."

After swearing in his successor, Henry A. Wallace, Garner left Washington. He said he was through with politics.

Tully Garner, 71, Garner's only child, who was in the modest white frame cottage at the moment of death, said "He had a wonderful life. This was the best way to go. No pain, no nothing."

"We are just sorry he didn't reach 100, we were all pulling for him. At first he talked about reaching 99 and then just last week he asked, 'And after I'm 99, how many more months will it be until I get to be 100?'"

Asked Transportation to Barrytown

Kingston Board Upheld on Bus Rule

An appeal taken by Alderman John L. Machione of Janet Street, from the action of the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated denying his son's transportation to St. Joseph's Preparatory School in Barrytown, has been dismissed.

State Commissioner of Education James E. Allen, for and on behalf of the State Education Department, noted in a decision that the record indicates that the distance between the Machione residence in Kingston and the private school in the North-Dutchess community is in excess of the 10-mile statutory maximum.

Scouts Honored At Pack 3 Meet

The regular meeting of Cub Pack 3 was held last Sunday night. The opening ceremony, an explanation of the jobs of our safety workers, was performed by the Webelos Dens.

Cubmaster George Economos thanked the parents and others who worked at the Cub Scout Olympics on Oct. 14. Mrs. John Devine was presented with a plaque, thanking her for all the work she had done with the Cub Pack in the past.

The following Cubs were awarded Bobcat pins: Robert Gollnick, Vincent Zacheo, Brian Decker, John Loneragan, Richard Smith, John Masterson, Kevin Rosa, Peter Barry, Joseph Argulewicz, James Bishop, Matthew Weishaupt, Kevin Petruski, Jeffrey Vogt, Kevin Wertman and Kenneth McDonough.

Cubs admitted into the Webelos Dens were: Dirk Decker, Dennis McSpirt, Kevin Petruski, Michael Matthews, William Davis, Michael Montabell, Larry Devine, Floyd Graham, R. C. Rolfe and Kenneth McDonough. Other awards were presented as follows: Robert Stall, Cub Day at Camp; McSpirt, Wolf Badge; R. C. Rolfe, 2-year Service Star and three Silver Arrows under Wolf.

A Halloween costume contest was held with Messrs. Douglas Masterson, William Winslow and Raymond Glass acting as judges. Winners of prizes were as follows: Funniest costumes, James Bishop, Mark Macenka, and Kevin Wertman; Original costumes, John Masterson, Mark Hofstatter, and Clyde Gelsleichter; Hideous costumes, Joseph Argulewicz and Jeffrey Vogt. The prize for the best over-all costume was given to four boys dressed as Bobcats, namely, John Loneragan, Brian Decker, Robert Gollnick and Vincent Zacheo.

Cubmaster Economos announced that the theme for the month of November is "Around the World."

The Webelos Dens closed the meeting with the Cubmaster's Benediction. Halloween refreshments consisting of cider, doughnuts and apples were served.

Rochester Town Asks Covered Bridge Aid

Wanting to retain the historical beauty of the Catskills and believing that covered bridges attract tourists, Walter C. Zubay has asked the Town of Rochester to preserve its covered bridge over Mombaccas Creek.

Zubay, who represents a group of postcard collectors who revere covered bridges and rustic markers, cited the creek on Waterfalls Road as one of the finest in the township for fishing and swimming.

Stating that the bridge was in poor repair and potentially dangerous and that little money had been spent for its maintenance, he told the board at a recent meeting that the townspeople "cannot afford to not do something."

He presented a brief history of the bridge and others which date back 2,000 years in China and asked that petitions be circulated in order to retain the Catskills as a national monument and a historical place of beauty for generations.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

The YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County has announced the appointment of Veikko Jalanti as its masseur. Jalanti has worked in various area establishments since 1945. His career spans two continents as he started in Finland where he attended a messaging school. Today he is married and has three children ages 14, 17, and 21.

"Y" Mens Health Clubs may avail themselves of the "Jalanti Touch." On Monday, Wednesday and Thursday between the hours of 3 p. m. to 10 p. m. The members first get a workout at for- mal exercise classes, volleyball, paddleball and swimming, and then go into the club for a steam bath and massage.

Jalanti besides his YMCA interest has been a supporter of the Community Chest for many years.

THE SCUBA and Skin Diving Class is forming at the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County. This beginner's course is Mondays from 7:30-8:30 in the class room and 8:30-10:00 in the pool. Teacher Mike Shovel and his staff will cover the basic fundamentals of surface and underwater techniques in this popular sport. Women and men sixteen years of age and over may contact the "Y". The YMCA is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Chrysler Strike Set Wednesday If Talks Fail

DETROIT (AP) — Auto Workers Union President Walter P. Reuther said today if agreement on a new contract is not reached with Chrysler Corp. by midnight Wednesday there "definitely will be a national strike."

"We will not make an extension," Reuther told newsmen as he emerged from a 14-hour bargaining session shortly after midnight, longest session since Reuther signaled the start of showdown bargaining by joining talks Saturday.

Reuther and John Leary, chief negotiator for the No. 3 automaker, said some progress had been made in fitting the recent settlement at Ford Motor Co. to the more complex Chrysler situation.

But Reuther said there had been "no movement at all" on resolving one of the central issues — wage priority for Canadian auto workers.

Reuther emphasized, however, that the parity question was only one of several issues that made rewriting the Ford pact difficult, although Chrysler has agreed in principle to most of its provisions, which hiked by roughly $1 an hour the average Ford workers $4.70 in wages and benefits.

Leary and Reuther also agreed that today's session would be a long one, probably extending far past midnight.

Only three local agreements remain to be negotiated at Ford plants across the country and the company plans to be back in full production by end of the week.

Roving Police Units

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Police Department is establishing special operations units to go where the action is.

A lieutenant will command each of the 14-man groups in the nine districts, deploying men as they are needed within each district. To combat a rash of burglaries, for example, he can assign part or all of the group for extra protection of the area.

Police officials call the new units small tactical squads. They say they can provide extra manpower without taking men away from their beats.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Kerhonkson - Accord First Aid Squad will be held at the squad building, Route 209 at 8 p. m. Monday, Nov. 13.

Nominations will be on the agenda. Elections of the 1968 slate will be held at the Dec. 11 meeting.

Proposed changes to constitution and by-laws will be voted at the November meeting. Any member who does not have a copy of the proposed changes may get them from the squad office.

37 Coal Cars Are Derailed Near Ripley

RIPLY, N.Y. (AP) — Thirty-seven coal cars of a New York Central Railroad freight train derailed today in this Western New York community on the Pennsylvania line.

No one was reported injured. The cars, part of a 120-car train, overturned. Coal spilled along the right-of-way and blocked the two tracks.

Railroad officials said the cause of the derailment had not been determined.

China, Russia Give Views On Soviet Anniversary

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Quotation from Chairman Mao: "Every Communist must grasp the truth, 'Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun.'"

Every day since Nov. 1 the Hsinhua—New China—News Agency, seen in Tokyo, has repeated these words between news items and at regular transmission breaks.

It was perhaps no coincidence that it did so during the week the Russians celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

For this familiar quotation from Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung epitomizes the struggle between the two big Communist nations and explains why China is boycotting the great Communist festival.

Mao says people's war and permanent, violent revolution are the keys to Communist victory. The Russians say it can be won through peaceful coexistence.

Mao's ideas are undergoing a searing test in the Vietnam jungles and rice paddies. Thus he is reluctant to have it end until the Communists there have won a clearcut victory over the Americans.

The trouble with this is that China is not the only country helping the Vietnamese. Should they defeat the United States, the Russians would be able to say that without their massive aid it could never have been done.

Thus, Soviet aid serves the double purpose of boosting Soviet prestige in the Communist bloc and threatening to deprive the Chinese of the chance to say that people's war and people's war alone won the day.

For this reason the Russians must—and undoubtedly will—continue to boost their aid. On Oct. 21, Moscow Radio, in a broadcast beamed to China, boasted that of all the Communist countries its aid was the biggest: That U.S. planes were being downed because of Soviet automatic anti-aircraft guns and missiles. It said the new Soviet-Vietnam agreement will give Hanoi more airplanes, missiles, cannon, ammunition and other military supplies than ever.

On Friday, party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev pledged Soviet aid to Vietnamese Communists until U.S. forces leave.

Taunting Mao with his refusal to form a joint front, Moscow radio has said, "The Mao group is evidently afraid of peace in that country and hopes that the flame of war will continue to blaze fiercely."

Against these broadsides, the Chinese have had no answer except that to play ball with the Russians even on so important an issue as Vietnam would be an alliance with the devil.

Another cudgel Peking uses has been largely ineffectual. It says the Russians are plotting with the Americans to get peace and sell the South Vietnamese down the river. No one, least of all the Vietnamese Communists, gives any sign of believing this.

In a series of articles aimed at the 50th anniversary celebrations, the Chinese say there is widespread unemployment, a shortage of daily necessities and no political freedom in Russia.

A minority of "degenerate elements" is having its dictatorial way with the good 90 per cent of the population," said Hsinhua. "It exercises strict control over the armed troops, ceaselessly strengthens police measures, plants plainclothes agents in every nook and corner of the country, sets up many concentration camps and ruthlessly suppresses the discontent and opposition of the working people, the news agency said.

Ironically, these are almost the same charges often aimed at Mao's faction in the Chinese party.

Never Praise

PATNA, India (AP) — Bihar State Food Minister K. D. Singh says housewives curse him all day long.

Singh says that in his unenviable position a housewife starts the day cursing him for the coal shortage when she tries to light the morning fire; she complains during the day because of the shortage of sugar for tea; and she is not in an "endearing mood" when she thinks of the high price of kerosene for lanterns at night.

By MICHAEL JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Gus Hall, leader of the American Communist party, denounced policies of the U.S. government in a speech at a Kremlin meeting Monday.

"The heroic Vietnamese people are the victims of U.S. aggression," Hall declared. "Our party considers it our main task to fight U.S. imperialism until not a single American soldier, tank or warship will be in a foreign land."

The Soviet government announced the award of its highest decoration, the Order of Lenin, to President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

A South Vietnamese Communist leader expressed thanks to both the Soviet Union and Red China for their "huge aid and support."

Dang Tran Thi, member of the ruling presidium of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong), made the only favorable reference to China heard at the gathering celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

"Today's victories and the victories of the future cannot be separated from the huge aid and support from the Soviet Union, China and other Socialist countries," Dang Tran Thi said.

His tribute to China came after other Communist leaders, including Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, condemned Mao Tse-tung and called for a world Communist conference. This presumably would read Mao and his followers out of the Communist movement.

The position of the South Vietnamese leader showed that resistance to the conference continues among some parties.

Yugoslav President Tito and Romania's Nicolae Ceausescu avoided mentioning the conference in speeches today, a sign that they still oppose it.

At the two-day meeting only Poland and Bulgaria have come out for a world conference. But the Bulgarian call was greeted by stormy applause.

Impala Custom Coupe

From Impala, world's most popular car The silent ride of quality for '68

Now there are more good reasons than ever why people should prefer Impala. Like all regular Chevrolets, it's even further ahead for '68!

A more hushed ride

Among other things, we refined and improved everything about the ride to make it surprisingly smooth and silent. Just try it and see. You'll find that our engineers used electronic computers to pinpoint places where noises might develop, and installed a special network of rubber cushions to keep squeaks and rattles from disturbing your comfort.

We doubt that you've ever driven a car that moves so noiselessly.

The look you like best

People have always preferred Impala's looks. So for 1968 we made it even more beautiful. We gave the grille a more massive and masculine look. We gave the hood sweeping new lines and tucked the wipers neatly out of sight. We designed the taillights right into the rear bumper for a look you're sure to like.

We owe you the best

We figure we owe people more than other car makers do.

Because it was people who put us in first place in the first place, and who keep us there year after year.

We appreciate it.

Taunting Mao with his refusal to form a joint front, Moscow radio has said, "The Mao group is evidently afraid of peace in that country and hopes that the flame of war will continue to blaze fiercely."

Against these broadsides, the Chinese have had no answer except that to play ball with the Russians even on so important an issue as Vietnam would be an alliance with the devil.

Another cudge Peking uses has been largely ineffectual. It says the Russians are plotting with the Americans to get peace and sell the South Vietnamese down the river. No one, least of all the Vietnamese Communists, gives any sign of believing this.

In a series of articles aimed at the 50th anniversary celebrations, the Chinese say there is widespread unemployment, a shortage of daily necessities and no political freedom in Russia.

A minority of "degenerate elements" is having its dictatorial way with the good 90 per cent of the population," said Hsinhua. "It exercises strict control over the armed troops, ceaselessly strengthens police measures, plants plainclothes agents in every nook and corner of the country, sets up many concentration camps and ruthlessly suppresses the discontent and opposition of the working people, the news agency said."

Ironically, these are almost the same charges often aimed at Mao's faction in the Chinese party.

Never Praise

PATNA, India (AP) — Bihar State Food Minister K. D. Singh says housewives curse him all day long.

Singh says that in his unenviable position a housewife starts the day cursing him for the coal shortage when she tries to light the morning fire; she complains during the day because of the shortage of sugar for tea; and she is not in an "endearing mood" when she thinks of the high price of kerosene for lanterns at night.

MOSCOW (AP) — Gus Hall, leader of the American Communist party, denounced policies of the U.S. government in a speech at a Kremlin meeting Monday.

"The heroic Vietnamese people are the victims of U.S. aggression," Hall declared.

"Our party considers it our main task to fight U.S. imperialism until not a single American soldier, tank or warship will be in a foreign land."

The Soviet government announced the award of its highest decoration, the Order of Lenin, to President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

A South Vietnamese Communist leader expressed thanks to both the Soviet Union and Red China for their "huge aid and support."

Dang Tran Thi, member of the ruling presidium of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong), made the only favorable reference to China heard at the gathering celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

"Today's victories and the victories of the future cannot be separated from the huge aid and support from the Soviet Union, China and other Socialist countries," Dang Tran Thi said.

His tribute to China came after other Communist leaders, including Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, condemned Mao Tse-tung and called for a world Communist conference. This presumably would read Mao and his followers out of the Communist movement.

The position of the South Vietnamese leader showed that resistance to the conference continues among some parties.

Yugoslav President Tito and Romania's Nicolae Ceausescu avoided mentioning the conference in speeches today, a sign that they still oppose it. At the two-day meeting only Poland and Bulgaria have come out for a world conference. But the Bulgarian call was greeted by stormy applause.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Roving Police Units

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Police Department is establishing special operations units to go where the action is.

A lieutenant will command each of the 14-man groups in the nine districts, deploying men as they are needed within each district. To combat a rash of burglaries, for example, he can assign part or all of the group for extra protection of the area.

Police officials call the new units small tactical squads. They say they can provide extra manpower without taking men away from their beats.

Tribe's Growth

The Navaho, largest Indian tribe in the United States, is growing at a rapid rate. In 1868, there were not more than 12,000; the current Navaho population is about 90,000.

Impala Custom Coupe

From Impala, world's most popular car

The silent ride of quality for '68

Now there are more good reasons than ever why people should prefer Impala. Like all regular Chevrolets, it's even further ahead for '68!

A more hushed ride

Among other things, we refined and improved everything about the ride to make it surprisingly smooth and silent. Just try it and see. You'll find that our engineers used electronic computers to pinpoint places where noises might develop, and installed a special network of rubber cushions to keep squeaks and rattles from disturbing your comfort.

We doubt that you've ever driven a car that moves so noiselessly.

The look you like best

People have always preferred Impala's looks. So for 1968 we made it even more beautiful. We gave the grille a more massive and masculine look. We gave the hood sweeping new lines and tucked the wipers neatly out of sight. We designed the taillights right into the rear bumper for a look you're sure to like.

We owe you the best

We figure we owe people more than other car makers do.

Because it was people who put us in first place in the first place, and who keep us there year after year.

We appreciate it.

Be smart! Be sure! Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

All Chevrolets are priced for greater value! The lowest priced 1968 Chevrolets are (models not shown): Corvair 500 Sport Coupe $2,220.00; Chevy II Nova Coupe $2,199.00; Camaro Sport Coupe $2,565.00; Chevelle 300 Coupe $2,318.00; Chevrolet Biscayne 2-Door Sedan $2,558.00; Corvette Convertible $4,320.00. Manufacturer's suggested retail prices including Federal Excise Tax, suggested dealer delivery and handling charges. Transportation charges, accessories, optional equipment, state and local taxes additional.

Sonic Boom Impact Outlined for Future

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A boom of another kind, not an economic boom but one that impact and mechanics may be even more readily understood, will burst upon our heads in the 1970s.

This is the sonic boom, a blast of sound waves created when aircraft fly faster than the speed of sound. It can shatter plate glass, plaster and other property, but above all it can shatter nerves of man and animal.

It is also perhaps the greatest headache that lies ahead for builders and operators of the huge commercial jets that are expected to be soaring through the skies at speeds of more than 1,800 miles an hour.

British, French, Soviet and U.S. interests are now working on their models, all of which will be sleek, comfortable and quiet within, but incredibly loud without.

As a result, mankind is presented now with another round in the endless contest with the products of his own technology. The contest is clearly defined: man demands speed in going from one place to another; he has an innate urge, often unsatisfied, to peace and quiet also.

Will the noise be banned? Or will man be forced to listen? The expert opinion now concludes that the loud plane will win. They feel there is an inevitability about it, for technology generally has won in the past, as witness the air, water and sound pollution that already exists.

For the present anyway, federal officials feel the public can adjust to the noise, citing as evidence man's adjustment to the introduction of other brand-new noises in the past.

"Individuals tend to accommodate themselves to an initially disturbing noise, once it becomes a pattern of daily life, the Federal Aviation Agency says.

"There are noises today in cities and in small towns that are taken for granted which, if they were introduced as new noises, would cause disturbances for an initial period of time," the agency adds.

This conclusion provokes outraged rebuttals from sociologists, medical men, property owners and residents who live near airports, all of whom contend that although man may tolerate air noises, his adjustment to them is less than perfect.

The problem of shock waves also is causing great concern among some of the insurance fraternity, who feel they will be deluged with claims for damage, much of which they will be unable to prove or disprove as caused by the boom.

Proof of damage from sonic blasts has been fairly easy to establish so far because tests have been restricted to precise geographical areas.

During tests in St. Louis six years ago more than 1,600 claims were filed and more than 800 of them were declared valid. Claims also were allowed for damage in tests at Oklahoma City and Chicago.

What happens, however, when several huge supersonic commercial craft fly coast to coast, over city and farm, leaving behind a 50-mile swath boom? Legal and insurance chaos perhaps.

The alternative, now being considered and studied by engineers, is a modification of the craft that would reduce, but not eliminate, the boom. So far, nobody has been able to muffle the noise completely.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
Sound Stocks Make Splendid Presents

Q—We have been married 10 years. After a few years of financial difficulties, things changed for us and we are now—through business, savings and insurance—we are well set up financially for many years to come. Between Christmas and my husband's birthday in January, I usually spend between $400 and $500 on presents for him. He now has everything he wants and I thought I might put $500 into a stock. I was thinking of Tally Corp.—B. F. & F. I am very much pleased that things have turned out well for you and your idea of giving your husband a present of a good stock each year seems very sound. Tally is a little rich but has a fine potential in my opinion. Almost any broker will handle a $500 transaction and I believe that once you've begun you'll become interested enough to step up your purchases and build a good growth portfolio for your retirement.

Q—We purchased shares in American Machine & Foundry at 19 to help our son get a college education. He is now 10 years old. I wonder if there aren't much better stocks that would suit our purpose. Would you give an opinion on this?—E. D.

A—It is always pleasant for me to help good parents like yourself who want their son to achieve a college education. I believe there are many stocks better suited to your purpose than American Machine & Foundry. This is a pretty good stock which expanded operations materially through shipments of automatic pinpointers, but this business became overextended in 1961. Since then earnings have come down. I believe that you should buy good growth stocks for your son's use seven or eight years hence and suggest that you put $500 into American Machine & Foundry into Baxter Laboratories, one of the very best growth stocks in disposable medical supplies.

Look for Bottom Spear Advises

"It is time to start looking for the bottom" in the present market, especially among income-type issues with strong earnings trends and good dividend coverage and among fast-growing situations with price-to-earnings ratios not widely out of line with past performance," says Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisers.

Continuing computer-based studies show some undervaluation already making its appearance in the market," said Spear, "in contrast to the recent overvalued area of 930-940 on the Dow."

"The Dow's decline has brought its price-to-earnings ratio down to an estimated 16.7 for this year, a reasonable level considering that the ratio tends to be up in the early stages of an expected ultimate recovery in earnings," Spear said.

"But," he warned, "there are two important adverse possibilities that the market will have to hurdle: 1) a continued climb in money rates and 2) the serious plight of the British pound. Most experts feel that devaluation here is inevitable, which will put a severe strain on the already vulnerable U. S. Dollar."

New Constitution Vote Holds Focus in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York voters were expected to reject the remodeled state constitution in today's "off-year" election, while approving Gov. Rockefeller's request for a record-breaking $2.5-billion bond issue for transportation.

These were the main issues confronting the electorate in balloting beginning at 6 a.m. and closing at 9 p.m. in the state's 13,432 election districts.

A relatively heavy turnout was anticipated because of high interest generated by a religious controversy over the new charter's proposal to repeal the Blaine Amendment ban on financial aid to church-supported schools.

Slightly more than 7.2 million voters were registered and, based on previous experience, a turnout of more than 5 million could be expected. The total could approach 5.5 million, however.

Weather was not expected to be a factor. Fair, crisp weather was forecast for the New York City area, while a cold, cloudy day was in prospect for the rest of the state, with possible snow flurries Upstate.

The revised charter and the bond issue provided the main attractions on the statewide section of the election ballot, which also listed numerous contests for local offices, including races for county executive and for mayors in various cities.

Rockefeller carried his drive for approval of the bond issue into the final hours, with a news conference in New York City in which Mayor John V. Lindsay and City Council President Frank D. O'Connor also participated.

At the same time, Democrats who controlled the Constitutional Convention, which produced the new charter, sought to marshal support for the document.

Most election observers agreed that Rockefeller's drive for passage of the bond-borrowing plan would be approved, while the Constitution would be rejected.

The governor told reporters that he was "optimistic" about the prospects for passage of his transportation plan.

He says he needs the money to help finance a major attack on mass transportation snarls that threaten the state's economic growth. He intends to use $1.25 billion for highway improvements, $1 billion for modernizing subways, commuter railroads and buslines, and $250 million for expansion of airport facilities.

The bond issue would be the largest ever undertaken by any state in this nation.

O'Connor, who was Rockefeller's Democratic opponent for governor last year, said he was certain the bond issue would be passed. Lindsay, also supporting the plan, declined a prediction, meanwhile, Democrats assembled several of their convention delegates for a New York City news conference of their own at which they stressed the new constitution's potential benefits for urban areas of the state. City officials in Buffalo and Rochester participated in the discussion through open telephone lines.

On the eve of the election, other proponents and opponents of the revised charter held rallies in New York City to sway voters.

The Independent Citizens for a New Constitution, supporters of the document, heard former City Council President Paul R. Scriver, a Democrat, say, "unfortunately the proposed constitution has become a Blaine Amendment. I feel people will vote for or against it on the basis of the Blaine Amendment."

Opponents heard Donald Harrington, Liberal Party chairman, and William F. Haddad, co-chairman of the Committee for Public Education and Religious Liberty, deplore "frantic late-minute efforts by politicians to label everyone opposed to the constitution, as being motivated by bigotry."

Harrington and Haddad spoke at a news conference. Also urging defeat of the new constitution were representatives from B'nai B'rith, the American Jewish Congress, State Council of Churches, Public Education Association, United Parents Association and the Baptist Ministers Conference of Greater New York.

In Syracuse, Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University termed the new constitution a "great step forward for higher education in New York State."

No major statewide offices were at stake in the election, except for two seats on the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal. The balloting in this case was formally because candidates Charles D. Breitler of Manhattan and Matthew J. Jasen of Buffalo both had Democratic and Republican party endorsements.

The proposed bond issue appeared on the question line of the ballot as Proposition 1. The revised constitution was listed three spaces away as Question 1.

Between the two were two proposed amendments to the present Constitution—under the headings Amendment 1 and Amendment 2.

The first proposed to increase the state-guaranteed borrowing power of the Joint Development Authority from $50 million to $200 million. The agency uses its income to make low-interest loans to industries that normally cannot obtain financial help from private lending sources.

The second amendment seeks an exception to the "forever wild" policy governing the state forest preserve so that the state could build and operate a ski center on the Blue Ridge Range of the Adirondack preserve.

She Hides Fears Of Family Deaths

WHITEHALL, N.Y. (AP) — For fear of upsetting her ailing, elderly parents, a New Jersey woman resisted the impulse to turn on a radio and learn whether her husband and three young sons were alive or dead in an airplane crash near here.

Mrs. Shirley Tilden, 35, of Norwood, N.J., tried to appear calm and kept her apprehensions to herself as she drove her parents home to Mamaroneck, N.Y., from Burlington, Vt.

Finally, after reaching Mamaroneck, she was informed that her husband, Leroy Tilden, 39, an analyst of securities, and the boys—Paul, 10, Clark, 7, and Bradley, 3—had been killed.

State Police said Tilden's small plane crashed in the rugged Black Mountain area between here and Lake George during a snow squall Sunday.

Early Sunday, Tilden had driven to the airport in Caldwell, N.J., and all but Mrs. Tilden took off in the plane for Burlington.

Mrs. Tilden was to pick up her parents at the hospital Monday morning and drive them home to Westchester in their car. Her husband decided to fly back Sunday so that the boys would not miss school.

Mrs. Tilden's father, George S. Ayres of Mamaroneck, had been in a Burlington hospital. His wife, also ill, was with him.

At about 5 p.m. Sunday, residents in the Whitehall area, near the Vermont-New York border and Lake Champlain, reported hearing what sounded like a plane crash.

The smashed craft was spotted Monday morning by the pilot of a State Conservation Department helicopter, and he directed state troopers to the scene.

Mrs. Tilden tried to phone her home Sunday night. She received no answer. She tried again early Monday. Then she called the family baby-sitter, who told her that Tilden and the boys had not returned.

Her anxiety mounting, she phoned Burlington Airport and was told there had been "an accident" near Glens Falls, N.Y., which is south of here. She received no word, however, on the fate of her family.

Fearing the worst, she picked up her parents at 9 a.m. and headed for Mamaroneck.

Waiting for them at the Ayres home was the Tilden family minister and the Ayres family pastor, who broke the news.

Can't Prove Bear Theory By These Two

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — According to his owner, Yogi, a black bear, is "not vicious" and "won't even eat raw meat." But you'd have a tough time proving that to Thomas Harrahan and his four-year-old niece Rebecca Hincken.

Rebecca was mauled by Yogi's claws and molars Monday but escaped serious injury when four men came to her rescue and beat the bear with an iron fence post.

She was treated and released at a hospital for bruises and skin punctures on her legs and then left by car with her uncle for their Farmington, N.J., home.

Rebecca and Harrahan were standing near the bear's cage which is outside a restaurant on U.S. 301 near Centreville. Harrahan said they were feeding the bear from food in a coin-operated machine when the food ran out and the bear grabbed Rebecca.

She was pulled into the cage up to her waist and her slacks were ripped off. Her screams brought her rescuers who battled with the bear for several minutes before they were able to free the hysterical child.

Back McNamara Assurances on Deterrent Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Pentagon officials, echoing the assurances of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, say this country has adequate deterrent power for an orbital nuclear bomb system reportedly being developed by the Soviet Union.

Paul H. Nitze, deputy defense secretary, told a subcommittee of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee Monday such a Soviet system would not pose a surprisingly new or dangerous development. This view was backed in testimony by Dr. John S. Foster, the Pentagon's director of defense research and engineering.

McNamara recently announced the Soviets apparently are developing a system to fire a nuclear bomb from a vehicle put into at least a partial orbit.

Jobless Rate Rises in Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose to 4.3 per cent last month, the highest point in two years, the Labor Department said today.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics declined to say whether the rise in unemployment indicated an economic lag, but he said a smaller-than-usual increase in employment and a slight drop in the average work week in October "were" "certainly disappointing."

The unemployment rate was up two-tenths of one per cent from September and up five-tenths from August for the biggest two-month rise in seven years.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was reported to have consulted on Saturday and Sunday with Lord Caradon, Britain's U.N. representative; King Hussein of Jordan, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Jordan.

Eban flew to London and met with British Foreign Secretary George Brown. He was due back in New York today.

Attempts by the 10 nonpermanent council members broke down after they tried to reach a compromise between two rival plans.

One, drawn up by Argentina, Brazil, Ethiopia, India, Mali and Nigeria, advanced specific principles for a settlement and ordered the U.N. representative to work out a solution along those lines.

The other, put forward by Canada and Denmark, also called for a U.N. representative, but his assignment was couched in terms that the Arabs found too vague for their liking.

Israel meanwhile wrote the Security Council reporting eight attacks between Oct. 24 and Nov. 5 by "armed marauders" from Jordan and charged the Jordanian government was giving active support and aid to the Arab saboteurs.

Sonic Boom Impact Outlined for Future

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A boom of another kind, not an economic boom but one that impacts on the ears and even more readily understood, will burst upon our heads in the 1970s.
This is the sonic boom, a blast of sound waves created when aircraft fly faster than the speed of sound. It can shatter plate glass, plaster and other property, but above all it can shatter nerves of man and animal.
It is also perhaps the greatest headache that lies ahead for builders and operators of the huge commercial jets that are expected to be soaring through the skies at speeds of more than 1,800 miles an hour.

British, French, Soviet and U.S. interests are now working on their models, all of which will be sleek, comfortable and quiet within, but incredibly loud without.
As a result, mankind is presented now with another round in the endless contest with the products of his own technology. The contest is clearly defined: man demands speed in going from one place to another; he has an innate urge, often unsatisfied, to peace and quiet also.

Will the noise be banned? Or will it be forced to listen? The expert opinion now concludes that the loud plane will win. They feel there is an inevitability about it, for technology generally has won in the past as witness the air, water and sound pollution that already exists.
For the present anyway, federal officials feel the public can adjust to the noise, citing as evidence man's adjustment to the introduction of other brand-new noises in the past.
"Individuals tend to accommodate themselves to an initially disturbing noise, once it becomes a pattern of daily life, the Federal Aviation Agency says.

"There are noises today in cities and in small towns that are taken for granted which, if they were introduced as new noises, would cause disturbances for an initial period of time," the agency adds.
This conclusion provokes outraged rebuttals from sociologists, medical men, property owners and residents who live near airports, all of whom contend that although man may tolerate air noises, his adjustment to them is less than perfect.
The problem of shock waves also is causing great concern among some of the insurance fraternity, who feel they will be deluged with claims for damage, much of which they will be unable to prove or disprove as caused by the boom.
Proof of damage from sonic blasts has been fairly easy to establish so far because tests have been restricted to precise geographical areas.
During tests in St. Louis six years ago more than 1,600 claims were filed and more than 800 of them were declared valid. Claims also were allowed for damage in tests at Oklahoma City and Chicago.
What happens, however, when several huge supersonic commercial craft fly coast to coast, over city and farm, leaving behind a 50-mile swath boom? Legal and insurance chaos perhaps.
The alternative, now being considered and studied by engineers, is a modification of the craft that would reduce, but not eliminate, the boom. So far, nobody has been able to muffle the noise completely.

Sound Stocks Make Splendid Presents

Q—We have been married 10 years. After a few years of financial difficulties, things changed for us and we are now—through business, savings and insurance—well set up financially for many years to come. Between Christmas and my husband's birthday in January, I usually spend between $400 and $500 on presents for him. He now has everything he wants and I thought I might put $500 into a stock. I was thinking of Tally Corp.—B. F. & F. I am very much pleased that things have turned out well for you and your idea of giving your husband a present of a good stock each year seems very sound. Tally is a little rich but has a fine potential in my opinion. Almost any broker will handle a $500 transaction and I believe that once you've begun you'll become interested enough to step up your purchases and build a good growth portfolio for your retirement.
Q—We purchased shares in American Machine & Foundry at 19 to help our son get a college education. He is now 10 years old. I wonder if there aren't much better stocks that would suit our purpose. Would you give an opinion on this?
A—It is always pleasant for me to help good parents like yourself who want their son to achieve a college education. I believe there are many stocks better suited to your purpose than American Machine & Foundry. This is a pretty good stock which expanded operations materially through shipments of automatic pinpointers, but this business became overextended in 1961. Since then, earnings have come down. I believe that you should buy good growth stocks for your son's use seven or eight years hence and suggest that you switch your American Machine & Foundry into Baxter Laboratories, one of the very best growth stocks in disposable medical supplies.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The New Delhi Insurance Institute invited the wrong man to speak to them—Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai.
Desai told them, "I do not believe in having a secured life anytime. The most insecure life is really a secure life."
Fortunately, he added this applied to himself and he would be happy if everyone else in India were insured.

Look for Bottom Spear Advises

"It is time to start looking for the bottom" in the present market, especially among income-type issues with strong earnings trends and good dividend coverage and among fast-growth situations with price-to-earnings ratios not widely out of line with past performance," says Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisers.
Continuing computer-based studies show some undervaluation already making its appearance in the market," said Spear, "in contrast to the recent overvalued area of 930-940 on the Dow."
"The Dow's decline has brought its price-to-earnings ratio down to an estimated 16.7 for this year, a reasonable level considering that the ratio tends to be up in the early stages of an expected ultimate recovery in earnings," Spear said.
"But," he warned, "there are two important adverse possibilities that the market will have to hurdle: 1) a continued climb in money rates and 2) the serious plight of the British pound. Most experts feel that devaluation here is inevitable, which will put a severe strain on the already vulnerable U. S. Dollar."

New Constitution Vote Holds Focus in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York voters were expected to reject the remodeled state constitution in today's "off-year" election, while approving Gov. Rockefeller's request for a record-breaking $2.5-billion bond issue for transportation.
These were the main issues confronting the electorate in balloting beginning at 6 a.m. and closing at 9 p.m. in the state's 13,432 election districts.

A relatively heavy turnout was anticipated because of high interest generated by a religious controversy over the new charter's proposal to repeal the Blaine Amendment ban on financial aid to church-supported schools.

Slightly more than 7.2 million voters were registered and, based on previous experience, a turnout of more than 5 million could be expected. The total could approach 5.5 million, however.

Weather was not expected to be a factor. Fair, crisp weather was forecast for the New York City area, while a cold, cloudy day was in prospect for the rest of the state, with possible snow flurries Upstate.

The revised charter and the bond issue provided the main attractions on the statewide section of the election ballot, which also listed numerous contests for local offices, including races for county executive and for mayors in various cities.

Rockefeller carried his drive for approval of the bond issue into the final hours, with a news conference in New York City in which Mayor John V. Lindsay and City Council President Frank D. O'Connor also participated.

At the same time, Democrats who controlled the Constitutional Convention, which produced the new charter, sought to marshal support for the document.

Most election observers agreed that Rockefeller's drive for passage of the bond-borrowing plan would be approved, while the Constitution would be rejected.

The governor told reporters that he was "optimistic" about the prospects for passage of his transportation plan.

He says he needs the money to help finance a major attack on mass transportation snarls that threaten the state's economic growth. He intends to use $1.25 billion for highway improvements, $1 billion for modernizing subways, commuter railroads and buslines, and $250 million for expansion of airport facilities.

The bond issue would be the largest ever undertaken by any state in this nation.

O'Connor, who was Rockefeller's Democratic opponent for governor last year, said he was certain the bond issue would be passed. Lindsay, also supporting the plan, declined a prediction, meanwhile, Democrats assembled several of their convention delegates for a New York City news conference of their own at which they stressed the new constitution's potential benefits for urban areas of the state. City officials in Buffalo and Rochester participated in the discussion through open telephone lines.

On the eve of the election, other proponents and opponents of the revised charter held rallies in New York City to sway voters.

The Independent Citizens for a New Constitution, supporters of the document, heard former City Council President Paul R. Screvane, a Democrat, say, "Unfortunately the proposed constitution has become a Blaine Amendment. I feel people will vote for or against it on the basis of the Blaine Amendment."

Opponents heard Donald Harrington, Liberal Party chairman, and William F. Haddad, co-chairman of the Committee for Public Education and Religious Liberty, deplore "frantic late-minute efforts by politicians to label everyone opposed to the constitution as being motivated by bigotry."

Harrington and Haddad spoke at a news conference. Also urging defeat of the new constitution were representatives from B'nai B'rith, the American Jewish Congress, State Council of Churches, Public Education Association, United Parents Association and the Baptist Ministers' Conference of Greater New York.

In Syracuse, Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University termed the new constitution a "great step forward for higher education in New York State."

No major statewide offices were at stake in the election, except for two seats on the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal. The balloting in this case was a formality because candidates Charles D. Breitel of Manhattan and Matthew J. Ja-

sen of Buffalo both had Democratic and Republican party endorsements.

The proposed bond issue appeared on the question line of the ballot as Proposition 1. The revised constitution was listed three spaces away as Question 1.

Between the two were two proposed amendments to the present Constitution—under the headings Amendment 1 and Amendment 2.

The first proposed to increase the state-guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 million to $200 million. The agency uses its income to make low-interest loans to industries that normally cannot obtain financial help from private lending sources.

The second amendment seeks an exception to the "forever wild" policy governing the state forest preserve so that the state could build and operate a ski center on the Blue Ridge Range of the Adirondack preserve.

She Hides Fears Of Family Deaths

WHITEHALL, N.Y. (AP) — For fear of upsetting her ailing, elderly parents, a New Jersey woman resisted the impulse to turn on a radio and learn whether her husband and three young sons were alive or dead in an airplane crash near here.

Mrs. Shirley Tilden, 35, of Norwood, N.J., tried to appear calm and kept her apprehensions to herself as she drove her parents home to Mamaronock, N.Y., from Burlington, Vt.

Finally, after reaching Mamaronock, she was informed that her husband, Leroy Tilden, 39, an analyst of securities, and the boys—Paul, 10, Clark, 7, and Bradley, 3—had been killed.

State Police said Tilden's small plane crashed in the rugged Black Mountain area between here and Lake George during a snow squall Sunday.

Early Sunday, Tilden had driven to the airport in Caldwell, N.J., and all but Mrs. Tilden took off in the plane for Burlington.

Mrs. Tilden was to pick up her parents at the hospital Monday morning and drive them home to Westchester in their car. Her husband decided to fly back Sunday so that the boys would not miss school.

Mrs. Tilden's father, George S. Ayres of Mamaronock, had been in a Burlington hospital. His wife, also ill, was with him.

At about 5 p.m. Sunday, residents in the Whitehall area, near the Vermont-New York border and Lake Champlain, reported hearing what sounded like a plane crash.

The smashed craft was spotted Monday morning by the pilot of a State Conservation Department helicopter, and he directed state troopers to the scene.

Mrs. Tilden tried to phone her home Sunday night. She received no answer. She tried again early Monday. Then she called the family baby-sitter, who told her that Tilden and the boys had not returned.

Her anxiety mounting, she phoned Burlington Airport and was told there had been "an accident" near Glens Falls, N.Y., which is south of here. She received no word, however, on the fate of her family.

Fearing the worst, she picked up her parents at 9 a.m. and headed for Mamaronock.

Can't Prove Bear Theory By These Two

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — According to his owner, Yogi, a back bear, is "not vicious" and "won't even eat raw meat." But you'd have a tough time proving that to Thomas Harrahan and his four-year-old niece Rebecca Hincken.

Rebecca was mauled by Yogi's claws and molars Monday but escaped serious injury when four men came to her rescue and beat the bear with an iron fence post.

She was treated and released at a hospital for bruises and skin punctures on her legs and then left by car with her uncle for their Farmington, N.J., home.

Rebecca and Harrahan were standing near the bear's cage which is outside a restaurant on U.S. 301 near Centreville. Harrahan said they were feeding the bear from food in a coin-operated machine when the food ran out and the bear grabbed Rebecca.

She was pulled into the cage up to her waist and her slacks were ripped off. Her screams brought her rescuers who battled with the bear for several minutes before they were able to free the hysterical child.

Yogi's owner, David Wharton, said the bear has molars, but no fangs. He said that even though the girl was bitten, no blood was drawn. Wharton said he bought Yogi from the Baltimore zoo four years ago.

61,670 Voters in Ulster County

7,627,932 Registered in State

A total of 7,627,932 persons are registered to vote in the New York State general election. Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced today. Of this, 61,670 voters are registered in Ulster County. Lomenzo, who is chief administrative officer of the State's election machinery, said that the 1967 registration total is a decrease of 490,012 from the 8,117,944 persons who registered to vote in last year's gubernatorial election. Of the Ulster voters, 31,257 are female and 30,413 are men. The New York City registration this year totals 3,270,351 — 1,739,826 women—1,530,525 men. This represents a decrease of 239,770 from the 1966 New York City registration of 3,510,121. Update, 4,357,581 persons are registered, a decrease of 250,242 from last year's total of 4,607,823.

Businessmen's Nightmares Being Caused by Hippies

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the fate of the free enterprise economy endangered by a bunch of unwashed, unkempt, fuzzy-minded youths lacking goals or business instinct but now, inevitably, attaining a more important role in the economy? This is the nightmare that in a few frantic moments some businessmen see before them. Some sociologists and educators tend to agree that the nightmare could become reality.

Sees Economic Depression

Dr. Marshall McLuhan, the famed Canadian professor and social critic, even foresees an economic depression resulting from this takeover of the economy by a generation poorly adapted to the demands of business.

The nightmare theory may ignore some important factors, however, including the prospect that youthful rebels often become conventional adults, transition that parents may recall from their own experience. It may give too little value also to the fact that youthful protest, a consistent theme of society, often inspires constructive change by exposing weaknesses, inequities and falsehoods. Business could benefit from protest.

In any event, the number of hippies probably has been overestimated, although a teen-ager doesn't need to look like a hippie to sympathize with some hippie beliefs.

The most powerful tranquiliz-

Adopted Anthem

"The Star-Spangled Banner" was composed by Francis Scott Key in 1814, during the bombardment of Ft. McHenry, but it was not adopted as the official national anthem until President Herbert Hoover signed a congressional bill authorizing it as such on March 3, 1931, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

er for businessmen's nightmares is a change of viewpoint, to realize, for instance, that the society that produces hippies produces Peace Corps volunteers as well.

A changed point of view may also reveal that, although much of the business community doesn't attempt to communicate with younger generations, some business organizations make it their avocation.

In the Junior Achievement program, businessmen and industrialists give guidance to 150,000 high school students in organizing and managing their own small-scale businesses.

This educational program, now 48 years old, has chapters in more than 500 communities, where youngsters organize businesses by selling stock and then operate their businesses, hopefully, for profits. In doing so they learn about profit and loss, statements, taxes, mergers and, if need be, bankruptcies.

As an antidote to all the publicity about hippies, the Reader's Digest has chosen 16 outstanding Junior Achievers from around the country and is sending them out as speakers. The students will write their own speeches; they won't be censored.

Based on interviews conducted by the Digest and Junior Achievement for The Associated Press, their talks will be informed, tolerant and generally acceptable to the business community. But they might provoke it as well.

One of the questions was this: "Do you feel that the institution of private enterprise is equipped to help solve some of our great sociological problems?" A few of the answers, greatly abbreviated, follow.

Michael Collins, 19, Columbus, Georgia: "Yes, private enterprise could do it if only it would try. Somebody needs to get in there and tell those businessmen, 'You can do it.' And they can."

IT MUST TRY

Cynthia Vyzenski, 18, Dayton, Ohio: "Not only do I think that business can, but it MUST attempt to solve many of our sociological problems. If business allows the federal government to assume ALL the initiative and responsibility, then it deserves the bad image that it now possesses."

Donna Stone, 17, Atlanta, Georgia: "Scholarships and jobs provided by businesses for industrious and capable members of ghettos could bring about self-improvement in those areas."

Steve Tvorik, 18, Cleveland, Ohio: "There is only one institution in society capable of acting to abolish poverty, the federal government."

These are youthful opinions today. They may be the ingredients of decisions tomorrow.

Lomenzo also pointed out that for the first time in New York State history each of the 62 counties in the state used the Permanent Personal Registration system. While almost 75 per cent of the voters in the state have been balloting under PPR by local option, more than 40 of the 62 counties adopted Permanent Personal Registration this year for the first time by mandate of the Legislature.

By introduction of PPR the counties had to revise previous voter systems of personal and non-personal registration. Under PPR, registrations remain in effect as long as a person votes at least once in every two years and resides at the same address.

As in years past, women registrants in 1967 continued to outnumber men in New York State. A complete total breakdown on male and female voters was incomplete at this announcement because three counties, Essex, Schoharie and Saratoga, had not completed their final male-female tallies.

Lomenzo also announced there will be 13,432 election districts in the state—8,202 Upstate and 5,230 in New York City. There are 127 election districts in Ulster.

This is compared to 13,170 election districts last year and 12,831 in 1965 in the state.

Rat Bill Headed for Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration-backed rat control bill, once hooted down by the House but later patched into an omnibus health measure, appears headed for Senate approval.

The rat eradication program, now part of a two-year extension of various public health programs to cost $589 million, is up for Senate debate today with a vote predicted. The House, with some members cracking jokes and others claiming rat control was a matter for states and not the federal government to handle, earlier this year declined even to take up the administration's proposal for a $40 million, two-year program.

The bantering rejection of the bill drew strong criticism from President Johnson and civil rights leaders, and the House later accepted the program's inclusion in the public health measure.

Also likely to be voted on today is a House-passed bill providing $299.8 million for a three-year extension of federal aid to deal with problems of mental retardation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he also hoped to win passage today of legislation prohibiting discrimination against employment of any persons because of age. It would apply to 40 million Americans between 40 and 65 years of age.

Continuing what shapes up as one of its busiest weeks of the session, the Senate also plans to take up Tuesday the biggest education bill of the year—a $14 billion measure to extend the Elementary and Secondary School Act for three years.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1967. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the Russian government. It was the beginning of Communist rule.

In 1806, Lewis and Clark sighted the Pacific, establishing that America is a vast continent stretched between two oceans.

In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson was re-elected in a contest with former Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

In 1918, a false report that Germany had accepted peace terms set off great excitement across the United States.

In 1940, a suspension bridge between Tacoma, Wash., and the Olympic Peninsula collapsed during a windstorm.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to a fourth term.

In 1956, a U.N. cease-fire order went into effect between Egyptian forces and the opposing Israeli, British and French forces.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower named retired Supreme Court Justice Stanley F. Reed as chairman of the new Civil Rights Commission.

Five years ago — Eleanor Roosevelt died in her New York City home at the age of 78.

One year ago — Communist Chinese diplomats walked out of a Moscow celebration of the Soviet revolution — after hearing criticism of the Peking regime.

Titian, the noted artist, gave his name to a certain color of hair.

Rat Bill Headed for Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration-backed rat control bill, once hooted down by the House but later patched into an omnibus health measure, appears headed for Senate approval.

The rat eradication program, now part of a two-year extension of various public health programs to cost $589 million, is up for Senate debate today with a vote predicted. The House, with some members cracking jokes and others claiming rat control was a matter for states and not the federal government to handle, earlier this year declined even to take up the administration's proposal for a $40 million, two-year program.

The bantering rejection of the bill drew strong criticism from President Johnson and civil rights leaders, and the House later accepted the program's inclusion in the public health measure.

Also likely to be voted on today is a House-passed bill providing $299.8 million for a three-year extension of federal aid to deal with problems of mental retardation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he also hoped to win passage today of legislation prohibiting discrimination against employment of any persons because of age. It would apply to 40 million Americans between 40 and 65 years of age.

Continuing what shapes up as one of its busiest weeks of the session, the Senate also plans to take up Tuesday the biggest education bill of the year—a $14 billion measure to extend the Elementary and Secondary School Act for three years.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1967. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the Russian government. It was the beginning of Communist rule.

In 1805, Lewis and Clark sighted the Pacific, establishing that America is a vast continent stretched between two oceans.

In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson was re-elected in a contest with former Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

In 1918, a false report that Germany had accepted peace terms set off great excitement across the United States.

In 1940, a suspension bridge between Tacoma, Wash., and the Olympic Peninsula collapsed during a windstorm.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to a fourth term.

In 1956, a U.N. cease-fire order went into effect between Egyptian forces and the opposing Israeli, British and French forces.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower named Stanley F. Reed as chairman of the new Civil Rights Commission.

Five years ago — Eleanor Roosevelt died in her New York City home at the age of 78.

One year ago — Communist Chinese diplomats walked out of a Moscow celebration of the Soviet revolution — after hearing criticism of the Peking regime.

Titian, the noted artist, gave his name to a certain color of hair.

61,670 Voters in Ulster County

7,627,932 Registered in State

A total of 7,627,932 persons are registered to vote in the New York State general election. Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced today. Of this,

61,670 voters are registered in Ulster County. Lomenzo, who is chief administrative officer of the State's election machinery, said that the 1967 registration total is a decrease of 490,012 from the 8,177,944 persons who registered to vote in last year's gubernatorial election. Of the Ulster voters, 31,257 are female and 30,413 are men. The New York City registration this year totals 3,270,351—1,739,826 women—1,530,525 men. This represents a decrease of 239,770 from the 1966 New York City registration of 3,510,121. Upstate, 4,357,581 persons are registered, a decrease of 250,242 from last year's total of 4,607,823.

Lomenzo also pointed out that for the first time in New York State history each of the 62 counties in the state used the Permanent Personal Registration system.

While almost 75 per cent of the voters in the state have been balloting under PPR by local option, more than 40 of the 62 counties adopted Permanent Personal Registration this year for the first time by mandate of the Legislature.

By introduction of PPR the counties had to revise previous voter systems of personal and non-personal registration. Under PPR, registrations remain in effect as long as a person votes at least once in every two years and resides at the same address.

As in years past, women registrants in 1967 continued to outnumber men in New York State. A complete total breakdown on male and female voters was incomplete at this announcement because of three counties, Essex, Schoharie and Saratoga, had not completed their final male-female tallies.

Lomenzo also announced there will be 13,432 election districts in the state—8,202 Upstate and 5,230 in New York City. There are 127 election districts in Ulster.

This is compared to 13,170 election districts last year and 12,831 in 1965 in the state.

Businessmen's Nightmares Being Caused by Hippies

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the fate of the free enterprise economy endangered by a bunch of unwashed, unkempt, fuzzy-minded youths lacking goals or business instinct but now, inevitably, attaining a more important role in the economy? This is the nightmare that in a few frantic moments some businessmen see before them. Some sociologists and educators tend to agree that the nightmare could become reality.

Sees Economic Depression

Dr. Marshall McLuhan, the famed Canadian professor and social critic, even foresees an economic depression resulting from this takeover of the economy by a generation poorly adapted to the demands of business.

The nightmare theory may ignore some important factors, however, including the prospect that youthful rebels often become conventional adults, transition that parents may recall from their own experience. It may give too little value also to the fact that youthful protest, a consistent theme of society, often inspires constructive change by exposing weaknesses, inequities and falsehoods. Business could benefit from protest.

In any event, the number of hippies probably has been overestimated, although a teen-ager doesn't need to look like a hippie to sympathize with some hippie beliefs.

The most powerful tranquiliz-

er for businessmen's nightmares is a change of viewpoint, to realize, for instance, that the society that produces hippies produces Peace Corps volunteers as well.

A changed point of view may also reveal that, although much of the business community doesn't attempt to communicate with younger generations, some business organizations make it their avocation.

In the Junior Achievement program, businessmen and industrialists give guidance to 150,000 high school students in organizing and managing their own small-scale businesses.

This educational program, now 48 years old, has chapters in more than 500 communities, where youngsters organize businesses by selling stock and then operate their businesses, hopefully, for profits. In doing so, they learn about profit and loss statements, taxes, mergers and, if need be, bankruptcies.

As an antidote to all the publicity about hippies, the Reader's Digest has chosen 16 outstanding Junior Achievers from around the country and is sending them out as speakers. The students will write their own speeches; they won't be censored.

Based on interviews conducted by the Digest and Junior Achievement for The Associated Press, their talks will be informed, tolerant and generally acceptable to the business community. But they might provoke it as well.

One of the questions was this: "Do you feel that the institution of private enterprise is equipped to help solve some of our great sociological problems?" A few of the answers, greatly abbreviated, follow.

Michael Collins, 19, Columbus, Georgia: "Yes, private enterprise could do it if only it would try. Somebody needs to get in there and tell those businessmen, 'You can do it.' And they can."

IT MUST TRY

Cynthia Vyszenski, 18, Dayton, Ohio: "Not only do I think that business can, but it MUST attempt to solve many of our sociological problems. If business allows the federal government to assume ALL the initiative and responsibility, then it deserves the bad image that it now possesses."

Donna Stone, 17, Atlanta, Georgia: "Scholarships and jobs provided by businesses for industrious and capable members of ghettos could bring about self-improvement in those areas."

Steve Tvorik, 18, Cleveland, Ohio: "There is only one institution in society capable of acting to abolish poverty, the federal government."

Edwards Surmises Collusion Between Resnick and Proctor

Dr. John Edwards, chairman of the Mid-Hudson Bridge Authority, said today he surmised that there was collusion between Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and Kingston Proctor, suspended toll taker on the Rip Van Winkle Bridge.

Proctor, a 10-year employee of the authority who resides in Germantown, was suspended from the authority Friday when he refused to distribute pamphlets urging approval of the $2.5 billion bond issue. Resnick has questioned the authority's right to dismiss Proctor.

Edwards said "I surmise the two (Resnick and Proctor) are in collusion. You must remember that Resnick charged our authority several weeks ago with discrimination."

"At that time he said we weren't hiring Negroes and Puerto Ricans. I believe he instructed Proctor to feed him with any information which would enable him to capture the headlines," the Hudson doctor exclaimed.

Edwards said he had noted a change in Proctor's personality, but he didn't elaborate on what sort of change he had observed.

The authority chairman disclosed he had met Sunday with other members of the authority and that they had decided Resnick had no business interfering in the matter.

"Resnick represents the 28th Congressional District," Edwards declared, "but he has no dealings with the executive branch in Albany. It's none of his business."

Yesterday, Resnick questioned the State's "legal and ethical right to use bridge employees to pass out leaflets in support of the State's position."

According to Proctor, the pamphlets were awaiting for him Friday when he reported to work, along with instructions to distribute them to motorists crossing the bridge.

"Politics is not my job," Proctor stated, explaining why he refused to pass out the literature.

Ultimatum

Within ten minutes of his refusal, Proctor said he received a call from Edward J. Burns, administrative officer the New York Bridge Authority.

"He told me to give them out or go home," Proctor recalled. "I asked if that was an order, he said, 'Yes,' so I picked up my lunchbox and left."

Today, Resnick countered Edwards' charges of collusion. The Ellenville Democrat said, "I was not the least bit surprised that Dr. Edwards, knowing he could not defend the inexcusable action of his administrative officer decided to attack me instead."

"As long as I am Congressman from this district and any one of my constituents asks my assistance, that assistance will be available," Resnick concluded.

City Thefts Under Probe

City detectives are investigating the theft of three batteries from Martin Pontiac's auto lot and the theft of a loudspeaker from the Salvation Army, police said.

The batteries, lifted from three cars parked at the 708 Broadway lot, were valued at $75, police stated. The theft was reported to headquarters yesterday morning.

According to detectives, the loudspeaker, a bull horn amplifier, was taken from the Salvation Army's 94 North Front Street residence between Oct. 30 and Nov. 3. Police said it was discovered missing over the weekend and filed with officials Monday.

Detectives disclosed they are investigating the thefts.

Napanoch Infant Killed in Crash At Mamakating

A six-week old infant was killed and his parents injured at 2:45 p. m. Monday, when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision on Old Route 17 about 1 1/2 miles east of Route 209, Town of Mamakating, Sullivan County.

Fordale state police said the boy was Philip Anthony Garvella, son of Stanley and Stephanie Garvella of Napanoch.

Trooper Raymond Mickelson said the cars were operated by Mrs. Garvella and Robert T. Comfort, 24, of 48 Beacon Street, Middletown. He was cited by state troopers for operating a car with unsafe tires and without an inspection certificate.

According to Trooper Mickelson, Mrs. Garvella was driving west down the highway and as Comfort's car approached the other vehicle the left front wheel fell off the axle. His car swerved to the left into the westbound lane where it was in collision with the Garvella car.

Troopers said the entire left side of the Garvella car was ripped open. The Comfort car continued on a distance of 250 feet coming to stop on the north shoulder.

Stanley Garvella, 20, sustained lacerations of the forehead, and his wife, Stephanie, 19, received lacerations of the mouth and abrasions of the left arm and leg.

Surveyor Racing To the Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Surveyor 6 spacecraft raced today toward an intended soft landing in a rugged area almost smack in the middle of the moon's visible face.

Its planned touchdown is in the Sinus Medii (Central Bay), considered a prime astronaut landing site despite its roughness. Surveyor 6 carried a television camera and a small automatic chemistry set to analyze the lunar soil.

Near Perfect

The 2,223-pound mechanical marvel soared into space from Cape Kennedy at 2:39 a.m. (EST) today aboard an Atlas-Centaur rocket. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported early phases of the flight were near-perfect as Surveyor 6 started its 65-hour, 231,416-mile journey, its sensors locked on the sun for guidance.

Launch officials reported tracking data showed the rocket had been very accurate in sending the spider-shaped craft into space and that only a minor firing of its midcourse motor later today would be required to place it on target.

If all goes well, the Surveyor will reach the moon about 7 p.m. Thursday.

The lengthy countdown on the 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 started Monday night.

Vote to Extend Jackie, Family SS Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to provide Secret service protection for Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her two children for another 15 months, overriding objections by a Republican who expressed doubt the taxpayers would approve the $210,000 expense.

Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa said Monday the widow of the assassinated president should employ private protection if she needs it.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee said that while Mrs. Kennedy did not ask for the extended protection, Treasury Secretary Henry R. Fowler, who has authority over the Secret Service, believes she should have it. Without the extension the protection would end Nov. 23.

The vote to pass the bill was 302 to 11. The measure goes to the Senate.

GOP Plans Tactics For House Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are gearing up extensive surveys to target soft spots in Democratic ranks for a $1 million GOP assault in next year's battle for control of the House.

The aim, as explained by GOP strategists, is to pinpoint lackluster Democratic congressmen who get low personality or recognition ratings from the voters back home and thus may be vulnerable to an attack by a well-known Republican.

Shift to Emphasis

The strategy, said Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, involves a shift of emphasis from a political seek-and-destroy strategy based on statistics to one zealous on personalities.

The GOP group previously channeled its funds and efforts at "target districts" where Democrats had won their House seats by no more than five percent of the vote.

To plot the 1968 Republican assault on Democratic House control, "We're getting set up to conduct surveys in depth far beyond what we've ever done."

These surveys, he said in an interview, will be designed to measure a Democrat's potential weakness with the voters by gathering this kind of information about him:

"How many newsletters does he send back home; does he make a television-radio report to his district; is he doing his homework; how well known is he in his district?"

While trying to locate weak Democrats, Wilson said, the GOP group is conducting a talent search to find strong Republicans to throw against them.

Political Saw

"It's all based on the old political saw, you can't beat somebody with a nobody," he said.

And in this, the Republicans acknowledge, the name's the thing.

Rep. Robert B. "Bob" Mathias, who won the Olympic decathlon in 1948 and 1952, was "better known in his district than the seven-term Democrat he defeated" when Mathias won a California seat in the House in 1966, Wilson said.

But the Republicans insist they are not confining their talent hunt to peering at old movies in hopes of finding more George Murphys, Ronald Reagans or Shirley Temple Blacks or scanning Olympic records for another Mathias.

"We're really out on a talent search for outstanding guys," he said. "We're not going to put our money on the line until we know the capabilities of the candidate."

The GOP congressional committee says it now has about $500,000 in its war chest and expects to have $1 million by campaign time.

But the Republicans acknowledge privately that wrestling control of the House from the Democrats is easier to predict than to do.

"It's going to be hard," said one strategist. "Most of the soft touches were beaten last year. But I think we have a 50-50 chance. Picking up 31 seats shouldn't be too difficult."

Democrats now outnumber the GOP by 61 members, 247 to 186. There are two vacancies in the 435-member House resulting from the death of J. Arthur Younger, R-Calif., and the exclusion of Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

College Unrest Next on Senate Probe of Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probes, whose investigation of urban rioting dealt first with a Texas campus uprising, turn next to a disorder near two predominantly Negro colleges in Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville Mayor Beverly Briley was scheduled as the first witness as the Senate investigations subcommittee renewed today its hearings.

The rioting in the vicinity of Fisk University and Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial University broke out in April shortly after Nashville speeches by Black Power firebrand Stokely Carmichael, former chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The Nashville riot, marked by shooting, looting and burning, was linked to SNCC activities by city Police Capt. John A. Sorce in testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee last August.

The investigations subcommittee, in four days of hearings on a gun battle last May between Houston police and students at Texas Southern University, similarly were told the riot was preceded by agitation by SNCC members.

Sorce testified before the Judiciary Committee at its hearings on a bill to make it a federal crime to go from one state to another with intent to incite a riot.

The House passed the bill last summer, but the Judiciary Committee has taken no action on it.

Sorce said about 90 per cent of the SNCC membership in Nashville was made up of people from out of town.

While driving his car along Route 28 about five miles west of Route 375 in Shokan at 11:15 p. m. Monday, Nevrus Ajce, 45, of Ashokan, escaped injury when the vehicle hit and killed a deer. Trooper Thomas Seales said Ajce took the deer, which had leaped from the north side of the highway into the path of the car. Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth investigated.

Napanoch Infant Killed in Crash At Mamakating

A six-week old infant was killed and his parents injured at 2:45 p. m. Monday, when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision on Old Route 17 about 1 1/2 miles east of Route 209, Town of Mamakating, Sullivan County.

Fordale state police said the boy was Philip Anthony Garvella, son of Stanley and Stephanie Garvella of Napanoch.

Trooper Raymond Mickelson said the cars were operated by Mrs. Garvella and Robert T. Comfort, 24, of 48 Beacon Street, Middletown. He was cited by state troopers for operating a car with unsafe tires and without an inspection certificate.

According to Trooper Mickelson, Mrs. Garvella was driving west down the highway and as Comfort's car approached the other vehicle the left front wheel fell off the axle. His car swerved to the left into the westbound lane where it was in collision with the Garvella car.

Troopers said the entire left side of the Garvella car was ripped open. The Comfort car continued on a distance of 250 feet coming to stop on the north shoulder.

Stanley Garvella, 20, sustained lacerations of the forehead and his wife, Stephanie, 19, received lacerations of the mouth and abrasions of the left arm and leg.

Leaves $3 Million

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A Rochester manufacturer's estate, estimated to exceed $3 million, has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Michael L. Rogers of Monroe County.

According to the document admitted Monday, the late Charles P. Schlegel left specific bequests ranging from $1,000 to $150,000 to several individuals and charities, with the remainder left in trust to family members.

Schlegel, who died here Oct. 26 at the age of 102, helped found the Schlegel Manufacturing Co., a producer of automotive interior trimmings.

Surveyor Racing To the Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Surveyor 6 spacecraft raced today toward an intended soft landing in a rugged area almost smack in the middle of the moon's visible face.

Its planned touchdown is in the Sinus Medii (Central Bay), considered a prime astronaut landing site despite its roughness. Surveyor 6 carried a television camera and a small automatic chemistry set to analyze the lunar soil.

Near Perfect

The 2,223-pound mechanical marvel soared into space from Cape Kennedy at 2:39 a.m. (EST) today aboard an Atlas-Centaur rocket. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported early phases of the flight were near-perfect as Surveyor 6 started its 65-hour, 231,416-mile journey, its sensors locked on the sun for guidance.

Launch officials reported tracking data showed the rocket had been very accurate in sending the spider-shaped craft into space and that only a minor fining of its midcourse motor later today would be required to place it on target.

If all goes well, the Surveyor will reach the moon about 7 p.m. Thursday.

The launching was the second in a busy space week for the United States. On Sunday, the third applications technology satellite was fired from the cape into a stationary orbit over Brazil where it is to conduct experiments in communications, navigation and weather study.

An East Coast-West Coast doubleheader is scheduled Thursday. The first Saturn 5 super-rocket, being groomed to boost astronauts to the moon, is set for liftoff from the cape at 7 a.m. and the Esca 6 weather satellite is to rocket into space at 12:37 p.m. from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

The lengthy countdown on the 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 started Monday night.

In another launching, the Air Force Monday night fired a range military missile from Cape Kennedy to test a new Mark 12 warhead system.

Hope to Break Jinx

NASA hopes Surveyor 6 will break the even-number jinx in the series. Surveyors 1, 3 and 5 soft-landed on the moon, but Nos. 2 and 4 failed.

Minuteman 2 intercontinental ballistic missile, said Benjamin Milwitsky, Surveyor program manager, said the three successful Surveyors have been certified as safe three of the four sites which are considered the best landing spots for American astronauts. Surveyor 6's target, about 190 miles north of the large crater Ptolemaeus is the one not yet photographed. Both Surveyors that failed had been aimed for that area.

Officials planning Apollo man-to-the-moon shots want a string of landing zones across the lunar equator, evenly spaced so that a new target can be selected in case the original launch date is postponed.

Daylight conditions determine the sites and the launch periods. The shadow of darkness moves across the moon during a 14-day lunar night at the rate of 13 degrees daily. The four sites selected are spaced about 26 degrees apart in a band to permit a manned lunar landing mission to be postponed three times and rescheduled at two-day intervals.

Surveyors 1 and 3 explored separate zones in the huge Ocean of Storms in the western portion of the moon, and Surveyor 5 photographed an area in the Sea of Tranquility in the east.

GOP Plans Tactics For House Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are gearing up extensive surveys to target soft spots in Democratic ranks for a $1 million GOP assault in next year's battle for control of the House.

The aim, as explained by GOP strategists, is to pinpoint lackluster Democratic congressmen who get low popularity—or recognition—ratings from the voters back home and thus may be vulnerable to an attack by a well-known Republican.

Shift to Emphasis

The strategy, said Rep. Bob Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, involves a shift of emphasis from a political seek-and-destroy strategy based on statistics to one zeroing in on personalities.

The GOP group previously channeled its funds and efforts at "target districts" where Democrats had won their House seats by no more than five per cent of the vote.

To plot the 1968 Republican assault on Democratic House control, "We're getting set up to conduct surveys in depth far beyond what we've ever done."

said Wilson, a California Republican.

These surveys, he said in an interview, will be designed to measure a Democrat's potential weakness with the voters by gathering this kind of information about him:

"How many newsletters does he send back home; does he make a television radio report to his district; is he doing his homework; how well known is he in his district?"

While trying to locate weak Democrats, Wilson said, the GOP group is conducting a talent search to find strong Republicans to throw against them.

Political Saw

"It's all based on the old political saw, you can't beat somebody with a nobody," he said.

And in this, the Republicans acknowledge, the name's the thing.

Rep. Robert B. "Bob" Mathias, who won the Olympic decathlon in 1948 and 1952, was "better known in his district than the seven-term Democrat he defeated" when Mathias won a California seat in the House in 1966, Wilson said.

But the Republicans insist D.N.Y.

they are not confining their talent hunt to peering at old movies in hopes of finding more George Murphys, Ronald Reagans or Shirley Temple Blacks or scanning Olympic records for another Mathias.

"We're really out on a talent search for outstanding guys," he said, "We're not going to put our money on the line until we know the capabilities of the candidate."

The GOP congressional committee says it now has about $500,000 in its war chest and expects to have $1 million by campaign time.

But the Republicans acknowledge privately that wrestling control of the House from the Democrats is easier to predict than to do.

"It's going to be hard," said one strategist. "Most of the soft touches were beaten last year. But I think we have a 50-50 chance. Picking up 21 seats shouldn't be too difficult."

Democrats now outnumber the GOP by 61 members, 247 to 186. There are two vacancies in the 435-member House resulting from the death of J. Arthur Younger, R-Calif., and the exclusion of Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

College Unrest Next on Senate Probe of Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probes, whose investigation of urban rioting dealt first with a Texas campus uprising, turn next to a disorder near two predominantly Negro colleges in Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville Mayor Beverly Briley was scheduled as the first witness as the Senate investigations subcommittee renewed today its hearings.

The rioting in the vicinity of Fisk University and Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial University broke out in April shortly after Nashville speeches by Black Power firebrand Stokely Carmichael, former chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

The Nashville riot, marked by shooting, looting and burning, was linked to SNCC activities by city Police Capt. John A. Sorace in testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee last August.

The investigations subcommittee, in four days of hearings on a gun battle last May between Houston police and students at Texas Southern University, similarly were told the riot was preceded by agitation by SNCC members.

Sorace testified before the Judiciary Committee at its hearings on a bill to make it a federal crime to go from one state to another with intent to incite a riot.

The House passed the bill last summer, but the Judiciary Committee has taken no action on it.

Sorace said about 90 per cent of the SNCC membership in Nashville was made up of people from out of town.

Car Kills Deer

While driving his car along Route 28 about five miles west of Route 375 in Shokan at 11:15 p. m. Monday, Nevius Ajoe, 45, of Ashokan, escaped injury when the vehicle hit and killed a deer. Trooper Thomas Searies said Ajoe took the deer, which had leaped from the north side of the highway into the path of the car. Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth investigated.

Driver Errs, Wrong Way At Circle

A Poughkeepsie motorist made a mistake at 2:45 a. m. today when he drove his car the wrong way at the Highland Traffic circle.

State Troopers Edward Pulver and C. J. Behnke were on patrol when they stopped Joseph Hatton 41, of 78 Montgomery Street, Poughkeepsie, at the traffic circle on Route 9W.

Hatton, according to Sergeant Stanley Kowalik, submitted to a blood test. Later he was taken before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker to face a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Plan Events

The oyster stew and ham dinner recently held at the Olive-bridge Methodist Church was largely attended. The official board of the church would like to thank every one who helped to make it such a success.

The WSCS met at the church on Wednesday evening with 15 members present. Plans were made for the annual hunter luncheon and Christmas bazaar to be held on Saturday, Nov. 25. The bazaar will open at 10 a. m. and luncheon will be served starting at 11:30. The public is invited. Bake goods and homemade candy will also be available.

$4.1 billion—and it will swell the total commitment for pork barrel projects planned or under construction to $15.2 billion.

The dictionary defines pork barrel as a government project yielding rich patronage benefits. Included are the dams, power projects, levee work and harbor construction so dear to a congressman's vote-getting heart.

For a Congress that has talked economy, the final bill is a huge escalation of comparatively modest administration proposals.

President Johnson recommended nine new construction starts that would have cost $7.4 million in the fiscal year that began July 1. Their cost on completion years hence would have totaled nearly $153 million.

The House rejected 4 projects, but added 16 new starts of its own. The 1968 cost of the proposed House projects—$5.5 million, Ultimate cost—$93 million.

The Senate accepted the 21 proposals from the House, restored President Johnson's 4 and added 25 more of its own. Cost of the proposed Senate projects in 1968—$12 million, Ultimate cost—$324.5 million.

Thus as the pork barrel bill now stands, there are 50 new construction starts with an eventual cost of $570.66 million.

Johnson also proposed a score of new planning starts, the step preliminary to actual land acquisition and construction. These would cost just under $2 million in fiscal 1968, but final costs would be $335.5 million. Each house then added 11 new

Cheese and Wine Tasting Party

More than 300 music lovers got together Sunday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel for a wine and cheese tasting party, the second to be sponsored by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. Proceeds will benefit the Philharmonic and judging from comments made at Sunday's function, next year will see the Philharmonic's third party.

Arrangements for the cheese and wine party were completed by Dr. Richard Messina, president of the Ulster County Chapter of the Philharmonic, and Robert Schneller of Kingston, a member of the Philharmonic board.

The Philharmonic will open its new season with a concert in Kingston at the Community Theatre on Monday, Nov. 13. Appearing as guest soloist will be Walter Trampler, violinist. The capable Claude Monteux will conduct.

Before coming to Kingston on the 13th, Mr. Trampler and the Philharmonic will give a concert at Wallkill Prison, Wallkill on November 11 at 8:15 p.m. This will be the initial presentation of a symphonic orchestra at this institution.

Although the orchestra has been organized about a decade, its accomplishments have been many. It has brought good symphonic music to the concert halls of the area and also to the schools. Frequently, many noted artists are featured with the orchestra. During the 1967-68 season, Eugene Istomin, Hiroko, Yajima, Tossy and Spivakovsky have appeared as guest artists.

As for the artist Trampler, his work with the viola has won him fame. He has appeared with the New Music Quartet and also played at the White House, for President and Mrs. Johnson. In recent years, he has been featured at the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico. He is a regular guest violinist with the Budapest and Juilliard String Quartets. Harold Schonberg, music critic of the New York Times wrote: "Walter Trampler's playing was as elegant and flawless an example of string work as one is going to hear. It had everything that one looks for."

More than 500 retired teachers convened at the annual meeting of New York State Retired Teachers Association at Grosinger's from October 31 to November 2. Attending from Ulster County Chapter were: Mrs. Florence Christiana, Mrs. Florence Ellsworth, Mrs. Ruth Cole, Miss Mary Polhemus, Mrs. Bertha Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vaughn, Mrs. Pearl Rippert, Miss Hilda McDowell and Mrs. Jennie Depuy.

Plans were made for an informational meeting for the Ulster County RTA at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston, on November 28. Guests will be present from NYSRTA, the Retired Teachers Insurance, NYS Retirement Board, Social Security Office, to explain programs affecting retired teachers. Reservations should be made for this luncheon meeting with Mrs. Florence Christiana, Port Ewen. All retired teachers in Ulster County are invited to attend. Those desiring to join the County Chapter should contact Mrs. Christiana, State Association dues are to be sent to Samuel Vaughn, Hurley.

Miss Mary E. Polhemus, Port Ewen, is president and district director of the Ulster County Chapter. Key speaker at the annual meeting was Ernest Giddings, legislative representative of the National Retired Teachers Association. Other leaders in the educational field that attended were: Miss Gladys Newell, retiring president of the New York State Teachers Association; Dr. Elmer Bowes, president, Association Secondary School Principals of New York State; Dr. Anna Rockwell, president of the NYS Association Elementary Principals; and Dr. John Skowski, president of the NYS Superintendent's Council.

Other leaders in the field of retired teachers associations present were: Miss Cecelia O'Neill, newly elected president of the National Retired Teachers Association; Miss O'Neill succeeds Dr. Ruth Andrus, founder of this organization, who died this past summer. H. E. Stahl, vice president of the NRTA, also attended.

Other guests of honor were Mrs. Jennie Grossinger, who spoke of her deep appreciation for teachers, crediting her success to a teacher she had had in her early teens; also Howard Gould, executive secretary of NYSTA; C. B. Murray, former executive secretary of the NYS Retirement System; Dr. J. Almer Holbitter, Assistant Executive Director, NYS Retirement System; Thomas Zetkov, president, National Association Retired Teachers Insurance Plans; Mrs. Evelyn Allen, York State Manor; and Ronald Dutch, vice president, NYS Congress of P-TA.

Presiding were Mrs. Edna Parsons, president of the South Eastern Zone, and Raymond Ast, president of the New York State Association. This association numbers more than 16,000 members. It is active in working for the benefits of retired teachers; initiated and helps finance York State Manor, residences for retired teachers; has its own insurance plan for retired teachers; provides seminars at state colleges for continuing education; works actively for legislation benefitting teachers and retired teachers; provides tours for mature travelers at reduced prices; shares fellowship with shut-ins and disabled; honors their octogenarians and nonagenarians; and assists members in need. The spirit of the convention was one of enthusiasm and activity proving that retired teachers can be as dynamic and productive as in active teaching.

MRS. ROBERT VALLUM, another enthusiastic Philharmonic supporter who joined the gala party Sunday afternoon. The cheese and wine tasting party is the second given by the Philharmonic. Its success on Sunday dictates a third next year. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The next regular meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will take place Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Temple social hall, 243 Albany Avenue.

Program chairmen Mrs. Charles Jacobs and Mrs. Ronald Wolfeld have announced that Arnold Shienvold will be a guest speaker. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shienvold of Kingston and a senior at Kingston High School. Mr. Shienvold was selected to represent Ulster County as its ambassador to Turkey under the overseas program, "Experiment in International Living." He spent the summer in Turkey observing and studying the culture and customs of its people. The community is invited to attend this interesting program.

The 19th annual roast beef supper sponsored by the Sisterhood was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 1. The dinner was largely attended, the committee having served over 600 people. Additional members who assisted with the event were the Mmes. Jesse Schlesinger, Arthur Motzkin, Bernhard Kramer, Magdalene Winkler.

The Temple Brotherhood provided waiter service. The following men were waiters: Alfred Ronder, Dr. Morton Cohen, Ger-

New York Bus Trip Set

A bus trip to New York City is being planned by the Ulster County Women's Republican Club for Saturday, Nov. 18. The bus will leave the Park Diner at 8 a. m. and Port of Authority Terminal in New York at 8 p. m. All reservations must be made before November 10.

Members and friends wishing to go are asked to contact Mrs. Walter Canitz, chairman, or Mrs. LeRoy Croswell, club president.

AT PHILHARMONIC BENEFIT were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kovacs of Poughkeepsie, their daughter Margo, and at right, Francis Matteson of Kingston. The wine and cheese tasting gala took place in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Kovacs is a member of the Philharmonic's Central Board and her husband has been active in Philharmonic circles since it was first organized. More than 300 attended Sunday's festivities. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Cheese and Wine Tasting Party

More than 300 music lovers got together Sunday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel for a wine and cheese tasting party, the second to be sponsored by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. Proceeds will benefit the Philharmonic and judging from comments made at Sunday's function, next year will see the Philharmonic's third party.

Arrangements for the cheese and wine party were completed by Dr. Richard Messina, president of the Ulster County Chapter of the Philharmonic, and Robert Schneller of Kingston, a member of the Philharmonic board.

The Philharmonic will open its new season with a concert in Kingston at the Community Theatre on Monday, Nov. 13. Appearing as guest soloist will be Walter Trampler, violinist. The capable Claude Monteux will conduct.

Before coming to Kingston on the 13th, Mr. Trampler and the Philharmonic will give a concert at Wallkill Prison, Wallkill on November 11 at 8:15 p.m. This will be the initial presentation of a symphonic orchestra at this institution.

Although the orchestra has been organized about a decade, its accomplishments have been many. It has brought good symphonic music to the concert halls of the area and also to the schools. Frequently, many noted artists are featured with the orchestra. During the 1967-68 season, Eugene Istomin, Hiroko, Yajima, Tossy and Spivakovsky have appeared as guest artists.

As for the artist Trampler, his work with the viola has won him fame. He has appeared with the New Music Quartet and also played at the White House, for President and Mrs. Johnson. In recent years, he has been featured at the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico. He is a regular guest violinist with the Budapest and Juilliard String Quartets. Harold Schonberg, music critic of the New York Times wrote: "Walter Trampler's playing was as elegant and flawless as an example of string work as one is going to hear. It had everything that one looks for."

More than 500 retired teachers convened at the annual meeting of New York State Retired Teachers Association at Grosinger's from October 31 to November 2. Attending from Ulster County Chapter were: Mrs. Florence Christiana, Mrs. Florence Ellsworth, Mrs. Ruth Cole, Miss Mary Polhemus, Mrs. Bertha Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vaughn, Mrs. Pearl Rippert, Miss Hilda McDowell and Mrs. Jennie Depuy.

Plans were made for an informational meeting for the Ulster County RTA at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston, on November 28. Guests will be present from NYSRTA, the Retired Teachers Insurance, NYS Retirement Board, Social Security Office, to explain programs affecting retired teachers. Reservations should be made for this luncheon meeting with Mrs. Florence Christiana, Port Ewen. All retired teachers in Ulster County are invited to attend. Those desiring to join the County Chapter should contact Mrs. Christiana. State Association dues are to be sent to Samuel Vaughn, Hurler.

Miss Mary E. Polhemus, Port Ewen, is president and district director of the Ulster County Chapter.

Key speaker at the annual meeting was Ernest Giddings, legislative representative of the National Retired Teachers Association. Other leaders in the educational field that attended were: Miss Gladys Newell, retiring president of the New York State Teachers Association; Dr. Elmer Bowes, president, Association Secondary School Principals of New York State; Dr. Anna Rockwell, president of the NYS Association Elementary Principals; and Dr. John Skowski, president, NYS Superintendent's Council.

Other leaders in the field of retired teachers associations present were: Miss Cecelia O'Neill, newly elected president of the National Retired Teachers Association; Miss O'Neill succeeds Dr. Ruth Andrus, founder of this organization, who died this past summer. H. E. Stahl, vice president of the NRTA, also attended.

Other guests of honor were Mrs. Jennie Grossinger, who spoke of her deep appreciation for teachers, crediting her success to a teacher she had had in her early teens; also Howard Gould, executive secretary of NYSTA; C. B. Murray, former executive secretary of the NYS Retirement System; Dr. J. Albert Holbriest, Assistant Executive Director, NYS Retirement System; Thomas Zeikov, president, National Association Retired Teachers Insurance Plans; Mrs. Evelyn Allen, president, Board of Trustees, York State Manor; and Ronald Dutcher, vice president, NYS Congress of P-TA.

Presiding were Mrs. Edna Parsons, president of the South Eastern Zone, and Raymond Ast, president of the New York State Association. This association numbers more than 16,000 members. It is active in working for the benefits of retired teachers; initiated and helps finance York State Manor, residences for retired teachers; has its own insurance plan for retired teachers; provides seminars at state colleges for continuing education; works actively for legislation benefitting teachers and retired teachers; provides tours for mature travelers at reduced prices; shares fellowship with shut-ins and disabled; honors their octogenarians and nonagenarians; and assists members in need. The spirit of the convention was one of enthusiasm and activity proving that retired teachers can be as dynamic and productive as in active teaching.

MRS. ROBERT YALLUM, another enthusiastic Philharmonic supporter who joined the gala party Sunday afternoon. The cheese and wine tasting party is the second given by the Philharmonic. Its success on Sunday dictates a third next year. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Class Remarks Make Good Book Clues

By The Reading Laboratory
(Excerpted from the World Publishing Company Book, "Study Faster and Retain More." Illustrations by Roy Doty.)

Fiction, including poetry and plays, and general non-fiction, including biographies, can be taken from the library because they are the kinds of books that people want to read through slowly at home in a comfortable chair. They aren't books that people use to check a random fact quickly. They don't need to be available in the library for everyone to use. So these books are on the shelves for you to borrow.

We've said that fiction is arranged on the shelves alphabetically according to author. Biographies are usually arranged together alphabetically according to the last name of the person written about. General books can be found by using the Dewey Decimal System we discussed in the last chapter.

But why, you suddenly ask, might you want to read a book that wasn't even assigned?

The obvious answer is that reading is fun; it is like meeting new people, having new and unusual experiences, or seeing familiar experiences in a new light. As a bonus, your ability to make judgments and to understand the world around you will be improved. Your mind and curiosity will be stimulated. And that's what education is all about.

General books—on history, philosophy or religion, for example—can also help you better understand the material in a course you are taking. They provide you with much more information than a textbook can. They often have a point of view. They do more than present the facts—they interpret them. Reading to discover a point of view, to find a generalization supported by facts, will go far in turning you into a thinking student.

Can you take a hint? It's just this: whenever one of your teachers mentions a book in passing, one unfamiliar to you, jot it down. You can be certain that it is important for that course, and that it is on the teacher's mind.

As soon as you get a chance, take it out of the library and look through it until you can see why your teacher thought it deserving of special mention. Take notes if you wish. Then, in class or on an exam, slip in an opinion of your own about what's in the book, and your teacher will have proof positive that you were not only paying attention but also took some initiative.

So remember, making a habit of borrowing and reading books from the library that are related to your courses increases your knowledge, stimulates your interest in classwork and, in general, makes you a better student.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I needed nearly a dozen "fancy aprons" to give as gifts, but hesitated buying readymade aprons because of the cost.

My husband suggested I purchase cafe curtains which already had lovely lace inserts near the hem.

Using the section at the top where the rod slides through, I made the apron band which also was trimmed like the bottom.

Then I cut off two strips below this for the ties. In no time, I had my dozen beautiful aprons which normally would have taken hours and hours of sewing.

Nancy Shenkle

Nancy, these husbands are smart in many ways. Using cafe curtains to make aprons for a church bazaar would be ideal. They come in so many beautiful colors and patterns.

So watch the ads in the paper, folks....

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Try adding a few drops of peppermint flavor to tea.

It tastes like real mint tea.

Millie

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever tried black liquid shoe polish to touch up the "toe space" at the bottom of your kitchen cupboards and sink?

Applied with the dauber, it does a very nice job of covering up little marks and scratches until time for a regular paint job.

"Jn"

Dear Heloise:

In order to straighten the yarn for reuse after ripping out knitted articles, wrap it around a cake rack!

Dampen the yard and, when dry, it is as good as a new skein. (The rack will hasten the drying.)

rangements. I use a child's package of modeling clay as the frog to hold them in place. The clay has an oily base, won't dry out and can easily be reused many times. I just mold it in the shape I want, cut the stems of my flowers to the desired length and stick them down in it.

When they become dusty, I simply lift up flowers, holder and all, and wash them off without having to remove them from the clay.

Dolly Patterson

Dear Heloise:

Our children graduate from a high chair to a padded, plastic boat seat snapped on a kitchen chair.

For them, this is the next step down to a standard-size chair.

Cleo Dietsch

Cleo, you came up with a nifty idea. Some of those plastic-covered boat seats do have ties and snaps. Also think how easy it would be to wipe off spills—and what cheerful colors they come in.

They may cost a little bit more, but are a safety factor because they won't slide off the chair the way other pillows often do.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

It is painless to use rubber bands to hold pony tails if two bobby pins are placed on each end of the rubber bands and it's wrapped around and tucked inside the hair.

Saves breakage of hair and it's more simple to remove.

Donna Soyster

Dear Heloise:

I iron in my bedroom so I set up my ironing board at the foot of the bed. The side will do as well—except that at the foot, it doesn't need to be moved if the ironing is not finished at bedtime.

Large pieces can rest (no joke!) on the bed instead of the floor as they are being ironed. Sure saves my back, too.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Introducing Stepparents

Dear Mrs. Post: I usually introduce my friends to "My mother and Dad," or "My mother and Bill;" you see, Bill has been my stepdad for 23 years. My own father passed away when I was a teenager. I have two daughters who know that Daddy Bill is my stepfather. The word father is never used except in speaking about my deceased father. After all these years I am now being criticized by relatives for speaking of this man as my Dad—Dorothy H.

Dear Dorothy: You have given no cause for criticism. We have a similar situation in our family, and the youngster has always introduced his mother and stepfather as "Mom and Dad" or "My mother and father—Mr. and Mrs. Jones." In your case, the only reason for an exception has passed. If you had not assumed your stepfather's name, it could have been very confusing to people knowing your last name, if you did not say "My mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Jones."

Wedding Is No Time for Practical Jokes

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece was married this past weekend to a very nice young man. He was always a gentleman and treated her with respect. At the reception they cut the cake, she fed him a piece and when it was his turn to feed her a piece, he pushed it in her face. After the initial shock wore off, she laughed and made the best of it. May I have your opinion?—Gloria

Dear Gloria: This is the week for unusual questions. My opinion is that your niece's husband showed incredibly bad taste. A wedding is no place to make a laughing stock of anyone, least of all the bride. Practical jokes can be funny when the time and place are right, but my hat's off to a bride who can make the best of one on her wedding day.

Class Remarks Make Good Book Clues

By The Reading Laboratory
(Excerpted from the World Publishing Company Book "Study Faster and Retain More." Illustrations by Roy Doty.)

Fiction, including poetry and plays, and general non-fiction, including biographies, can be taken from the library because they are the kinds of books that people want to read through slowly at home in a comfortable chair. They aren't books that people use to check a random fact quickly. They don't need to be available in the library for everyone to use. So these books are on the shelves for you to borrow.

We've said that fiction is arranged on the shelves alphabetically according to author. Biographies are usually arranged together alphabetically according to the last name of the person written about. General books can be found by using the Dewey Decimal System we discussed in the last chapter.

But why, you suddenly ask, might you want to read a book that wasn't even assigned?

The obvious answer is that reading is fun; it is like meeting new people, having new and unusual experiences, or seeing familiar experiences in a new light. As a bonus, your ability to make judgments and to understand the world around you will be improved. Your mind and curiosity will be stimulated. And that's what education is all about.

General books—on history, philosophy or religion, for example—can also help you better understand the material in a course you are taking. They provide you with much more information than a textbook can. They often have a point of view. They do more than present the facts—they interpret them. Reading to discover a point of view, to find a generalization supported by facts, will go far in turning you into a thinking student.

Can you take a hint? It's just this: whenever one of your teachers mentions a book in passing, one unfamiliar to you, jot it down. You can be certain that it is important for the course, and that it is on the teacher's mind.

As soon as you get a chance, take it out of the library and look through it until you can see why your teacher thought it deserving of special mention. Take notes if you wish. Then, in class or on an exam, slip in an opinion of your own about what's in the book, and your teacher will have proof positive that you were not only paying attention but also took some initiative.

So remember, making a habit of borrowing and reading books from the library that are related to your courses increases your knowledge, stimulates your interest in classwork and, in general, makes you a better student.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I needed nearly a dozen "fancy aprons" to give as gifts, but hesitated buying ready-made aprons because of the cost.

My husband suggested I purchase cafe curtains which already had lovely lace inserts near the hem.

Using the section at the top where the rod slides through, I made the apron band which also was trimmed like the bottom.

Then I cut off two strips below this for the ties. In no time, I had my dozen beautiful aprons which normally would have taken hours and hours of sewing.

Nancy Shenkle

Nancy, these husbands are smart in many ways. Using cafe curtains to make aprons for a church bazaar would be ideal. They come in so many beautiful colors and patterns.

So watch the ads in the paper, folks. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Try adding a few drops of peppermint flavor to tea. It tastes like real mint tea.

Millie

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever tried black liquid shoe polish to touch up the "toe space" at the bottom of your kitchen cupboards and sink?

Applied with the dauber, it does a very nice job of covering up little marks and scratches until time for a regular paint job.

Dear Heloise:

In order to straighten the yarn for reuse after ripping out knitted articles, wrap it around a cake rack!

Dampen the yard and, when dry, it is as good as a new skein. (The rack will hasten the drying.)

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Introducing Stepparents

Dear Mrs. Post: I usually introduce my friends to "My mother and Dad," or "My mother and Bill," you see, Bill has been my stepdad for 23 years. My own father passed away when I was a teenager. I have two daughters who know that Daddy Bill is my stepfather. The word father is never used except in speaking about my deceased father. After all these years I am now being criticized by relatives for speaking of this man as my Dad.—Dorothy H.

Dear Dorothy: You have given no cause for criticism. We have a similar situation in our family, and the youngster has always introduced his mother and stepfather as "Mom and Dad" or "My mother and father"—Mr. and Mrs. Jones. In your case, the only reason for an exception has passed. If you had not assumed your stepfather's name, it could have been very confusing to people knowing your last name, if you did not say "My mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Jones."

Wedding Is No Time for Practical Jokes

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece was married this past weekend to a very nice young man. He was always a gentleman and treated her with respect. At the reception they cut the cake, she fed him a piece and when it was his turn to feed her a piece, he pushed it in her face. After the initial shock wore off, she laughed and made the best of it. May I have your opinion?—Gloria

Dear Gloria: This is the week for unusual questions. My opinion is that your niece's husband showed incredibly bad taste. A wedding is no place to make a laughing stock of anyone, least of all the bride. Practical jokes can be funny when the time and place are right, but my hat's off to a bride who can make the best of one on her wedding day.

Rondout Tops Liberty, 20-15, for UCAL Title

Taylor Has Three TDs For Ganders

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Magnificent Gordie Taylor scored three touchdowns, one on a glittering 90 yard punt return and Rondout Valley held off a belated charge by Liberty to scalp the Redskins, 20-15, and capture the school's first undisputed gridiron championship Monday before a chilled crowd at the Stone Ridge gridiron.

In posting their initial undefeated season, the once-tied Ganders jumped to a two touchdown lead and then had to pull out the stops on defense to turn back the challenging visitors.

Gains 101 Yards

Taylor, closing a sensational scholastic grid career, picked up 101 yards in 12 carries. His touchdowns came on runs of eight and 22 yards in the first half and his game breaker in the third quarter.

Liberty, which took a five game winning streak into the contest, had halfback Ed Blume tally a pair of TDs. The Redskins also picked up a safety when Taylor tripped across the end line while trying to run out of danger.

With a partisan home crowd cheering them on, the Ganders marched 61 yards in six cracks after putting a Liberty punt in play on the 39 early in the opening session.

Taylor dazzled the spectators with a 39 yard dash the first time he carried the pigskin. This put the ball on the 17 and four plays later, the same Mr. Taylor went around end for a score. He was aided by John Hall's jolting block. A pass for the point misfired.

Halback Jim Rowe, one of the Ganders' unsung heroes, set up the second TD when he scampered 16 yards on a reverse as the second quarter began.

Quarterback Chick Meehan, who kept the Redskins off balance with his play calling, sent Taylor into the line without the ball. He then tossed a screen pass to Tom Frazier and he gained 20 yards to the Liberty 22.

Assist From Schreyer

Taylor was hailed on the next play but he covered the distance the second time. This time it was tackle Fred Schreyer a standout performer, who threw the block which enabled Taylor to hit the end zone. Meehan's extra point made it a 13-0 game and it appeared as if a rout were in the making. It just wasn't so.

The visitors took advantage of a poor punt late in the second period and began a drive from the RV 32.

Unable to register a first down for almost a half, the Redskins started to open the holes and the ball carriers found them.

Blume gained 13 yards in three carries and then Steve Fleckenstein bulled his way to the eight. On the next play, Blume took a delayed handoff from quarterback Ken Cogswell and reached paydirt. The extra point try failed but it was a 13-6 game at halftime.

You could see the tide was beginning to turn.

The Ganders took the third period kickoff and were pinned deep. Taylor, on third down, was going to try a quick kick. The center snap was poor and the RVC ace tripped near the end line as the pigskin rolled out of bounds. This gave the invaders a safety and razored the edge to five points, 13-8.

That 90-Yard Return

After the Indians were stopped on the ensuing kick, they were forced to punt. Gordie the Great hauled in the pigskin on the 10. He feinted to the inside and broke in the opposite direction. It was nice and easy. Taylor simply outran the secondary and gave his team some breathing room.

Meehan's placement made it a 20-8 contest.

From that point until the game ended with the field in almost complete darkness, the Indians threatened. It took a gallant effort on the part of the champions to win this one.

Liberty marched 61 yards in nine plays with Blume crashing over from the one. Cogswell ran for the PAT and the visitors were within a touchdown of snatching the championship. It was a 20-15 cliffhanger and there was still a quarter of football remaining.

Rondout ran four plays at the beginning of the fourth period, failed to move and was forced to punt. Taylor's kick sailed into the end zone and the visitors started to pour away.

Fleckenstein and Blume combined their talents to pick up a first down on the 32. Fullback Bob Grimbail moved for a couple of yards. The RVC defensive line was giving up ground.

Then, all of a sudden, the momentum swung the other way. Two cracks failed to gain and on fourth down Cogswell was intercepted by Meehan.

Long Six Minutes

However, the winners were charged with pass interference and once again they surrendered possession of the pigskin. There were six minutes left. They must have seemed like six hours to the home team.

After Blume dashed for eight yards in two tries, Cogswell was penalized for intentionally grounding the ball. The Liberty quarterback then hit Blume for a first down on the 37.

A running play lost a yard, but Cogswell teamed with Fleckenstein on a short pass and the pigskin was now 28 yards away.

The Warm Afterglow

"My Finest Team" Meehan's Tribute

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

"This has to be the finest team I have ever coached." With those words a happy and soaked John (Chick) Meehan described his Rondout Valley gridgers moments after they had beaten Liberty, 20-15, to capture the UCAL championship.

Befitting the winning coach, Meehan was given a victory shower, as was assistant coach John Millon.

The Gander dressing room was one of bedlam. For the first time in the school's athletic history, there is an undisputed championship. The school had come close in all sports but hadn't made it before this.

Praises Taylor

Though Meehan spoke with justifiable pride about his gridgers, he singled out Taylor, the bread and butter performer. "Gordie has to rank with the all-time greats in this league," Meehan said. The senior star made his final grid appearance a happy one.

His 101 yards gained in 12 carries gave him 1216 in 124 attempts for the season. He also had 19 touchdowns and several extra points.

The Rondout mentor, whose hair shows traces of white, heaped accolades on his defense. "Don't forget, this is the most points scored on us in any game."

Among the standouts up front were Fred Schreyer and Al Miller, the Gander tackles. Miller was shaken up in the second period but he came back after the interim to turn in an outstanding job.

In a choked-up voice, Meehan praised Liberty and rated the Indians as the toughest team his gridgers met this season.

"They came at us, hit us hard up front and kept coming. I never thought the game would end," he added. "We seniors — Taylor, Charles George and Fred Schreyer — we will have a solid nucleus next season," the veteran coach said.

While he was getting set to change into some dry clothes, these players were celebrating their hard earned title with milk and hot dogs.

That initial championship might have taken some time to earn, but you could tell by the noise, it was well worth the wait.

The British, one of the favorites for the Olympic gold medal in Mexico City next year, had won six of nine Nations Cups this year.

The Nations Cup is the most important international class in horse shows. Only one is permitted in each country with the exception of the United States, which, because of its size, is awarded two. The Pennsylvania National Show in Harrisburg has the other Nations Cup in the United States.

Equestrian Head Takes A Chance

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Bert de Nemethy of the U.S. Equestrian team admitted today that he took a chance in starting two of the squads second-line riders in the Nations Cup competition at the National Horse Show.

De Nemethy riders defeated a crack British team Monday night before a crowd of 10,000 in Madison Square Garden with Bill Steinkraus of Noroton, Conn., Neal Shapiro of Old Brookville, N.Y., and Carol Hoffmann of North Branch, N.J., handling the reins.

"It was a gamble putting Neal and Carol into the line up," said De Nemethy. "Neither ever had been in a Nations Cup class in the Garden before."

"But both had been going very well and their horses were as good as I've ever seen them. But I am sure there would have been a lot of criticism if we had lost."

Tennessee Now No. 2

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Southern California Trojans have maintained their huge lead in The Associated Press' major-college football poll, But held second place in the AP upcoming this Saturday is a poll.

meeting with the giant-killing Oregon State Beavers, eager for another upset.

"They're going to have their hands full," predicts Dee Andros, the Beavers' coach, referring to the big one at Corvallis, Ore.

Purdue and UCLA already have had their hands full with Oregon State. The Beavers knocked off the Boilermakers 22-14 on Oct. 21 when Purdue held second place in the AP.

UCLA, too, was in the No. 2 position until Oregon State rose up and tied the Bruins 16-16 last Saturday.

The setback dropped UCLA into fourth place in the latest voting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Tennessee, 8-0 after trouncing California 31-12, accumulated 399 points, collecting all except one first-place vote plus one for second. Fifth-ranked Purdue was named the top team by one selector.

Replacement

Tennessee, a 38-0 victor over Tampa, replaced UCLA in second place while North Carolina State, which beat Virginia 30-8, also advanced one position to third.

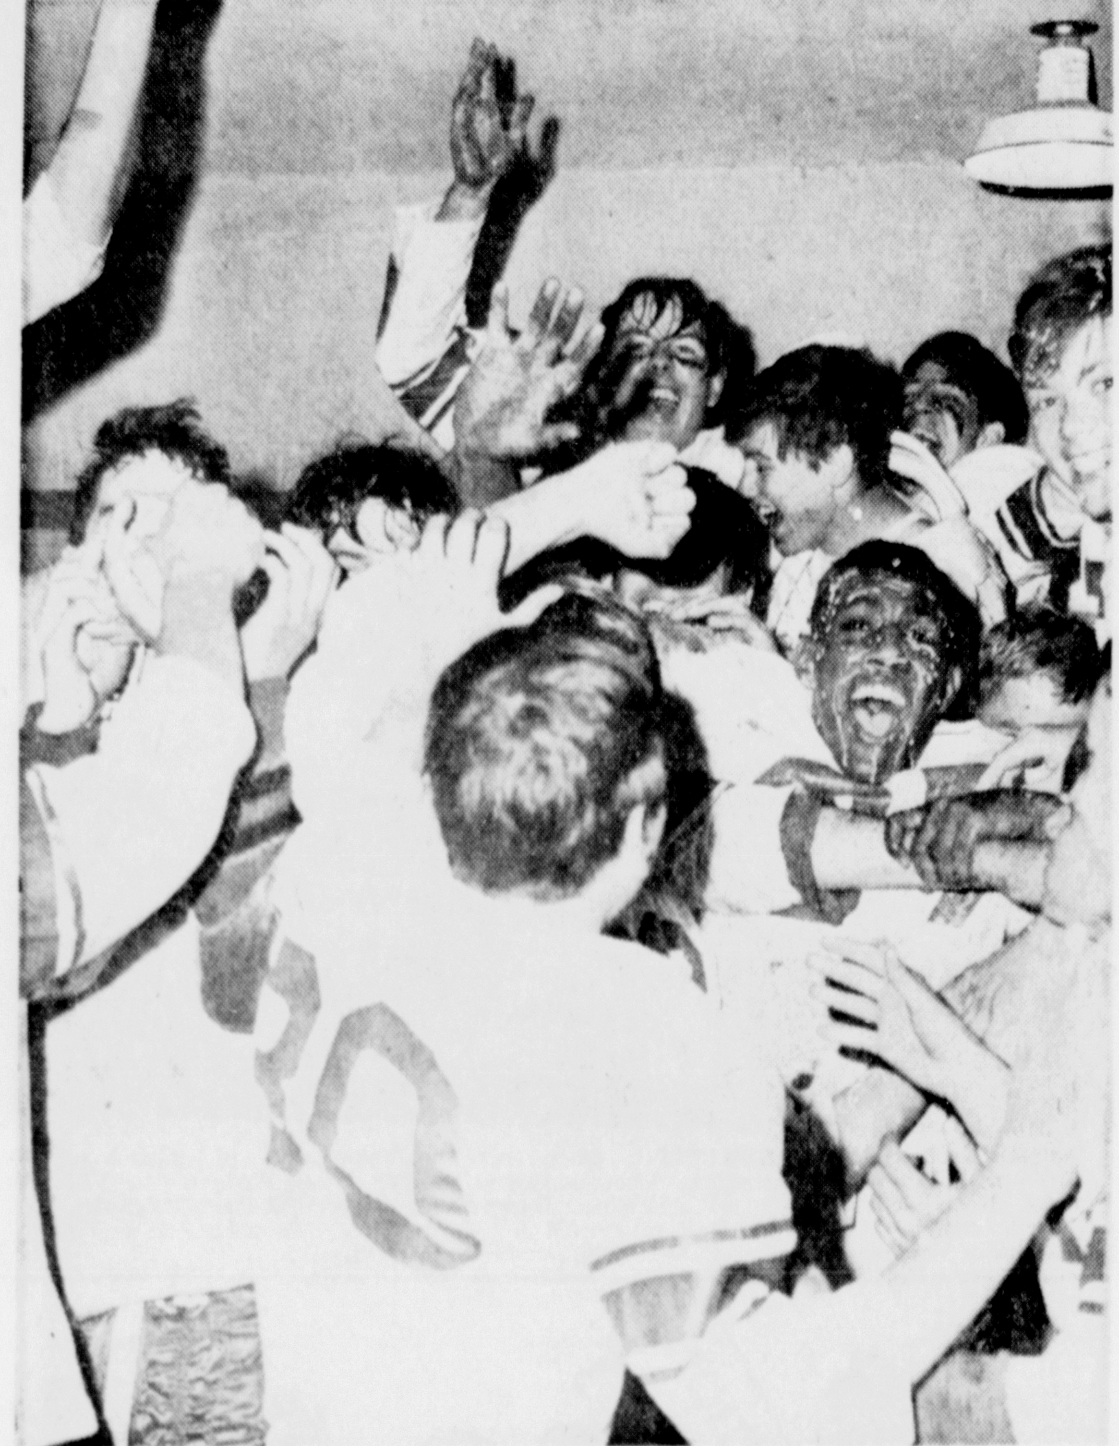

Purdue, 6-1 after walloping Illinois 42-9, moved up one place as did sixth-ranked Indiana. The Hoosiers, 7-0, edge Wisconsin, 14-9.

Wyoming, Oklahoma, Notre Dame and Houston round out the Top Ten in that order. Wyoming and Notre Dame advanced one place each while Oklahoma and Houston replaced Georgia and Colorado in the ratings.

Face Tulane

Tennessee faces Tulane, North Carolina State meets Penn State, UCLA plays Washington and Purdue takes on Minnesota this Saturday.

In other games involving ranked teams, Indiana plays Michigan State, Wyoming meets New Mexico, Oklahoma faces Iowa State, Notre Dame plays Pittsburgh and Houston goes up against Memphis State.

OCS Blasts Marlboro 38-13, in UCAL Finale

Colon Scores 4 TDs

Halfback George Colon scored four touchdowns—three on long passes from Quarterback Mickey Bush, as Ontario Central crushed Marlboro Central, 38-13, Monday to get a share of a three-way tie for second place in the Ulster County Athletic League.

Colon grabbed scoring arials of 45, 33, and 38 yards and booted over from the 4, while Bush completed his OCS career with a spectacular performance as he completed 7 of 10 passes for 175 yards.

One of the few players in OCS history to score four touchdowns in a game, Colon first hit paydirt on a 4-yard run in the 18-point period after Adsit had plunged from the 4 and Alan Cocks from the 6 to send OCS ahead 13-0. A 35-yard punt return by Carey Anderson set up the Cocks TD.

Bush hit Colon with a 45-yard scoring pass late in the second quarter to close out the half, 25-0. Bush and Colon again combined for a 33-yarder to run the OCS lead to 31-0 before Bill Gametta capped a 50-yard Marlboro by slamming over from the 3.

Early in the fourth period, Dale Sutton plunked two yards and Gametta ran the extra point to cap another 50-yard march and slice the OCS lead to 31-13. The Bush-Colon lightning again, struck Marlboro, this time from 38 yards out, for Colon's fourth touchdown of the day. Stoothoff kicked his second extra point to close out the score at 38-13.

Couch Paul Jordan, completing a 6-2 season, had high praise for Bush and Colon and the remainder of the Indian squad.

"We put it all together today," said Jordan. "Our offensive line clicked well and the defense was also outstanding. The 38 points was the highest total for Ontario this season. ## Holohan Hits 289

Moreika Slams 661 Series

Bill Moreika, a newcomer to area bowling circles, slammed a 661 series Monday night in the 4-Man Classic to pace Kingston area shooting. He reeled off solos of 211, 193 and 257.

Sharing the spotlight with Moreika was Bill Holohan who unloaded a 289 solo and 647 triple in the Chaplain league at Saugerties Bowling Center.

Lou Petramale bombed 654 in the 4-Man Classic, with Tibor Tomshaw and John Ferraro each hitting 645 in the same loop. Joe Dittus topped 640 to pace the City Minor.

Herb Petersen rolled 633 in the Summit, Jack Tremper, City Minor and Harry Bracklin, City Minor, tied at 628; Joe Bruno shot 626 in the 4-Man and Dick Howard had 625 in the Summit Classic.

The scores:

Howe, Hull Tied In NHL Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Gordie Howe of Detroit, belying his 39 years of age with one of his best early-season performances, has moved into a tie with Chicago's dynamic Bobby Hull in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The latest statistics revealed today that Howe, six-time scoring champion, has accumulated 640 points on 10 goals and six assists. Hull, the goal-scoring pacesetter with 11, has five assists. Howe in his 22nd NHL season, collected four goals and one assist in last week's games.

Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal is third in the scoring derby with 14 points. He is followed by Fred Stanfield and John McKenzie of Boston, Andy Bathgate of Pittsburgh, Dave Keon of Toronto, Jean Ratelle of New York and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, all tied with 13 points.

Cee Zam Cops Yonkers Feature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
George Sholly drove Cee Zam to victory Monday night in the $25,000 New York Sire Stakes.

trot, defeating favored Hankie Pankie by a length. The event for 4-year-olds, clocked over the mile in 2:10, highlighted the evening's harness racing in New York State.

Cee Zam posted her third win in 14 starts after coming from third and winning a stretch battle. Melrose Mamie was third. The winner returned $8.

In races featured at other tracks: Saratoga Raceway — Sudden Yankee ($8.50) edged Hay Fee Dream by a nose and won the $120,000 race in 2:07 2-5. Micka Girl was third. Batavia Downs — Grattwohl Byrd ($21.40), a 1-year-old, shot, clocked in 1:10 1-10, won the $100,000 race. Charlie trailed in third.

Bernie Moore Dies; Long Time SEC Head

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — Bernie Moore, the retired Southeastern Conference commissioner who guided the SEC to financial stability and a solid national reputation in college athletics, died Monday at the age of 72.

Moore built championship track and football teams in his 31-year coaching career and then served as SEC commissioner from 1948 to 1966.

Moore suffered an apparent heart attack at his home early Monday and died a short time later in a hospital. He and his wife, Ann, moved here following his retirement.

Survivors include his widow, a son, Dr. Bernie Moore Jr., of Huntsville, Ala.; two daughters, Mrs. Carroll Ellis and Mrs. David Condar, both of Nashville, and seven grandchildren.

Lindell Key to Army Grid Wins

No Glamor Boy But He Wins

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Steve Lindell is a tall, loose-jointed boy from Minnesota who is bothered by ulcers, hobbies around on a bad ankle, throws a pass like a washer-woman and looks anything but a football hero.

But if it's true that Army travels on its stomach, then it must be Lindell's stomach. He's the fellow who has the Army football team heading toward another fine season.

"He may not be a picture passer and he's no Olympic sprint champion, but he moves the team," Army Coach Tom Cahill said today. "To my mind, he is a wonderful athlete."

"What more do you want of a quarterback?"

Key Surprise Team
Lindell, a 6-foot, 180-pound junior from Princeton, Minn., is the key man on a surprising West Point football team that won eight of ten games last year and has taken six of its seven so far in the present campaign.

Beaten only by Duke and victor over such teams as Southern Methodist, Stanford and the Air Force, the Cadets go for victory No. 7 at Michie Stadium here Saturday against Utah.

"They're big and they score a lot of points," Cahill said of his next opponents. "We expect an interesting afternoon."

Lindell Ready
Then he added significantly: "But we're in good shape. Lindell is in good shape—in about as good shape as he can ever be."

Lindell had to be held out of the early games because he was troubled with a stomach ailment that turned out to be ulcers. In the SMU game, won by Army 24-6, he twisted his left ankle.

That didn't keep him from leading Army to a 10-7 victory over the Air Force last Saturday at Colorado Springs.

"Ben Martin (Air Force coach) said it best," Cahill remarked. "He said Lindell is not a very pretty passer but somehow he gets the ball to the target. That's what counts."

"What makes a good quarterback anyhow? One that can get touchdowns. Lindell does."

Maitland, Busch On All-East Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Maitland of Williams and Mike Busch of Temple, sophomore halfbacks, were named to the Eastern College Athletic Conference's Division II All-East football team for the second straight week today.

Maitland scored three touchdowns while Busch set a Temple record by gaining 176 yards rushing last Saturday.

Charlie Brush of Middlebury, a quarterback, and Ron Shap, a halfback, also were selected for backfield positions on the team.

Accuracy Not Distance Is Key to World Golf

By CHARLES GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Long ball hitters won't have much of a team championship they won play opens in the 72-hole World Cup Golf Tournament at the Club de Golf Mexico.

"This is a very narrow course," said Gary Player of South Africa. "Accuracy will be more important than distance."

Martin Roesink of Holland, one of professional golf's longest hitters, was inclined to agree.

"The fairways are very narrow and it'll be easy to get in trouble," he said. "The ball carries farther at this altitude so even people who normally wouldn't get it that far will be getting more distance than they and I doubt that the long hitters would at sea level. But accuracy will be the most important thing."

About half the 40 teams got in practice rounds Monday. The tee off Thursday morning rest were due in Mexico City in two-man teams to play for national prestige and personal honor in the 15th running of the tournament.

Palmer and Nicklaus, who were expected to be the last to arrive, were expected to be the last to arrive.

Pacers Teaching Colonels Cage Lesson the Hard Way

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indiana Pacers lead the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association and the Kentucky Colonels are learning it the hard way.

The Pacers beat the Colonels a third straight time 105-95 Monday night in Louisville, Ky., for their eighth victory in 10 games and increased their lead to two games over Minnesota and Pittsburgh.

In the only other ABA game, Denver posted a home-court victory in whipping Anaheim 121-100.

There were no National Basketball Association games scheduled.

Kentucky stayed close for 2½ periods before the Pacers opened the gap and maintained about a 10-point lead the rest of the way. Freddie Lewis finished with 33 points for the Pacers while Randy Mahaffey had 23 for Kentucky.

New Orleans spurred to an 81-59 halftime lead behind Red Robbins, who finished with 20 points. Doug Moe helped hold off Oakland in the second half and totaled 31 points.

Lavern Tart, the league's leading scorer, had 35 for the Oaks.

Denver's victory over Anaheim was sparked by a 14-point output in the second period by Wayne Hightower. The Rockets overcame a 28-27 first-quarter deficit, went ahead 53-48 at halftime and then broke the game wide open with 33 points in the third stanza.

Steve Chubin of the Amigos topped all scorers with 29 points. Lefty Thomas was high for Denver with 28 and Hightower contributed 27.

Nicklaus Wants Scoring System To Rate Golfers

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)

Professional golf's leading money winner, Jack Nicklaus, said Monday a financial report is not an accurate measure of a golfer's ability.

Nicklaus said, "There should be a point system. Give a tournament winner 50 points and so on down the line to the last payoff slot, the 50th."

Nicklaus said a player who finished in the top ten three out of four tournaments is a better golfer than one who wins a couple and fails to do much in between.

"In baseball, a .300 hitter is a better player than a fellow with a .200 average who hits a home run now and then," Nicklaus said.

He said even the method of figuring golfers' winnings is faulty.

The PGA lists Nicklaus as having won $188,988 in "official" tournaments—those sponsored by the PGA—and $22,568 in "unofficial" prizes from unsanctioned tournaments.

The PGA figures do not include $50,000 he won in the World Series of Golf. "If you win it playing golf, it's all money," Nicklaus contended.

Nicklaus said as a new member of the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Committee, he will push for a different method of rating golfers.

Behnke Elected Racing Head

Lee Behnke was elected president of the Kingston-Ulster Racing Pigeon Club for the 1968 season.

Others officers are Tony Lanzarone, vice president; Frank Knox, recording secretary; George D'Angelo, treasurer; and Dick Brightly, race secretary.

Plans were made for the 9th annual pigeon show, scheduled Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Port Ewen Auditorium.

Judging will begin at noon and doors will open at 8 a. m. Pigeon fanciers will have a choice of 24 classes. An entry list will be available at the door.

Wilt Far Back In Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt, oh Wilt, where are you Wilt?

Here are the National Basketball Association scoring statistics and no Wilt Chamberlain to be found among the leading point producers.

Philadelphia's Chamberlain, the NBA's all-time scoring king, is averaging 13.6 points per game and his total of 199 points isn't enough to get him in the NBA's top 20 much less its top 10.

But Wilt, who didn't even attempt a shot in last Saturday's game against San Francisco, still leads the league in field goal percentage with a nifty .568 average on 46-for-81 and stands third in rebounds and assists.

Jimmy King of San Francisco is the leading scorer with 322 points, while teammate Nate Thurmond tops the rebounders with 313 and Len Wilkens of St. Louis leads in assists with 92.

Chamberlain's 74 assists average out to 9.3 per game—the best average in the league in that department. Wilt has grabbed 190 rebounds—a 24.1 average that ties him with Thurmond for the top game figure.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth did not win a tournament last weekend, but she did set a record for the most money ever won by a professional woman golfer in a single year.

The 29-year-old Texan also continued to lead the 1967 Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament by more than $6,000.

Miss Whitworth's prize money for a second-place tie in the Corpus Christi, Tex., Civitan came to $1,387. This raised her total for the year to $42,585 in official and unofficial winnings.

Sandra Haynie set the previous record in 1966 with total earnings of $41,444.

Clifford Ann Creed won the $11,500 Civitan, but the tournament results made no change in the standings. Miss Whitworth is first with $31,517.50 in official earnings, followed by Miss Haynie with $25,178 and Carol Mann with $22,950. Miss Creed is sixth with $17,010.50.

Woman Fined, Charged With False Report

Charged with making a false report to authorities, Christine Connell, 21, of RD 3, Box 161, Kingston, was arrested Monday night by State Police BCI Investigator Fred Cooper and Trooper R. G. Bergin.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, the woman pleaded guilty and was fined $50, according to Trooper Thomas Searles of the Kingston substation.

According to investigators, the defendant complained to state police at 9 p. m., that someone had stolen her pocketbook containing a diamond ring she valued at $1,200. Trooper Searles said investigation disclosed the complaint was false and the arrest was made.

The woman said the alleged theft occurred in the ladies room at a store on Route 9W near the entrance road to the Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge.

Woolworth's Loot, $5,200; Probe Goes On

Investigation continued today by Sheriff William B. Martin's men into the burglary at the F. W. Woolworth store in the Ulster Shopping Plaza, which was discovered early Monday by Deputies James Mileski and Ronald Williams.

County Investigator Harold T. Bowers, who is directing the investigation with Sheriff Martin, said this morning that an inventory taken of merchandise at the store disclosed loot valued at $5,200 had been stolen.

The thief, or thieves, entered the building through a skylight after reaching the roof by standing on a truck or car, which evidently had been used to cart away the stolen property.

The loot consisted of radios, assorted jewelry, watches, coats, belts, luggage and other articles.

Sit-in for Silence

HONOLULU (AP) — The University of Hawaii had a new kind of sit-in.

R. M. Worth, professor of public health, and his epidemiology class of 56 graduate students sat in the path of a bulldozer digging a drainage ditch.

The professor and the students were not protesting drainage ditches.

They simply were trying to hold class—a near impossibility inside with the bulldozer in operation outside.

The professor gave the bulldozer operator a class schedule and 24 hours' notice that he'd move in the vehicle's path unless the machine was silenced when the students gathered.

The driver talked to the foreman but was told work had to continue to meet a contract deadline.

The students then carried their chairs "and we moved outside with a portable blackboard," Worth said.

"It's a two-hour course. At the end of the first hour we were assured the work would not continue so we moved back inside the building."

MAY RESIGN — R. Sargent Shriver (shown in '65 photo), director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), announced here Monday that he would resign his post if OEO spending in the current fiscal year is slashed to $1.2 billion. In a bill now before the House, the agency requested $2.6 billion. It was the first time Shriver had talked publicly of quitting, but there has been strong speculation that he would leave his post after the beleaguered anti-poverty bill passes Congress. ### New Yule Gift

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas specialty store of Netman-Marcus has confirmed the beastly truth: Some Texan has plunked down $2,100 to buy his or her mate a camel for Christmas.

The camel is half of the store's annual "his or hers" novelty gift offering. Past Christmases have featured "his or hers" submarines and bathtubs.

The name of the buyer was withheld, the store said, adding that it came from "outside the immediate Dallas area."

Woman Fined, Charged With False Report

Charged with making a false report to authorities, Christine Connell, 21, of RD 3, Box 161, Kingston, was arrested Monday night by State Police BCI Investigator Fred Cooper and Trooper R. G. Bergin.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, the woman pleaded guilty and was fined $50, according to Trooper Thomas Seales of the Kingston substation.

According to investigators, the defendant complained to state police at 9 p. m., that someone had stolen her pocketbook containing a diamond ring she valued at $1,200. Trooper Seales said investigation disclosed the complaint was false and the arrest was made.

The woman said the alleged theft occurred in the ladies room at a store on Route 9W near the entrance road to the Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge.

Mac Confident Of 2-Way Fight

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara declared today the nation can fight aggression abroad and still combat poverty, urban decay and social injustice at home.

The Pentagon chief said the nation is strong enough materially and technologically to do both.

But, in what appeared to be indirect criticism of Congress, McNamara said "what we may lack is the will power."

His comments came in a speech prepared for the 43rd convention of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

"We can curb aggression abroad," McNamara asserted. "And we can meet our pressing social problems here at home. And we can do both at the same time if we will use widely existing institutions and available resources."

McNamara cited as evidence three socially oriented programs currently being administered by the Pentagon the move to force rental property owners to admit Negro servicemen; a project to educate rejected draftees; and an effort to help men leaving the service to make a productive transition to civilian life.

He cast the Defense Department as a potentially powerful contributor "to the solution of the social problems wracking our nation."

The open-housing program has moved slowly and McNamara said he would have to share responsibility for it.

"Our original voluntary program to correct off-base housing discrimination floundered and fell apart," McNamara said. "It lacked sufficient leadership from the top—starting with me and going right on down through the senior echelon of the Defense establishment."

Now the Pentagon is embarked on a program that makes off-limits to all servicemen any apartment or trailer house area which discriminates against Negroes.

Lost Purse Found

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A small brown purse belonging to the daughter of the late Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist Louis Bromfield has been found after 24 years.

The purse belongs to Miss Anne Chalmers Bromfield, who lives in Lucas, Ohio.

A workman discovered the purse when he was digging under the third floor of Hickman Hall in a renovation of the Stephens College building. Miss Bromfield completed her senior year in high school at Stephens in 1943.

ESCAPES — Claude Tenne, 31, a former OAS (Secret Army Organization) member who escaped Saturday from the St. Martin maximum security prison on the island of Re, France, appears in a recent police photo. Convicted in 1961 for killing an Algerian police official as part of a campaign opposed to Algerian independence and serving a life term in prison before he escaped, Tenne is the object of 150,000 man police manhunt. Security has been tightened around Charles DeGaulle. Though fabulous escapes from island prisons have appeared in French fiction, Tenne is the first man to actually escape from St. Martin. ## Mac Confident Of 2-Way Fight

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara declared today the nation can fight aggression abroad and still combat poverty, urban decay and social injustice at home.

The Pentagon chief said the nation is strong enough materially and technologically to do both.

But, in what appeared to be indirect criticism of Congress, McNamara said "what we may lack is the will power."

His comments came in a speech prepared for the 43rd convention of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

"We can curb aggression abroad," McNamara asserted. "And we can meet our pressing social problems here at home. And we can do both at the same time if we will use widely existing institutions and available resources."

McNamara cited as evidence three socially oriented programs currently being administered by the Pentagon the move to force rental property owners to admit Negro servicemen; a project to educate rejected draftees; and an effort to help men leaving the service to make a productive transition to civilian life.

He cast the Defense Department as a potentially powerful contributor "to the solution of the social problems wracking our nation."

The open-housing program has moved slowly and McNamara said he would have to share responsibility for it.

"Our original voluntary program to correct off-base housing discrimination floundered and fell apart," McNamara said. "It lacked sufficient leadership from the top—starting with me and going right on down through the senior echelon of the Defense establishment."

Now the Pentagon is embarked on a program that makes off-limits to all servicemen any apartment or trailer house area which discriminates against Negroes.

ESCAPES — Claude Tenne, 31, a former OAS (Secret Army Organization) member who escaped Saturday from the St. Martin maximum security prison on the island of Re, France, appears in a recent police photo. Convicted in 1961 for killing an Algerian police official as part of a campaign opposed to Algerian independence and serving a life term in prison before he escaped. Tenne is the object of 150,000 man police manhunt. Security has been tightened around Charles DeGaulle. Though fabulous escapes from island prisons have appeared in French fiction, Tenne is the first man to actually escape from St. Martin. (UPI CABLE)

Dear Abby

'P.K.' Is Proud of Dad

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column signed "P. K." which means "Preacher's Kid," and it "sure made me mad. She said she didn't want to tell people that she was a preacher's kid because she didn't want to be treated any different. As a matter of fact, she sounded like she was ashamed.

Well, I have news for her, Abby whether she likes it or not, she is "branded," so to speak. But she has the wrong idea. If she knew what a privilege it is to be a preacher's kid, she would be telling everyone about it, instead of hiding it.

Abby, I know what it's like to be a preacher's kid because I am one, and I never felt that people treated me any different because of it, and I've always had plenty of friends.

Maybe this girl's problem is not with her daddy, but with her self. I've got the best daddy in the world, and I thank God that he's a preacher. I wouldn't want him to be anything else.

PROUD P. K.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the "P. K." who said that as soon as kids found out she was a preacher's kid, they didn't want her for a friend.

I am not a preacher's kid, but I know a few, and I think I know their problem. They are so worried that people will think they are "goody goodies" that they go to extremes to act just the opposite, and turn out to be the wildest, pushiest kids around. (Especially the girls.)

Preacher's kids should just act normal. Most kids don't care what another kid's father does anyway.

KNOWS SOME

DEAR ABBY: I have a very serious problem and you are the only person I can ask for help. I think I have a venereal disease, and don't know what to do about it. I noticed it about 3 months ago, but wasn't sure what it was. I'm still not sure, but I know that something is wrong.

I can't go to our family doctor because I am too ashamed and embarrassed. Besides, I'm afraid he will tell my parents. I don't know where to turn, Abby. I know I have to do something about this for my own good.

Any help you can give me in your column will be very much appreciated. Thank you.

WORRIED DEAR ABBY: You can go to your family doctor and be sure that he will treat you and not betray your confidence. If you doubt it, then telephone your local health department. (Look in the yellow pages under "government offices, city and county.") Tell them you want to see a doctor, and why. I urge you to act at once! Your health, and the health of those around you, is at stake.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please inform your readers that when a woman becomes a widow she does not suddenly become "Mrs. Jane Somebody." She remains "Mrs. John Somebody." I lost my husband a few months ago, and so many of my well-meaning (but ignorant) friends have started to address their letters to "Mrs. Jane Doe." It's bad enough to lose one's husband without being stripped of his name. Please print this, and sign it please:

MRS. "HIS NAME" Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Wednesday, November 8, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Accident on friends, desires. Key is to be selective. You could step out of bounds without knowing it. Nail down requirements. Be specific in making requests.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Accident on professional efforts. You could receive push in right direction. Don't resist opportunity for advancement. Go directly to top. Eliminate verbiage, red tape.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Favorable lunar aspect coincides today with chance to learn, gain through reading. Accident on publishing, writing, advertising. Long distance communication is important.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Check resources. Mate or partner appears to take initiative. Much attention centers around hidden, unusual subjects. Your interest in the unknown is spurred.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress on dealings with public. Some persons may be skeptical. Be ready to answer questions. Frankness is great ally. Trying to cover up could cause others to lose confidence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Display versatility. Have good words for fellow workers. Sense of humor can overcome apparent obstacles. Obtain hint from LEO message. Avoid excess.

CATCH UP ON ROUTINE TASKS. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accident on romantic, creative interests. Break through to greater degree of self-expression. Find out the why of things. Investigate. Ask questions. Obtain answers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):

Changes due at home. Family expresses desire which could be considered eccentric. Keep open mind. Attempting to restrict could encourage minor rebellion. Act accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on relatives, short journeys. Today you can put ideas to practical use. Key is to concentrate forces. Some try to discourage you. Be fair but firm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stress today on money, possessions, income potential. Be practical. Overcome tendency to wish instead of act. If analytical, you gain. Otherwise, there could be loss.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cycle is high. You get action. Success due to crown efforts. Day to take initiative. Be original. Display independence of thought, action. New contacts prove favorable.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Today you make right moves. Fluency spreads. You gain in and impress unusual people. In prestige. But much of this is quiet, behind-the-scenes. Unique period.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intense, emotional, tend to go overboard where opposite sex is concerned. Domestic adjustment occurred this year which deeply affects your life.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for AQUARIUS, PISCES, ARIES. Special word to SCORPIO: don't trade something for nothing.

Andy Williams TV Natural

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was pleasant indeed to have Andy Williams back in the living room Monday night.

This season Williams is doing the special instead of weekly show. In his case, this only means that he won't be around as often since the program seemed no more elaborate, the guest stars made about the same contributions and the same as it was when Williams was turning out a program every seven days.

And that means it was a very good show.

But then Andy Williams is one of those naturals for television variety. So are Dean Martin and Perry Como. They all stroll on where so many others run. They sing smoothly and effortlessly. Their humor is the kind that brings chuckles rather than roars. They just don't try to come on strong and the result is usually a happy, relaxed hour for the viewers. Williams' NBC show abandoned the rigid format of his old series but maintained that fine quality of intimacy. Working with guest stars Henry Mancini and orchestra pianist Erroll Garner and his wife, Claudine Longet, Andy really loaded in the songs and ranged from old ones like "I Can't Give You Anything But Love" to "I Dig Rock 'n' Roll Music."

Thomas Family Reunited
Earlier Danny Thomas on the same network pulled off an amusing stunt. His hour show brought together his old "family" in a skit purporting to show what has happened in the three seasons since he dropped the long-playing situation comedy. Marjorie Lord, his "wife" on the show, hasn't changed much, but my, those kids have grown a lot in a few years.

however, on next Monday's CBS "Carol Burnett Show," but singing, dancing and playing comedy sketches instead of taking temperatures.

Recommended tonight: "Where We Stand in Vietnam," CBS, 10-11 EST, report, with panel shows. He will return, Charles Collingwood.

Plant Supt.—Why did you persuade Uncle Tom to take up golf? Now he'll live forever.

Irate Golfer—You must take your children away from here, madam. This is no place for them.

Mother—Don't you worry—they can't hear nothing new. Their father was a sergeant-major, he was.

There's a new cigarette on the market. It comes equipped with ear plugs for those who don't want to hear why they should quit smoking.

Harry—Are you bothered by prowlers way out here in the country?

Larry—No. I have a sign on the gate that says: We are Vegetarians But Our Dog Isn't.

A lady was talking vehemently about a certain book in the library. "Why, it's awful! Simply awful! I wouldn't want anybody to see me carrying it around! I had the librarian wrap it up both times I checked it out."

Jim—I've finished with that girl.

Joe—Why?

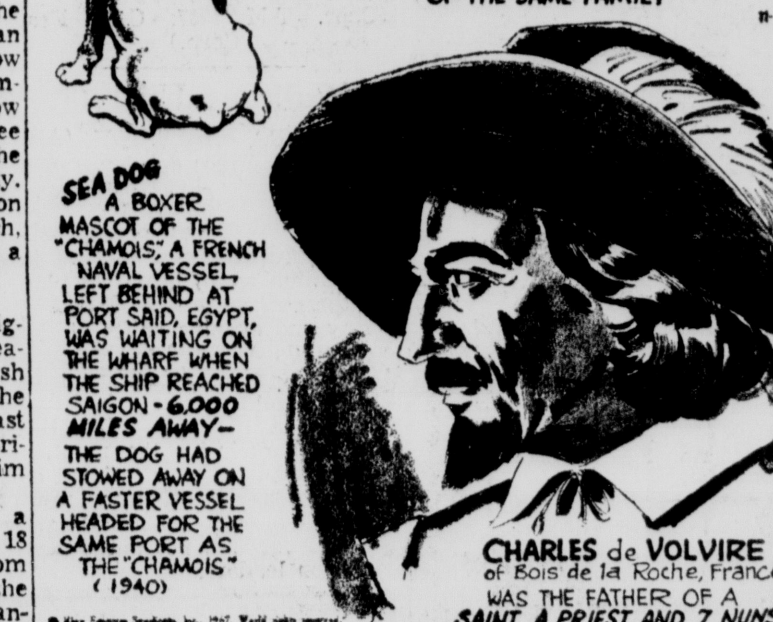

Jim—She asked me if I danced.

Joe—What's so insulting about that?

Jim—I was dancing with her when she asked me.

A "fact" is anything that hasn't been proved wrong.

Plant Supt.'s Brother—Don't you believe it—he'll swear himself into apoplexy.

Irate Golfer—You must take your children away from here, madam. This is no place for them.

Mother—Don't you worry—they can't hear nothing now. Their father was a sergeant-major, he was.

There's a new cigarette on the market. It comes equipped with ear plugs for those who don't want to hear why they should quit smoking.

Harry—Are you bothered by prowlers way out here in the country?

Larry—No. I have a sign on the gate that says: We are Vegetarians But Our Dog Isn't.

A lady was talking vehemently about a certain book in the library. "Why, it's awful! Simply awful! I wouldn't want anybody to see me carrying it around! I had the librarian wrap it up both times I checked it out."

Jim—I've finished with that girl.

Joe—Why?

Jim—She asked me if I danced.

Joe—What's so insulting about that?

Jim—I was dancing with her when she asked me.

A "fact" is anything that hasn't been proved wrong.

And that means it was a very good show.

But then Andy Williams is one of those naturals for television variety. So are Dean Martin and Perry Como. They all stroll on where so many others run. They sing smoothly and effortlessly. Their humor is the kind that brings chuckles rather than roars. They just don't try to come on strong and the result is usually a happy, relaxed hour for the viewers. Williams' NBC show abandoned the rigid format of his old series but maintained that fine quality of intimacy. Working with guest stars Henry Mancini and orchestra, pianist Erroll Garner and his wife, Claudine Longet, Andy really loaded in the songs and ranged from old ones like "I Can't Give You Anything But Love" to "I Dig Rock 'n' Roll Music."

Thomas 'Family' Reunited

Earlier Danny Thomas on the same network pulled off an amusing stunt. His hour show brought together his old "family" in a skit purporting to show what has happened in the three seasons since he dropped the long-playing situation comedy. Marjorie Lord, his "wife" on the show, hasn't changed much, but my, those kids have grown a lot in a few years.

NBC will present its first original dramatic show of the season, William Hanley's "Flesh and Blood" on Jan. 26. The two-hour program, taped last summer, stars Edmond O'Brien, E.G. Marshall and Kim Stanley.

CBS will give the public a pre-Christmas gift on Dec. 18 with an hour of excerpts from "The Drop of Another Hat," the two-man show of Michael Flannery and Donald Swann that was one of last season's broad-way hits.

Dr. Kildare Back

Since the departure of "Dr. Kildare" from the networks, Richard Chamberlain has rarely been seen by the viewers—not even as a guest celebrity on panel shows. He will return, however, on next Monday's CBS "Carol Burnett Show," but singing, dancing and playing comedy sketches instead of taking temperatures.

Recommended tonight:

"Where We Stand in Vietnam," CBS, 10-11 EST, report, with panel shows. He will return, however, on next Monday's CBS "Carol Burnett Show," but singing, dancing and playing comedy sketches instead of taking temperatures.

Snow Coats Buffalo, More Due Tonight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Snow continued to pelt the Buffalo area today in sporadic squalls and flurries, giving Election Day a white Christmas atmosphere. Two deaths were linked to the weather.

The area, which was virtually untouched by a weekend snowfall that left up to 31 inches on the ground in southwestern New York, was coated Monday by three to five inches of snow.

An additional two to four inches were forecast to fall overnight in the city and its eastern and northern suburbs. The Weather Bureau predicted a gradual tapering off as the day progressed. Temperatures were expected to reach the mid 30s.

The storm made roads slippery throughout the metropolitan area, causing numerous accidents and traffic tie-ups.

The icy conditions were blamed for an accident at North Collins that claimed the life of John Duvall, 30, of Blasdell. Police said his automobile skidded along Route 75, striking a tree head-on.

Residents struggled to keep their sidewalks and driveways clear. One Mrs. Anna Szykowski, 75, was stricken fatally by an apparent heart attack Monday night as she shoveled in front of her home in Cheektowatch.

The Greater Buffalo International Airport was closed intermittently during the afternoon when visibility dropped below safety minimums. Many incoming flights were diverted to Rochester, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Communities in northern and western Chautauque County, hardest hit by the weekend squalls off Lake Erie, began to receive clear skies as the snow veered north toward Buffalo.

In its wake, the storm left a foot or more of snow in many places, with Mayville reporting a 32-inch total.

Heavy snow also was reported in Upstate New York's other traditional snowbelt east of Lake Ontario, and the Weather Bureau said more was expected today occurring as local squalls.

A Close Watch Due on Romney

BY JACK BELL, AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney's expected early announcement of his GOP presidential nomination candidacy appears directed at locking in wavering supporters and offsetting his slide in popularity polls.

An announcement by the Michigan governor that he is in the running seems likely to guarantee him continued public support of his cause by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, at least until next spring's presidential primaries.

Romney has said he'll announce his decision Nov. 18. There has been concern with in the Rockefeller camp about Romney's recent public performances and about his ability to mount a convincing campaign not only for the nomination but for the presidency if he wins the party's nod.

Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R.N.Y., reportedly have agreed that if Romney becomes a formal candidate they will stick with him until the spring primaries provide some assessment of his vote-getting ability.

In the meantime they intend to watch closely how he performs in the campaign and how he handles the sticky policy questions that he would face almost daily after an announcement. It is no secret that Rockefeller and Javits are less than pleased by Romney's performance to date in fielding tough policy questions.

They think, however, that his position in the popularity polls will improve if he is a declared candidate who shows he means business and displays some concrete qualifications for the nation's top job.

A declaration would give Romney some official status on a trip he announced Monday he will take to West and East Europe, the Middle East, South Asia, including South Vietnam, and the Far East from Dec. 7 until early January.

He said he will "explore international problems through exchanges of views with foreign government and other leaders" but will make no speeches and hold no news conferences. If despite this effort to bone up on foreign affairs Romney stumbles badly in the campaign or in the primaries Rockefeller and Javits may have to scramble quickly to find another moderate to support.

This would assume that the New York governor persists in his public and private avowals that he won't himself become involved in the contest.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas keeps beating the drums for his brother, calling him a "formidable candidate" for the presidency, a conclusion the poll-takers support at the moment.

Percy Grateful
The Arkansas governor also suggested Monday at a New York news conference that Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., would make a good GOP vice presidential candidate. He called Percy "a thoughtful person who has interesting and exciting ideas."

Disclaiming any current vice presidential ambitions, Percy said he was "grateful for Winthrop Rockefeller's kind words." Asked about California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who has been suggested for a second man on a ticket headed by New York's governor, Winthrop Rockefeller said Reagan's views are too divergent from those of his brother.

The Arkansas governor dismissed the potential candidacy of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, saying "voters are tiring of him."

But a poll by Louis Harris, published Monday by The Washington Post, showed Nixon running ahead of President Johnson in popularity for the first time. The Harris Poll also reported its survey showed that currently, Johnson would be defeated by five other GOP presidential prospects: Nelson Rockefeller, Romney, Reagan, Percy and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

The Gallup Poll also reported Monday that Johnson's popularity is at an all-time low, with 50 per cent of those surveyed disapproving of his actions, 38 per cent approving and 12 per cent with no opinion.

Uphold Verdict In Sullivan Damage Suit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "The doctrine that every dog is entitled to one free bite, if it ever prevailed in this state, is no longer followed," the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court says.

The second highest court in the state made that point Monday in reversing a lower court decision in a dog - attack case from Sullivan County.

The case was brought by the parents of William J. Lagoda, a Fosterdale boy who was knocked from his bicycle by a German Shepherd named Tippy more than four years ago. The boy received a broken arm in the fall but was not bitten.

Lagoda won jury verdicts of $1 damages and $1,689 special damages (medical expenses) in State Supreme Court. State Supreme Court Judge William J. Deckelman, however, set aside the jury verdict and dismissed the complaints on the ground that the dog-owner had insufficient previous evidence to indicate that the dog would be dangerous.

The appellate court disagreed, and reinstated the verdicts. It also stipulated that the damages be increased to $6,000, or a new trial - limited to the issue of damages - be ordered.

INVESTOR FORUM

ECONOMIC OPTIMISM
By HARRY C. FRANCE

An economic pessimist, blue as indigo, was recently quoting statistics at length to me. He tried to convince me that this great country is certain to have the worst depression in its history.

For instance, he pointed out that in October, 1966, the federal debt was $324 billion and a year later it was $336 billion. In the meantime, Congress had lifted the ceiling on the debt to $358 billion and, doubtless, this limit will have to be lifted again soon.

I told him to come back the next day at which time I would have some answers to his pessimism. And here is what I said:

In 1966 five giant corporations in America—all leaders in their fields—had gross incomes of more than $50 billion, which is more than the total 1932 national income. Think of it—in 1966 five basic corporations did more business here than was done in 1932 when a depression was on.

These corporations are General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, Sears, Roebuck and U. S. Steel.

Furthermore, last year these great, well-managed enterprises paid more than $3.95 billion in taxes. In other words, besides employing hundreds of thousands of workers and executives at good pay and salaries, these corporations made profits which, when taxed, brought tax collectors nearly $4 billion.

There can be no doubt about the gigantic financial responsibilities of the U. S. government. Congressional leaders are right in insisting that, with the Vietnam war's cost so high, domestic spending be reduced.

A dollar spent by a tax-paying corporation is much more potent than a dollar spent by the government. The government pays no taxes. It spends taxes.

Every voter in America should keep informed on the decisions in Congress voted by his senator or representative. And if the federal spending is not in tune with the voter's wishes, he should protest.

But this country, with its high standards of living, its growing economic power and its corporate vitality, is so strong that economic pessimism has no rightful place here.

Responsibilities of every nature demand strength. And the social, political and economic strengths of the United States will continue to keep this great country on an even keel.

America needs an army of economic optimists, not pessimists.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — More than 600 employees of a Corborundum Co. plant here staged wildcat walkouts Monday, reportedly over delays in negotiation of an incentive plan for the facility.

Angelo Augustino, president of Local 12058, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (AFL-CIO) said the walkout was not authorized by union leaders.

The action is brought to recover for injuries which Nancy Saperstein then 19, received when she fell from a horse drawn toboggan at the dude ranch Feb. 1, 1964. She suffered a broken right leg just above the ankle. It is alleged the device struck a mound of snow and she was thrown off and the toboggan struck her leg.

Greenspan and Aurnou appear for plaintiff and Goldstein and Goldstein for defendants. The case is being tried before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury.

FIRST BIRTHDAY SALE

Superb Carpet Woven in the Old World Tradition

by Skilled Craftsman Proud of Their Carpet Creations

Enduring elegance, lush texture, comfort and long wear. Every aspect of this Acrilan® acrylic carpet approaches perfection. Woven on famous Wilton looms, heavy 3-ply yarns give this carpet a full-bodied texture that wears for years and years. Only the Wilton weave can create such delicacy of detail . . . a graceful scroll pattern that wends its way over the double-level pile. And here is carpet with 74.8% more Acrilan acrylic than usual industry standards require. Why? Because Sears cares how your carpet wears. Extra depths of luxury yarns give you special resiliency and resistance to matting. Extra quality that creates true carpet elegance. See samples of nine fashion-perfect colors in your home.
